Two Ex-Ministers Charged in Quebec

Senate Backs Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate ratified the history-making limited nuclear test-ban treaty today.

Approval of the pact banning nuclear weapons testing in the atmosphere, in outer space and underwater, came after more than two weeks of committee hearings and an equal time of Senate debate.

With a two-thirds vote of the 100-member senate required for approval, the resolution went through on a 80-to-19 roll call.

The treaty, signed at Moscow Aug. 5 by the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain, was sent to the Senate by President Kennedy Aug. 8 with these words:

"While it will not end the threat of nuclear war or outlaw the use of nuclear weapons, it can reduce world tensions, open a way to further agreements" and "help to ease the threat of war."

FEAR FOR SECURITY

Opponents contended it jeopardizes national security, freezes a Soviet advantage in high-yield weapons, and permits the Russians to continue development underground in the small weapons field where the United States now leads.

The treaty came under scathing attack from Senators Richard B. Russell (Dem. Ga.), chairman of the Senate armed services committee; John Stennis (Dem. Miss.), who heads its preparedness sub-committee, Strom Thurmond (Dem. S.C.) and others.

Russell expressed fears it might be the first step toward complete disarmament without the safeguard of inspection. He and the others said they were concerned that Soviet moratorium-breaking atmospheric tests in 1961 and 1962 put them at an advantage in high yield weapons, in anti-ballistic weapons system knowledge and in way to harden missile emplacements.

But, in the end an overwhelming majority of the Senate went along with the endorsement of the military joint chiefs of staff, who said that with four specified safeguards, the military "risks and disadvantages," were acceptable.

REASSURED BY JFK

Kennedy, in a letter read to the senate by Senator Everett M. Dirksenof Illinois, the Republican leader, gave the Senate "unqualified and unequivocal assurances" U.S. security would be protected under the treaty.

He gave assurances that the United States will meet the military's four points by continuing an aggressive program of underground testing, maintaining a healthy laboratory weapons development program, keeping up a readiness to resume atmospheric testing if the Russians cheat, and expanding and improving its facilities for detecting such cheating as well as checking on Sino - Soviet atomic progress.

Many proponents laid heavy stress on the curbs the treaty would put on radioactive fallout by halting atmospheric testing.

Kennedy, in his message, called it the "first concrete result of 18 years of efforts by the United States to impose limits on the nuclear arms race."

Senate approval was the last big hurdle the treaty had to clear before it could become effective. But there are still other steps necessary to put the pact in force.

The next major action by the United States will be the formal ratification of the treaty by President Kennedy. Officials said today that it should be possible for this step to be taken within a few days.

Finally, the treaty will become effective when instruments of ratification are deposited by the United States, Britain and Russia in each of their three capitals. This is an unusual procedure but one which the three nuclear powers agreed on when they negotiated the pact in Moscow in July.

"DON'T BE AFRAID" of League of Frightened Men, Liberal Leader Ray Perrault (above) told Victoria audience Monday night. He said the league is headed by oil tycoon Frank McMahon. (Bill Halkett photo.)

PERRAULT WARNING

'Bogeymen Are Coming To Frighten Voters'

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett is about to call in "bogeymen" from industry to try and frighten voters into supporting Social Credit, Liberal leader Ray Perrault predicted Monday night.

He made a fierce personal attack on oil tycoon Frank McMahon who, he said, would lead another last-minute attempt to scare the voters as he did in 1960.

Mr. Perrault spoke to 200 people at Lansdowne Junior High School at what was planned to be the local Liberals' major meeting of the election campaign.

On election day 1960, Mr. Perrault recalled, Mr. McMahon, president of Westcoast Transmission Co. Ltd., grabbed the headlines with a statement that if B.C. voted NDP it would lose 10,000 jobs and a $450,000,000 northern pipeline.

'JUMP ON YOU'

"In the next few days — watch for it — it's coming," Mr. Perrault said.

"They're going to try and jump on you like bogeymen.

"They're going to try to frighten you out of your wits."

Mr. Perrault said he had received a telephone call from a B.C. businessman who said he had been asked to appear on a television series featuring other top industrial leaders supporting Social Credit. He said Mr. McMahon was to be the first.

Mr. Perrault said that most of Social Credit's election manifesto was written by Dan Ekman, Mr. McMahon's personal assistant and formerly the premier's top aide.

"Right out of his mind," said Mr. Perrault.

PIPELINE

"Mr. Ekman was the pipeline that Mr. McMahon built into the premier's office for his league of frightened men.

"The league of frightened men is at work again today. These are their advertisements you see in the newspapers today.

"There'll be more of them—just as there were in 1960—battering at the sanity of this province with the fear of socialism.

"McMahon and other industrialists of this province are the men who started paying their dues to the Social Gimmick Party in 1952."

Mr. Perrault said these men are not really afraid of socialism—only afraid of Premier Bennett.

"Mr. Bennett over the past 11 years has insidiously taken over control of their industries."

Mr. Perrault said these industries were forestry, mining, oil and gas.

JETS BUZZ BRITISH EVACUEES

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Indonesian Air Force MiG-21 jet fighters buzzed the airport terminal here tonight as a group of British men, women and children waited to be evacuated after their embassy was burned by mobs last week.

About 30 minutes before an airliner was due to take off with part of the evacuees, two Indonesian jets screamed low over the terminal building.

Everyone inside ducked as the building shook under the roar of the jets. The two MiGs circled the airport before landing near the waiting Quantas Australian airliner.

The group, mainly businessmen and their families, was escorted to the airport under a strong police guard to board a jet airliner to Europe and another plane was due to take a group of 40 British evacuees to Singapore.

Road Promised To Port Hardy

Special to The Times

NANAIMO—Cheering, punctuated by some heckling, greeted Premier W. A. C. Bennett at a campaign meeting here Monday night that drew 600 spectators.

The premier spoke on behalf of Recreation Minister Earle Westwood, who won the riding by a bare 51 votes in 1961. At that time, Premier Bennett's campaign speech in Nanaimo met a generally hostile reception.

The premier announced that Dawson Wade Company tendered the lowest bid, $740,690, for construction of the first 10 miles of right-of-way involved in the PGE extension from Prince George to Fort St James.

IN SEVEN YEARS

But the loudest applause came when Mr. Bennett said the Social Credit manifesto included a plan to provide a blacktop road to Port Hardy within seven years.

The Albernis would be connected to the Port Hardy route by a new road.

He gave no starting dates but said the northern Vancouver Island community would also be linked to the proposed northern trans-provincial highway and Alaska by ferry systems.

The northern highway also is included in the seven-year manifesto, involving construction of a paved highway from Jasper to Prince Rupert.

He said the new roads would make B.C. the leading tourist attraction on earth,

'I'M PROUD'

"They call us the hard-top government in derision, my friends, but I am proud of it," Mr. Bennett said.

"They call the others the washboard parties and the women have thrown the wash-

SETBACKS HIT MURDER PROBE

City police today are back almost to where they were nine days ago in their investigation of the George Down murder.

Their most promising lead in the case has led them nowhere.

A steel bar found in a downtown church has proved not to be the weapon used to murder the 17-year-old delivery boy in the Hudson's Bay Parkade almost four weeks ago.

And a 17-year old Victoria boy picked up in Calgary Sunday and brought back here for questioning has not been as much help in the investigation as police had hoped.

The youth ran away from home Friday after telling his parents he had information about the murder.

WON'T SAY

Detective Sergeant Bill Andrews refused to say what the boy has told police. But he said the information he gave is being investigated. There did not appear to be much optimism.

The youth was released in custody of his parents after being questioned.

The foot-long bar found in a collection box at Christ Church Cathedral nine days ago was the most hopeful lead.

It was sent to the RCMP crime detection laboratory in Vancouver for examination

Sgt. Andrews said conclusive tests there showed it definitely is not the murder weapon. He refused to disclose the tests which ruled it out as the murder weapon saying it is not customary to give out this information.

WITH YOUTHS

George Down's body was found badly battered on a ramp in the Bay Parkade Aug. 30. He had been seen several hours before his death in company with several young men in Coffee Mac's on Gorge Road.

Sgt. Andrews said detectives are still interviewing persons who knew Down during the last year or so.

FIREWORKS PLANT BLAST KILLS 14

CASERTA, Italy (UPI)—An illegal fireworks factory blew up in the heart of this southern Italian town today, killing at least 14 persons and injuring 20 others, at least nine seriously.

The injured included Antonio Mariniello, 57, the factory owner, who faces arrest if he recovers.

Police said the pre-dawn blast was caused by sparks which touched off a fire in the powder used in the factory. The fire spread to powder supplies and finished fireworks, which exploded with a roar that shook the town.

The factory was one of many clandestine fireworks plants in southern Italy. Italian law bans such factories in inhabited areas, but many are known to exist. Police seldom find them until they blow up, officials here said.

Accused Of Fraud

QUEBEC (CP)—Charges of defrauding the province of Quebec were laid today against two former Union Nationale cabinet ministers, one legislative councillor and a former high-ranking civil servant.

Charged with fraud are J. D. Begin, former minister of colonization; Antonio Talbot, former minister of highways; Legislative Councillor Gerald Martineau and Alfred Hardy, former director of government purchasing services.

At the same time a charge of conspiracy to defraud the province was laid against Arthur Bouchard, a Quebec City businessman.

The total amount involved in the charges is $309,000.

The charges arise from findings by a royal commission under Mr. Justice Elie Salvas of Quebec Superior Court that investigated purchasing practices of the Union Nationale government between July 1, 1955, and June 30, 1960.

The Union Nationale was defeated by the Liberals in the June, 1960, provincial election and the Salvas commission was appointed later the same year.

Begin, who retired from politics last year prior to the 1962 provincial election, had been member of the legislative assembly for Dorchester since 1935. As minister of colonization from 1944 to 1960, he headed the government department administering pioneer farm lands.

Under the present government the colonization portfolio has been combined with agriculture.

Talbot entered the provincial legislature in a 1938 by-election as member for Chicoutimi, a seat he still holds. He was highways minister from 1944 to 1960.

Martineau, former treasurer of the Union Nationale party, has been a member of the Quebec legislative council, only provincial upper house in Canada, since 1946.

McNamara Target For Red Bullet?

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (Reuters) — A Pan-American 707 jet airliner was hit by a Communist guerrilla bullet early today in firing that some sources said could have been directed against United States Defence Secretary Robert McNamara and his special mission.

The plane, on a flight from Singapore to Manila, was hit in one engine seven miles from the Saigon airport but managed to land safely here on three engines.

Some sources said the guerrillas might have thought the airliner was bringing in McNamara and Gen. Maxwell Taylor, chairman of the U.S. joint chiefs of staff.

They were due in Saigon tonight to make a special examination of the four-year war against the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet Nam.

South Africa Sentences Policeman

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) Policeman Johannes Arnoldus Greef, 18, was sentenced today to six years in prison for helping South African political refugees escape from police cells here and accepting a bribe.

He was arrested after artist Arthur Goldreich and lawyer Harold Wolpe and two Indian political prisoners escaped while being detained under South Africa's 90-day "no trial" anti-subversion law.

Goldreich and Wolpe arrived in London Monday. The Indians, Moosa Moolla and Abdulhay Jassay were reported to be in Dar Es Salaam, Tanganyika.

The four men slipped through one of the biggest manhunts in South African history to cross into the neighboring British territory of Bechuanaland last month.

Transvaal Deputy Attorney-General Percy Yutar told the court that Greef—who was on night duty as cell warder at the Marshall Square police headquarters—was paid £50 ($150) by Goldreich's relatives and promised a further £2,000 if he permitted the escape.

Yutar added that the escapees double-crossed Greef, because when he afterwards went to a man who was to pay him the promised £2,000, the man said he knew nothing about the matter.

Martin Talks Disarmament With Gromyko

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—External Affairs Minister Paul Martin has explored a possible new initiative in the disarmament field with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, it was learned today.

The Canadian minister, who met with Gromyko for more than an hour late Monday at the Soviet United Nations mission, was understood to have sought the Soviet reaction on an initiative the Canadian delegation has been considering.

The nature of the move was not disclosed, but it was understood to involve an area where considerable agreement already exists between East and West.

Martin, who flies back to Ottawa today for trade talks with a Japanese ministerial delegation, planned several other conferences before his departure.

He was to meet with India's chief delegate Mrs. Vijaya L. Pandit and Foreign Minister Mongi Slim of Tunisia—both of whom he also saw Monday. Later he was to meet with South Africa's chief delegate G. P. Joost.

TRASH LEFT IN PARK CHEERS COMMISSIONER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Toronto park commissioner T. W. Thompson believes that the anti-litterbug campaign in the United States is "the greatest mistake any park people ever got tied up with."

Thompson told a conference of American park executives Monday that for parks the campaign is a "negative" approach.

His city's system is noted for its "please walk on the grass" signs. Thompson said the approach was not a gimmick because Toronto's parks planners feel it's their function "to bring the people off the cement walks and onto the grass." To do this they decided to use positive signs and never to say "don't" to anyone.

Thompson said little boys think their names are important, so they carve them on trees. "If they think our trees are a good place to carve them, then we think it's better than the toilet partitions," he said.

His park staff also expects the turf to wear out from time to time "like any carpet." They resod it by sections to save costly reseeding.

He admitted that they had trouble with dog-owners. Currently his staff is working on some signs to be addressed to the dogs. But he has had little trouble traced to maliciousness.

His employees do not use the words "litterbug" and "vandal."

"The people who use our parks are people, not bugs," Thompson said. "My reaction to the few persons who leave trash is that they were on the parks and they were happy."

province, are now so tightly in Mr. Bennett's grasp that these men are willing to do anything — anything — he demands of them."

He said they hide behind front groups with names like the Free Enterprise Education Fund.

"The front groups should appear any day now."

"Where are the 10,000 jobs now in B.C.?" asked Mr. Perrault. "Where are the 10,000 jobs of Frank McMahon?"

B.C. voters should take care they do not make this election "an appointment with fear," Mr. Perrault said

Mr. Perrault pledged that if elected the Liberals will immediately call a special session of the legislature to tackle what he called "the school finance crisis."

They would remove school taxes from property owners, he said.

In answer to a later question, Mr. Perrault said the Liberals would not eliminate the home-owner grant but "incorporate it in some much more meaningful tax relief."

He said his Point Grey candidate, Dr. Pat McGeer, was not really disagreeing with this when he said last week the Liberals would abolish the grant—"he said it more bluntly."

Appearing with Mr. Perrault were five of the six local candidates.

Oak Bay candidate Alan Macfarlane said Premier Bennet could not justifiably campaign against socialism, because he had taken so many socialistic steps himself — "what is there left?"

Victoria Liberal Michael Griffin said Social Credit gives "only a few stale crumbs" to local government but takes all the glory itself for local growth.

Bruce Humber, another Victoria candidate, said Social Credit's debt-free claims reminded him of TV commercials by finance companies.

Elizabeth Forbes, the third Victoria candidate, said Socred candidates have lost the look of dedication — "it has been superceded by a blank look."

Ian Stewart, the Saanich candidate, promised if elected he would call a Saanich summit meeting of local government officials to discuss all the problems of the riding.

VOTE FORFCAST CAN'T MISS

"Just remember, a vote for the opposition won't do the government any good"

You are cordially invited to meet the Hon. E. Davie Fulton at a rally to be held in the Central Junior High 8 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 26.

Anti-Negro Charge Faces Toronto Youth

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Eight white men including a Toronto youth have been indicted by a special federal grand jury investigating interference with school desegregation court orders in Birmingham.

The indictments result from incidents which occurred when three Birmingham schools were desegregated Sept. 4 as pickets appeared at each school.

There was no widespread violence although several times police used force to restrain pickets protesting entry of five young Negroes in the three schools.

Named in the indictments were:

Edward R. Fields, 30, information director and leader of the pro-segregation National States Rights Party; Gerald Q. Dutton, 22; James K. Warner, 24; Barney M. Carmack Jr., 29; Jack Cash, 56, all of Birmingham; [illegible] Atlanta lawyer; Ralph Lewandowski, 18, Chicago; and David A. Stanley, 19, Toronto.

SETTLE IT LOCALLY

In Washington, President Kennedy expressed belief that Birmingham [illegible], working with his special emissaries, can settle that city's racial problems at the local level.

The president met with the two special representatives, Earl (Red) Blaik and Kenneth C. Royall. He said they would go to Birmingham "to be of whatever assistance they can in restoring good communications between white and Negro communities in that city and in easing the racial tensions which now exist."

Kennedy conferred also with Birmingham civil leaders and Alabama religious leaders.

Mayor Albert Boutwell announced that a reward fund for the capture of persons responsible for recent racially-connected bombings in Birmingham had risen to nearly $80,000.

SUSPEND McDOWELL

At Oxford, Miss., Negro student Cleve McDowell was suspended by the University of Mississippi after he was arrested on a charge of carrying a pistol.

McDowell, 21, was jailed on a charge of carrying a concealed deadly weapon. University authorities said the suspension would remain in effect pending a school hearing.

Deputies at Selma, Ala., arrested 26 Negro teen-agers on charges of violating state truancy laws as officers sought to head off threatened new outbreaks of racial demonstrations.

Also arrested were two adult Negroes on charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Both were active in racial demonstrations in Selma recently.

boards away and not the washboard parties."

Mr. Bennett continued his bitter personal attacks against Tory Leader Davie Fulton in his Nanaimo speech, as he has done ever since he opened his campaign.

He said NDP Leader Robert Strachan's "Bond Street clothes" was an indication that Social Credit and not the NDP now was the party of the working man.

WERNER-GREN JIBE

Sharpest heckle to hit the premier broke into his sentence that "Fulton was certainly taken in . . ." with a biting "Wenner-Gren took you in."

The premier shot back that Wenner-Gren did not get a single acre of B.C. land through his dealings with the government.

"No—$10,000,000," yelled his tormentor.

"That's what we got from them, my friend," replied the premier.

When the heckler tried to toss another crack back, a Bennett supporter in the audience rose up and shouted him down.

SOCRED 'FRAUD'

Tory Charges Trickery

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dick Malkin, Progressive Conservative candidate in Vancouver Point Grey riding, Monday night charged the Social Credit party is fraudulently using a University of B.C. dean's name in the Sept. 30 provincial election campaign.

Mr. Malkin told an all-candidates meeting Monday that a newspaper advertisement featuring a statement from S. N. F. Chant, acting dean of arts at UBC, was a good example of what he called Social Credit "trickery."

He said the advertisement quoted Dean Chant as saying the Social Credit education program was "the most significant breakthrough in educational planning that has occurred in any province in Canada."

"This, ladies and gentlemen, is a fraud," Mr. Malkin said.

"We learned from Dean Chant this morning that his quotation is taken from a private letter to the minister of education last March.

Mr. Malkin said the quote concerned the government's implementing part of the Macdonald Report, which urged the formation of new universities in B.C.

"To take this quote out of Dean Chant's letter and make it appear as a blanket endorsement of Mr. Bennett's educational policy is plain and simple misrepresentation," Mr. Malkin said.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids . . . and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Satisfaction guaranteed or your money refunded.

Davie Punctures Peace Dam Again

KIMBERLEY (CP) — E. Davie Fulton Monday night reduced the issues of the Sept. 30 provincial election campaign down to:

"Do you want the Peace dam so badly that nothing else really matters?"

He said in an election address in support of Progressive Conservative candidate Dr. Bill Green that nothing else really matters to Premier Bennett.

The Conservative leader said the money required for the Peace project would pay for two Columbia projects.

It would: build two tunnels across the English Channel; pay for three St. Lawrence seaways; represent a $4,000 mortgage on every home in B.C.

The money saved on the Peace would make three first-class highways, six first-class hospitals, four universities or would pay for all municipal services for 10 years.

He said B.C. could not have education, lower municipal taxes, Columbia power, new industries, portable pensions, medicare, agricultural research and processing industries and the Peace project as well.

"What I am trying to tell you is not just stop the Peace. It is get on with education. Get on with social justice. Get on with a new deal for the municipal taxpayer. Get on with industrial development. Get on with a real, and honest attack on unemployment. Get on with financial stability. Get on with the Columbia.

Threat to French

ALGIERS (Reuters)—President Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria gave a clear hint Monday night he will nationalize remaining French property in Algeria if France carries out further nuclear tests in the Sahara Desert.

$2,000 JUMP IN REVENUES FOR FARMERS

MOOSE JAW (CP) — Two Liberal cabinet ministers entered the Progressive Conservative's Prairie stronghold Monday to tell farmers about the recently signed $500,000,000 wheat sale to Russia.

Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp said the agreement, arranged by the Canadian wheat board, will mean an increase in revenue of $2,000 each for the average wheat grower.

At the same time Agriculture Minister Harry Hays said farmers should trim wheat acreages, take a close look at domestic feed grain needs and plan diversified programs to avoid future burdensome wheat surpluses.

The ministers spoke to about 300 persons attending a Saskatchewan Farmers' Union meeting here.

YOUNG WIDOWS ARE SELDOM MERRY

Three young widows, each with small children, live on one relatively short street. They have another thing in common, unfortunately: they have all gone back to work to try and earn enough to keep their homes—and feed and clothe their school age youngsters.

Their lives are a far cry from that of opera's "Merry Widow".

Yet just 2 years ago the future looked bright for all three. Then a car accident killed one father, a heart attack the second, hidden cancer the third. All three men were in their early thirties!

One certain way to be sure your family can remain together as a unit with a "full-time" mother is through your purchase NOW of sufficient permanent personal life insurance. Buck Voting Formula: 2 to NDP, 1 to Knott Canada's Communist Party leader, Tim Buck, came to town Monday night with a message anti-China, anti-Sukarno, anti-U.S., anti-Bennett and almost wholeheartedly pro-NDP.

"Elect an NDP majority government," he exhorted 100 persons in Williams Hall, Broughton Street.

He was speaking in support of Ernest Knott, Communist candidate in Victoria.

"This election might possibly witness the defeat of the Bennett government or send him back with a minority government.

"We could put the NDP in the position of sharing the responsibility."

WONDER WHY?

The dogmatic little leader asked:

"You may wonder why we nominate Ernie Knott. It's because the whole future of the province might depend upon electing another government. It is necessary to elect some Communists to the legislature."

NDP national leader Tommy Douglas, said Mr. Buck, sees Parliament as representative of the people.

"Communists and the NDP both want more social reform, medicare and job security."

He hastened to "acknowledge the big differences between Communists and the NDP—fundamentally different conceptions on how it is possible for the working class to take over leadership of this country."

But the NDP, he said, is a step in the right direction.

TWO FOR NDP

From the point of view of helping bring the labor movement into politics, he said: "We say vote NDP."

Two votes in Victoria, he said, should go to the NDP, and the third to Ernest Knott.

"If the NDP won a majority in the legislature and no others, how many of us could feel sure they would repudiate the Columbia River Treaty, dismantle Comox nuclear base and develop secondary industries in B.C.?"

Sprinkling his rambling hour-long speech with quotes from Marx, Engles and Mao Tse Tung, Mr. Buck used Mexico as an example for Canada in the field of economic independence from the United States, and Cuba, "standing strong and free" as a shining light for Latin-America.

But Indonesia's Sukarno, he said, was "a burgeois nationalist . . . he is safeguarding capitalism for Britain."

HANGING ON

Britain was "trying to cling to her colonies" in the formation of Malaysia, he said. Frustrated Indonesian working people had "seized plants to win their freedom," but President Sukarno had nationalized seized properties "in co-operation with the British government."

Mr. Buck visited Indonesia recently.

In the current Sino-Soviet split, Mr. Buck said: "Our Chinese comrades are completely wrong."

Candidate Knott declared the Social Credit government is continuing its drive to "make B.C. and its resources a part of that rich empire to the south."

He said: "Our vast rich natural resources are being sold for a song."

Grit Says Socred MLA Not in the Picture

Saanich Socred incumbent John Tisdalle doesn't know what the government is doing, Liberal candidate Ian Stewart charged Monday night.

Speaking at a meeting in the Lake Hill Community Hall, Mr. Stewart accused Mr. Tisdalle of "putting party politics before the rights of the people."

"The present member is ignorant of the current B.C. Ferry dispute," he said. "B.C. Ferry employees have been denied the right to vote for the union they want. The MLA should have advised the ferry workers, many of whom are his own constituents, of their rights as defined by a 1961 order-in-council."

CALL PARLEY

Mr. Stewart said one of the main duties of the Saanich MLA is to "be a liaison between the municipal officials in the riding."

He said he would, if elected, "call together the municipal heads of Saanich, Central Saanich, Sidney, and the northern part of the peninsula to discuss problems common to the area."

He said the family and juvenile court is totally inadequate. So is Woodlands School for Retarded Children on the mainland.

"While the province has money to burn, it is a shame children should be crying for help," said Mr. Stewart.

PUBLISHER ELECTED UBC GOVERNOR

VANCOUVER (CP)—Publisher Stuart Keate and businessman Donovan F. Miller were elected Monday to three-year terms on the board of governors of the University of British Columbia.

Both Mr. Keate, publisher of the Victoria Times, and Mr. Miller are graduates of the university.

Nathan Nemetz, a Vancouver lawyer, was re-elected to his third three-year term.

NDP Pledges Partnership With Industry

CHASE (CP) — A partnership between private enterprise and the New Democratic Party to develop British Columbia was promised Monday by Tommy Douglas, NDP national leader.

Douglas told 235 people in Chase High School an economic development fund to be set up if an NDP government is elected in B.C. would not merely be an agency to give the government a business monopoly but an agency through which loans would be made to encourage secondary industry.

The former Saskatchewan premier said the example of that province's CCF government's help to the steel and cement industry was a good example of socialism working with industry.

Switching to power, Douglas accused Prime Minister Pearson of giving in to extra demands made by the B.C. government on downstream benefits.

"The only way to stop the giveaway of the Columbia is to defeat Social Credit," Douglas said.

Columbia Policy Termed 'Sell-Out'

Saanich NDP candidate John Windsor Monday night compared Premier Bennett's policy on the Columbia River development to "the Alaskan Panhandle sell-out."

He was speaking at a meeting attended by 35 persons at St. Martin-in-the-Fields Church hall.

"The Columbia is a problem which has been dragging on for years. But it should be developed a Canadian way . . . a Canadian development under the McNaughton Plan."

He said power will be made in the United States and B.C. will get half of it.

"As long as we could develop our half of that power in Canada, we would have enough to supply our industry with cheap power.

"But Mr. Bennett doesn't want to bring cheap power here. Instead he wants to use Columbia funds to develop the Peace."

SPOILED HIS WORK

The blind author gave credit to Mr. Bennett for his success with the provincial ferry system.

"But he has spoiled this credit by the way he has treated his employees. The men are underpaid and over-worked. Some of them have worked 16 days without a day off," he said.

Mr. Windsor said now is the time to take bold steps to preserve beach and park space in Saanich.

He called for aquisition of Island View Beach, located in Central Saanich, for development as a provincial park.

He urged construction of chronic care hospitals and widening of the Patricia Bay Highway.

"I think we should convert the Colquitz mental institution into a technical and vocational high school."

REGIONAL EMPHASIS

Speaking in support of Mr. Windsor, high school teacher Pat Thomas, defeated as an NDP candidate in the 1960 provincial election, called for a change in the province's educational system.

"Education should be done on a regional as well as on a general basis," he said.

"Technical teaching units should be set up in various regions of the province and suited to the economy of that region. If a boy is going to work in a region, let's educate him to suit his region."

PLAIN TALK

The People

KAMLOOPS, B.C.—I spoke the other day to a man of little faith, "What you say is true," he told me. "Social Credit has hurt B.C., especially since 1960, and your new Conservative policies make sense but the people won't listen."

I have more faith in the people. I think you will both listen and act. I think that in this most important election of our history people will vote for the good of B.C.

You will put aside party. You will ignore extravagant promises. You will do what you know must be done.

If I am wrong then all my work is in vain because I have built upon my belief in the good sense of the people.

My platform was shaped by leading citizens of B.C., the best available. Our policy is comprehensive, practical and honest.

The time demands able men and honest policies. As a Province we are on the brink of moral and financial crisis. Our books are in bad order—there is half truth in high places.

We need a change. We have a chance to change and we already have evidence that you and your fellow citizens will vote Conservative to ensure a change for the better.

The Hard But Only Road

ASK ANYONE WHAT THE largest item of expenditure in the national budget is and he will probably, and rightly, reply "defence." Ask what the second largest item is on which we spend tax money and there may be some variety in the answers. Old-age pensions? Family allowances? Transportation? Few will realize that the annual interest payments on our national debt form the second largest item of expense.

In the fiscal year 1962-63, interest payments on Canada's debt cost us close to $890 millions—about $80 millions more than in the year before. The repayment of principal may be delayed, but interest must be paid and an annual payment heading toward $1 billion is [illegible]. If the nation must resort to borrowing to find the money to pay interest, then the debt becomes that much bigger and the interest payments spiral upwards even more quickly.

That is what we have been doing during the years of Mr. Diefenbaker's government. Each annual deficit in the budget added its portion of weight to the debt load and the interest load. Today the debt stands at approximately $1,000 for each Canadian man, woman and child.

In its first session of Parliament Mr. Pearson's government was unable to halt the trend and reduce the debt. That is understandable, for the situation constitutes a major problem whose true solution must permeate every aspect of our economic life. There is no swift and easy cure.

Taxes cannot be raised indiscriminately, for the incidence of taxes produces its own peculiar effects—heavy taxation can curb consumer spending, it can discourage business and industrial investment, it can cause unemployment, it can stifle a country's economy.

Governments can economize in their operations and so free revenue for debt reduction or at least avoid increasing debt. This resort, too, raises problems, partly economic but in large measure political.

It takes both courage and wisdom to employ either method of reducing deficits—a test of statesmanship which has nothing in common with the free-spending, wide-promising, please-the-people-and-devil-take-the-nation attitude which characterizes so many politicians.

That is the problem facing Mr. Pearson, his finance minister Mr. Gordon, who made an inauspicious start at the last session, and the rest of his ministerial team.

It is also the problem facing the people of Canada. Have they too the courage and the wisdom to accept taxation and economy measures which alone can meet the issue, the very vital issue, before them?

Mr. Pearson was elected on a platform of no bunkum, no histrionics, no sugar-coating. He promised no easy affluence, no "visions," no free rides. He told the people plainly what was wrong, and what had to be done to correct it.

Now Mr. Pearson must produce. He should be given the public backing that will enable him to produce. He should be given enough support from the people to discourage the opposition efforts of Mr. Diefenbaker and his cohorts, who are still trying to buy public affection with cheques on a depleted bank account.

The New German Voice

A RENEWAL OF ATTEMPTS to bring Britain into the European Common Market has been promised by West German Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard, who is to succeed Chancellor Konrad Adenauer on his retirement this fall. Prof. Erhard sees Britain's entry into the ECM as a matter of economic necessity and his views on this matter clash with those of France's President de Gaulle, who fears and mistrusts British participation.

The French leader's attitude toward British Common Market membership is highly emotional; he does not recognize Britain as a truly European country and he can, in fact, cite Britain's traditional insularity from European affairs except when her commercial interests were threatened. He is also acutely aware that with Britain and Germany both in the Common Market, his own "Grand Design" for what amounts to a version of the Holy Roman Empire of Charlemagne would be gravely threatened along with French leadership of the new Europe.

In addition to President de Gaulle's opposition, Prof. Erhard will have to reckon with the increasing obduracy of both extreme left and right wing factions in Britain who are bitterly opposed to entering the Common Market and who gained support for their opposition with the cavalier attitude taken by the French in wrecking entry negotiations a year ago. There is also, as The Times' London correspondent, Mr. Richard Purser, pointed out in an article on this page recently, a growing anti-German feeling in Britain today which will make the new German Chancellor's task even more difficult.

However, if there is any one man who can reconcile all the forces opposing Britain's entry, Ludwig Erhard would seem to have the best chance. The event may, though, have to await the removal of General de Gaulle from the French political scene, at which time cold economic fact may have a better chance to win over prejudice and emotionalism.

As the main architect of Germany's economic and industrial renaissance, Prof. Erhard's views must be accorded respect even by his opponents within and without Germany. His social-market policy brought Germany from ruins to a leading place among industrial powers in the short span of 15 years. More than just prosperity, this policy brought to Germany an economic order which also provides a maximum of personal freedom unknown to Germans in the past.

A Move to Get Back on the Rails

THE DECISION OF THE CANAdian National and Canadian Pacific Railways to mount an all-out drive to recapture some of the passenger business which has been lost to auto, bus and air travel is a heartening sign that the railways are not yet ready to be counted out in this phase of the Canadian transportation network.

While the CPR has not yet announced details of its plan, the CNR has outlined a program of fare cuts, faster service and more amenities aboard trains which should appeal to many Canadians. The railways were evidently influenced in their decision by the belief that long-distance auto travel in particular has lost its charm for many Canadians. Certainly winter travel on Canadian highways can be unpleasant and uncomfortable as well as dangerous at times. Lower fares and better service might well attract many motorists back to rail travel.

It's reasonable to speculate that this effort by the railways to recapture lost business might well be the final attempt. Despite drastic cuts in frequency of service and abandonment of many runs, the railways have lost money on the passenger business for many years. If this experiment fails, it may be that the railways will drop their passenger trains and concentrate on the profitable freight hauls as many lines in the United States have already done.

One angle the railways might capitalize on is the sheer novelty of train riding for the generation of Canadians who have grown up in the post-war automobile age. There are literally thousands of young Canadians, many of whom are veteran travellers by auto and aircraft, who have never even been on a train. They represent a large potential market for the railway travel salesmen.

Voice and Deed of Experience

IN A QUIET WAY SOME VICtorians who have given up marginal jobs to complete "night school" courses leading to junior matriculation offer the strongest argument possible to those of our youngsters who are in a hurry to get out of school before high school graduation.

These adults, some of them 10 years out of classrooms, have learned by experience that their opportunities are strictly limited if their education has been cut off below junior matric. If they want better jobs and fuller lives, they need the instruction they didn't get earlier—and often because they rejected the chance to acquire it.

This is an old story. It is nevertheless one which should be repeated to the young and careless. It says, in clear terms, that the person who cuts off his education also cuts off, in most cases, his or her chances for a better life.

The success of the night school, stronger than ever in enrolment this year, shows how many people appreciate that point, though not all, naturally, are taking academic or strictly practical courses.

As a service to readers, the Times presents these special election statements by the leaders of the four main parties. The statements are printed in alphabetical order and as received from party officials.

LEADER OF THE LIBERAL PARTY

A Sane, Imaginative Approach to the Problems of Today

BY CALLING a provincial election for September 30th Premier Bennett has rendered perhaps his greatest service to this province in his eleven years in office.

For he has given the people of this province the one opportunity they wanted above all others — the chance to pass judgment on the Premier's politically-inspired two-river policy, on his frantic juggling of the province's finances, on his bungled seizure of the B.C. Electric and, most important, on his abject failure to move our economy forward in a way that will provide our children with job opportunities in the years to come.

By calling this election he gives us an opportunity to make a decision that will affect all our lives.

It is my guess that most of us in this province want no more of Mr. Bennett. Nor, I think, do we want socialism. Here in British Columbia we pride ourselves on being a young, vigorous, vital people —and we are not yet ready to suffer the suffocating embrace of socialism. What we really want, I believe, is a government that offers an honest, responsible program — not one that promises miracles, but one that offers a sane, imaginative approach to the problems of today and positive solutions to the problems that will face us tomorrow.

The Liberal Party has such a program. Drawn up in consultation with educators, economists, businessmen, trade unionists and leaders in every field, it is a blueprint for progress on all fronts. We made it our business to find out not what was wanted but what was needed. It caters to no special interests but assumes that what we all want—millionaires and the unemployed alike — is a province that offers real opportunities today and tomorrow.

A Liberal government will direct its utmost effort toward modernizing our economy. We must bring it into line with twentieth century needs. This means more secondary industry, a more broadly diversified economic base in all parts of the province. The day is past when we can grow, like Topsy, in haphazard, unco-ordinated fashion. Government must provide the guide-lines, must lead the economy forward along those paths that will in the long run prove most profitable to us all.

Here education comes in. In order to realize our full potential, the full force of education must be brought to bear—not education in the narrow sense of teaching children to read and write, but education directed at people in all age-groups and at every social level.

Those whose trades are made obsolete through automation must be given the opportunity to acquire new skills. Those eight out of ten people who will never go to university must be better prepared for earning a living through a vastly expanded system of community colleges offering vocational courses attuned to the practical needs of the community.

But even while we expand industrially we must care for those who cannot care for themselves particularly our senior citizens. The elderly people of this province have earned the right to live out their days in dignity, comfort and peace of mind.

The Liberal Party fought in the Legislature and will continue to fight for [illegible] We will initiate action to establish Canada's first indexed old-age assistance-plan to keep pensions in line with the cost of living. We will provide hostel accommodation for the single elderly people who prefer not to prepare their own meals. We will build modern apartment buildings for the elderly to provide good accommodation at reasonable rents. We will provide 'second career' opportunities to enable the active retired to profit from their hobbies and play a contributing role in society if they so wish.

The Liberal Party believes that everyone regardless of income should as a right enjoy all the benefits of modern medicine and hospital care without incurring crippling bills. When the Federal health plan is implemented — and I believe this will be soon — we will give it our full support. Until that time we will extend prepaid non-profit medical coverage to those people not at present able to afford the premiums. The government will pay the premiums. Under a Liberal government, no one will suffer inadequate medical care because of inability to pay.

We are pledged to move this province forward on all fronts and with all possible speed. We propose to do this, not by glibly promising everything for nothing or by shooting crap with the taxpayers' money on wild gambles or by seizing private industry, but by helping others help themselves. With its climate and its incredibly vast natural resources [illegible] take our place at the forefront of this nation. A Liberal government will provide this leadership.

LEADER OF THE NEW DEMOCRATIC PARTY

A Comprehensive Program for a Vast Range of Problems

A MAJOR issue at stake in the Sept. 30 provincial election is that of integrity in government. The present administration has been less than straight-forward in its dealings with the Legislature and the people of British Columbia. The complete about-face of the Bennett government on the B.C. Electric Company expropriation and the sales tax issue, after solemn pledges by the Premier, are but two examples of this. Abuse of governmental authority has been present in legislation directed against particular sections of the community.

Responsibility and integrity must be returned to the public life of this province.

The New Democratic Party has a comprehensive program for the future of British Columbia which covers the vast range of social and economic problems which face our province. Let me enumerate some of them:

We believe that no person should be denied the right to full medical care in a province as rich as British Columbia.

We will provide complete health coverage to include doctors' and specialists' fees, as well as prescription drugs and ambulance charges. The New Democratic plan was developed in consultation with leading members of the medical profession.

We will establish a crown corporation, to be known as British Columbia Economic Development Corporation, to stimulate the economic development of the province. It will have a full time chairman and representatives of management, labor, agriculture and consumer's groups.

The corporation will have power to make loans to assist existing industries and to attract new ones. It will be financed by the sale of parity bonds and other securities, so that the people of British Columbia may take part in the development of their province.

The Economic Development Corporation will have the power to buy shares in private companies, to recommend tax relief and to assist industry with a wide range of research services.

Special attention will be paid to the development of secondary industry and major emphasis will be placed upon the introduction of 20th century industries such as electronics, petro-chemicals and plastics.

The New Democratic Party believes that expenditure on education is an investment in the future, in the expansion of our economy and the training and betterment of our people. We feel it is inextricably bound up with the future economic development of British Columbia.

The New Democratic Party program will expand remedial and enriched courses in our primary schools; improve curriculum, counselling and equipment at the secondary level; accelerate programs of technical education; establish a night college and develop night course facilities; and implement the general principles of the MacDonald Plan for higher education.

We will reform the educational finance of the province to remove the heavy burdens now being borne by the municipalities. However, we will provide local school boards and the teaching profession with more authority and greater responsibility for the creative development of education.

The New Democratic Party will repeal Bills 42, 43 and 123. It will give government employees complete collective bargaining rights. It will introduce a new Workmen's Compensation Act to provide more equitable treatment for injured and disabled workers.

We will have as a major goal the improvement of labor-management relations in order to ensure a high level of development and prosperity for British Columbia.

The New Democratic Party will undertake the program of orderly, integrated development of both the Columbia and Peace River systems. It will initiate the harnessing of the Columbia with the Mica and Duncan Dams.

A New Democratic government will provide full and accurate information on every aspect of its power policy.

A New Democratic government will also introduce a public automobile insurance system to lower rates. It will establish housing programs for senior citizens to allow them to live in dignity and it will improve the supplementary benefits for the older citizens of British Columbia.

The space available to me obviously prevents a more detailed presentation of our program. I have touched some of the highlights only.

We are confident that on September 30, the New Democratic Party will be called upon to form the next government of British Columbia.

I look forward to the vast opportunity that will be presented to a New Democratic government to work for the development of British Columbia and the welfare of its people.

LEADER OF THE PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE PARTY

In This Province Nothing Less Than the Best Will Do

WE who live in this province must come to grips with one over-riding question in this election and make our decision within the next five days. It is this: What is it that we really want? What is it that we want for our province? What is it that we want our future to be? For this election—more than any other—will decide these things.

These things are greater than any party. They are greater than any leader, any team of candidates, any program no matter how far-sighted.

Any government that is elected — whether it does it well or badly—must meet the crises in power development, in education, in the investment climate, in attracting new industry and new jobs, in social security. Any government must settle the B.C. Electric affair. Any government must chart out a highway program. The team of candidates, the leader and the program of each party will determine how well each will do these things, and this is of great importance. But in this election, these things are not what is of the utmost importance.

For this election goes much deeper. This election will decide what we are worth as a people—what we are now and what we are to become. For the government that we elect will say to those of us here and those outside this province: what is British Columbia?

We can meet this in three ways.

We can respond to fear, or greed, or threat or bribe. And if we do, we know now exactly what we will get.

We can respond to anger, to prejudice, to irritation or annoyance, and if we do, we may get a momentary satisfaction but we will know we have not done the best we can.

There is a third way: We can cut through the fears, the bribes, the pledges and the appeals. We can say to ourselves: "I will give my vote to what I really want. I will give my vote to what I believe is the best that can be produced in this province and in its government. Because, in this election, I will not accept anything that I believe is less."

I believe that out of this election must come the best government that this province can have, for I believe that in this province—as we find it now—nothing less than the best will do. For if we make this decision—and on these terms—then we will get this result.

By PREMIER W. A. C. BENNETT

LEADER OF THE SOCIAL CREDIT PARTY

With These and Many Other Accomplishments Behind Us

POLITICAL opponents scoffed at your Social Credit Government when it was elected in 1952 and went to work on constructive programs which have brought prosperity to British Columbia.

Our opponents in the present election campaign are again scoffing, deriding, attacking and criticizing constructive programs which we have for the years ahead.

What proof is needed of our stature as the government that has done more for this province than any other in history?

Our experience comes from 11 years of dynamic administration. Our ability is proven by our accomplishments. We have lifted this province's economy and human well-being head and shoulders above any other section of Canada.

The people of British Columbia threw out the old-line-party administrations because they wanted action.

And they got action!

One of the main reasons for calling this election was to obtain a mandate for your government's two-river power policy, which will result in the greatest economic expansion the province has ever seen.

Other parties want to stop it. Only your government will go ahead with these projects, which will utilize B.C.'s unused water resources.

The Peace and Columbia projects will mean immediate jobs for thousands and future jobs for thousands more. They will form a power grid for the whole province which will provide ample power for all needs and bring to British Columbians the lowest-cost electricity in Canada.

This power policy, which has been declared sound and economic by the world's outstanding engineers, has now been recognized by the national government of Canada as the official policy of the nation.

Social Credit is leading Canada in educational reform.

Your government will complete technical and vocational schools; it is establishing junior colleges; it is assisting pupils in all grades, and is embarked on the first great university expansion program in this province's history.

Your government is also working to ease the burden of educational costs borne by the land-owner.

Your government will also:

1. Continue to help the home-owner through increased grants;
2. Continue to provide an attractive climate for business;
3. Continue our highway and bridge-building program, already the greatest in Canada, but which in the next seven years will see every part of our great province joined by a network of fine traffic arteries;
4. Continue to open our rich northlands by extension of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway and highways;

5. Continue to increase assistance to municipalities;
6. Continue and expand our assistance to hospitals, our social aid programs and our care for the health and welfare of our citizens—social legislation that is the most advanced in Canada;

Your Social Credit government today is bringing more beneficial changes to British Columbia than any of the old line parties ever dreamed of.

This is not an idle boast by inexperienced, political theorists. These are facts not to be laughed at or derided.

Concrete examples of your government's successes which were opposed by those without vision were:

1. The extension and modernization of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway after 40 years of neglect by others;
2. The construction of the most modern highways and bridges in Canada;
3. The building of the world's most modern ferry system to meet an urgent need;
4. The institution of the popular Home-owners' Grant to help ease the burden of increasing land taxes;
5. The introduction of Parity Bonds as a part of our "Pay As We Go" program;
6. The abolition of bridge tolls as a logical step in our plan to reduce taxes wherever possible;
7. The establishment of hospitalization for everyone without the payment of premiums;
8. The bringing of order out of chaos; the balancing of our budget; the removing of the public debt load and the establishment of our economy as the most buoyant in Canada.

With these and many other accomplishments behind us, we now are embarked on a program for the remainder of this decade which will bring even greater prosperity, even greater social benefits to our province.

Gerald Waring ...REPORTING

INUVIK, N.W.T. — The price tag that Northern Affairs Minister Laing puts on this model town of 1,300 people 100 miles inside the Arctic Circle is $24 millions, plus another $8 millions for the airport.

I've heard unofficial estimates of twice that amount and more, but the minister should know—it was the government that paid the bill. And is still paying. A half-dozen three to six-family residences are under construction, and additional school facilities are being planned.

Inuvik's government school, student hostels, office buildings and many residences are a great improvement over anything else in this part of the Arctic. But after you survey it all, you still wonder why. Inuvik has no economic base aside from the federal government payroll. It is essentially a company town, the company being the government. And you sense that it lacks the spirit or soul that makes a community out of a collection of human dwellings.

* * *

Inuvik, the "Place of Man," exists because government planners in Ottawa decided that neither Aklavik nor Tuktoyaktuk, the old communities of the Mackenzie River delta, was a satisfactory site for an Arctic metropolis. But both the old towns have economic bases—the former muskrat trapping and the latter its seaport. It was visualized that the people of Aklavik would move en masse to Inuvik. Some have. And some have moved back again. Aklavik, pop. 637, refuses to die.

Aside from the spectacular Catholic church, a huge white-painted igloo of wood, the chief physical feature of Inuvik is the utilidor. This is a corrugated aluminum conduit about six feet square that snakes on wooden trestles behind the back doors of white Inuvik. Insulated, it carries central heating pipes, protects water and sewer pipes from freezing, and does away with the need for power and telephone poles.

Socially, the utilidor is to Inuvik what "the tracks" are to towns in the provinces. With rare exceptions, everybody who is somebody is on the utilidor. The cottages, cabins and shacks of the "Delta people" are not. U and non-U, inside the Arctic Circle.

And with all the amenities, officials here draw northern allowances of up to $1,800 a year. Somewhat ridiculously, a local Eskimo hired by the government gets a $1 a day northern allowance too.

The Delta people, as they call themselves, are basically Eskimo of Alaskan as well as local origin, but with flood infusions from Indians, white trappers and traders, and the multiracial crews of the whaling ships that frequented the Western Arctic in the last century. There are "Eskimos" here with ancestors who were Fijians and Hawaiians, Norwegians and Portuguese.

* * *

Inuvik's social centre is the beer parlor of the Mackenzie Hotel, run by private enterprise, where Alberta beer is 60 cents a pint. It is not unusual for an Eskimo at Aklavik to charter a plane, at $35 for the 40-mile trip, and practically live in the beer parlor until his money is gone.

Despite its economic and sociological shortcomings, Inuvik is impressive as a physical model of the kind of communities that primitive settlements elsewhere in the Arctic can become if the money is forthcoming, either from resource development or from the federal treasury.

THE LIGHTER SIDE By DICK WEST

The Music Men

WASHINGTON (UPI)—I was cheered by the announcement that one of the new works to be performed by the National Symphony Orchestra this fall was commissioned by a furniture company.

West

The piece is a concerto by Robert Evett, who was commissioned by Basic-Witz Furniture Industries of Waynesboro, Va., to write a symphonic composition commemorating the firm's 75th anniversary.

As Howard Mitchell, conductor of the orchestra, pointed out, the contribution of business firms to the library of symphonic music has up to this point been rather meagre.

There have been compositions commemorating such things as Napoleon's retreat from Moscow and rainbows over the Grand Canyon.

But as far as could be said, Basic-Witz is the first furniture company to have itself glorified by a concerto.

"This marks a new departure for a business firm, which we hope will start a trend," Mitchell commented.

I certainly subscribe to that sentiment, although I was a bit disappointed by Evett's choice of a title. He calls his composition "Anniversary Concerto: 75."

I should think something like "The Bedroom Suite" would have been more appropriate.

It would be interesting to see how Evett would interpret symphonically the squeak of a chiffonier with a drawer that sticks.

Nevertheless, the commissioning of the concerto was an encouraging development and, being a forward-looking chap, I have been doing some projecting of the trend that Mitchell mentioned.

I foresee a time when all major U.S. business firms will have their own resident composers.

A typical composer's career in the future will include five years at the Juilliard School of Music and 15 years at the McCormick-Deering Tractor Co.

General Motors will retain a team of composers who will produce assembly line symphonies, one scoring the sharps, another adding the flats, etc.

Staff composers in the construction industry will create such things as "fugue for flute, harpsicord and rivetting machine."

Composers in plumbing supply will give us "the leaking faucet overture," featuring three trombones and a sump pump.

It all adds up to an exciting prospect, musically speaking. I'm just sorry that Beethoven couldn't have lived to see it.

HOME GARDEN By JACK BEASTALL

Fine 'Mums Don't Just Happen

It seems only right to say a few words about the magnificent chrysanthemum blooms which have been so abundant in the recent fall shows.

Jack

I am thinking particularly of the ordinary non-specialist home gardener who visited these shows and made notes of the finest varieties with the intention of purchasing plants.

Such a gardener would expect to meet with the same success in his garden, but I am afraid he would be due for disappointment.

One reason is that many of the giants of the show bench are exhibition varieties and not necessarily good for average border growing.

Another reason is that a knowledge of the culture of these plants has to be grasped before success can be achieved. It is not a case of putting in a plant in spring and picking perfect blooms at show time.

On the other hand, their culture is quite possible in home garden, and the necessary knowledge is not difficult to obtain.

There is a group devoted solely to the culture and showing of these plants, the Victoria and District Chrysanthemum Society, founded to increase the interest and knowledge in this one kind of flower, and there is also a Chrysanthemum Group in the Victoria Horticultural Society.

Any gardener whose interest in chrysanthemums has been stimulated by visiting the shows, would do well to join one or both of the above groups so as to learn immediately the preparatory steps to good growing next season.

The secretary of the V. and D. Chrysanthemum Society, S. Steed, can be contacted at GR 9-1437, and of the V.H. Society, G. A. Wiggan at GR 7-3265.

FLAWS IN AFRICAN SHOWPIECE

Nigeria to Become Republic

By DENNIS NEELD

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)—This African giant of 40,000,000 people becomes a republic Oct. 1, with a president replacing Queen Elizabeth as head of state.

American-educated Dr. Nnamdi Azikiwe, 59, a former newspaper editor and currently governor-general, is to be the country's first president. He will be a figurehead rather than an executive head of state, however.

For three years, since its freedom from British colonial rule, Nigeria has been cited as a showpiece of democracy in Africa. The country's federal makeup has proved a safeguard against the one-party system adopted by almost every other newly-independent African state.

But Nigeria approaches republican status in an atmosphere of political uncertainty. The opposition leader and his deputy have been jailed for long terms on treason charges. Proposals for a preventive detention act, allowing the government to jail "subversive elements" without trial, have been only temporarily shelved.

Under the republican constitution judges will be appointed by the ruling politicians, thereby lessening the separation of executive and judiciary.

Warns opposition legislator O. C. Ememe:

"Oct. 11, 1963, shall perhaps be the beginning of a Nigerian dictatorship—a dictatorship to the right wing.

FORESEES CORRUPTION

"We shall witness such features as sit-tight ministers, a corrupt civil service, inequality of opportunity, scarcities in the midst of plenty, favoritism, inefficiency, unemployment, millionaire politicians, impoverishment of the peasantry, highway robbery, prostitution, religious bankruptcy, moral decay and social agglutination."

Not many share Ememe's pessimism but there is anxiety. Rivalry among the major tribes, each centred in a separate semi-autonomous region, remains a potential threat to national unity.

Nigeria's voice already is powerful in African and international affairs. It generally counsels moderation and caution. This is one of the few African countries still host to a Portuguese diplomatic representative.

Four separate regions—north, east, west and midwest—make up the Nigerian federation. With nearly 60 per cent of population, the northern region sends more legislators to parliament than all the others and consequently dominates national politics.

The northern people's congress, headed by Sir Ahmadu Bello, is the largest single party in the federal assembly. This 53-year-old autocratic grandson of the founder of the old Sikoto empire is premier of the northern region and probably the most powerful figure in Nigerian politics.

His party deputy, Sir Abubaker Tafawa Balewa, is Nigeria's prime minister.

'I Voted Socred' —Tory Candidate

A Tory candidate admitted Monday night that he voted for Social Credit at the last provincial election three years ago.

"I listened, I believed and I voted Social Credit," said Robin Dunsmuir, the Progressive Conservative candidate in Esquimalt.

"I am ashamed to tell you," he added.

He said his vote was "extracted by fear" that, if the Bennett government was not returned, the province would go Socialist.

"It was no better than political blackmail."

He said the Socreds campaigned on a platform of free enterprise fighting Socialism.

"They told us that to expropriate the B.C. Electric would break this province. Bonner said it would be utterly irresponsible."

'DON'T LET THEM'

"In 11 months they broke every solemn promise they made. Now they're trying it again. Please don't let them do it"

Mr. Dunsmuir said the surest way of making B.C. turn to the NDP is to re-elect the Bennett government.

He slashed at the Socreds for taking away two of the electorate's principal freedoms—the right to vote and the right to have equal representation.

"This government that claims to get things done," he charged, has not kept the voters' list up to date and has done nothing to provide more equitable representation in the legislature.

'EVIL GOVERNMENT'

Said he: "Any damned fool can build a road particularly if they do not have to pay for it themselves. And any briber can give you a homeowner's grant. But only an evil government can take away your freedom."

Mr. Dunsmuir said the choice before the voters in this election is whether they want a government of integrity, an administration that has principles and is not opportunistic.

Esquimalt Councillor Bert Nelson, who was chairman of the meeting, echoed this.

Said he: "Do you want a circus master like Bennett or a statesman like Fulton for premier? Do you want a solid citizen for your representative or a messenger boy?

Norwegian exports for the first five months of 1963 were 8.5 per cent higher than in the same period of 1962.

"A New Democratic Government will introduce legislation to provide for an automobile insurance scheme similar to that in Saskatchewan. Consumer's Report, a respected American magazine, describes this as "the cheapest and most effective automobile insurance in North America." For one low premium, about half of what most motorists now pay, all automobiles in the province will be fully covered and motorists and pedestrians fully protected.

Instant Beer to Shake Up Industry

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Gordon Bell

Not "instant" beer, but the nearest thing to it in Canada has been developed by Canadian Breweries Ltd.

It could revolutionize the industry in this country.

The development, according to Canadian Breweries president Ian R. Dowie, is a successful method of preparing traditional brewing materials in extracted liquid form for economical shipment to small breweries in distant locations.

CUTS COSTS

In effect what has been achieved is the elimination of one of the chief capital cost items in brewing, the need for an expensive full-scale brewing plant in every brewery location.

Instead the early brewing steps are carried out in one central location. This takes the brew right up to the fermentation stage and then a large portion of the water is removed by a special process, reducing the volume to about one-seventh.

The concentrated ingredients can be shipped in special containers to small branch plants where the water is put back in, fermentation carried on and the finished beer bottled.

The new process, known as the "Conbrew" method, will be used first for the company's brewery subsidiary in Nassau. The extracted liquid will be prepared by another subsidiary in St. John's, Newfoundland.

FLAVOR UNAFFECTED

The company claims the new process does not affect the quality or flavor of the final product.

Initially at least, Canadian Breweries sees the new method as most suitable for foreign expansion.

"We expect to be able to make increasing use of this new process for breweries in countries where the initial market may be small," Mr. Dowie said.

However, if it is successful, there is no doubt the new method could be applied domestically as well to serve areas where full-scale brewery construction is not warranted yet which are far enough away from established breweries for freight costs of shipping in finished products to be an important factor.

In the U.S., meanwhile, several brewing firms are looking at an actual beer concentrate — finished beer with a large amount of the water removed.

Miller Brewing Co. of Milwaukee and Union Carbide Corp. have developed a concentrating process which reduces beer in volume by about 75 per cent. The concentrate can be stored and reconstituted when required by the addition of water and carbon dioxide.

Miller, which has only the one brewery in Milwaukee, sees the development as a natural for the growth of a "franchised bottler" system similar to that in the soft-drink industry. In addition, use of the process could lead to a "continuous brewing" system with the brewery operating at a year-round optimum level and the excess product stored for reconstitution in peak consumption periods.

Steps are to be taken in the $5.1 million takeover of Rock City Tobacco by Rothmans of Pall Mall Canada Ltd. to continue the 50 per cent public ownership of Rothmans of Pall Mall.

Rock City is owned by Rothmans of Canada Ltd. which also holds 50 per cent of the common stock of Rothmans of Pall Mall. Included in the purchase price will be 300,000 class B convertible shares which, when converted would give the parent company 950,000 Rothmans of Pall Mall common compared with 650,000 in the hands of the public.

However, the parent company has agreed to sell 150,000 of these shares to the public thus maintaining the 50-50 ownership and has undertaken not to vote the additional shares until such sale has been completed.

The $5.1 million purchase price includes $3.3 million net tangible asset values plus intangibles such as goodwill valued at $3 million and an establishment account cost of $3.6 million before provision for amortization.

One of the main reasons for the acquisition, according to Rothmans of Pall Mall president John H. Devlin, is to strengthen the competitive position of the company which depends now on the sale of only one brand of cigarette. The addition of the Rock City sales will more than double Rothmans sales and expand the number of brands from one to seven.

This marriage of air and ageing whisky gives the character and quality you enjoy – and only ADL whiskys offer this unique distilling advantage. Next time, ask for an ADL rye. Minifie Backs Unification For Viet Nam

North and South Viet Nam—torn asunder by bitter political strife—should be unified under an international control commission composed of Canadians, Poles and East Indians, noted CBC commentator James M. Minifie said here Monday.

"I believe this could be done without leading North and South Viet-Nam into Communism, as has been suggested," Mr. Minifie told an audience of more than 400 men and women attending a joint luncheon meeting of the Men's and women's Canadian Clubs in the Empress ballroom.

Mr. Minifie gave full credit to French leader General Charles de Gaulle for the suggested unification, and spoke in high praise of de Gaulle himself.

"As usual, he seized on the essential key, to a very troubled situation. He saw that, if an international control commission were set up — as was done in Laos and Cambodia — it would ensure proper unification and neutralization."

'REAL STINK'

But, said Mr. Minifie, de Gaulle's proposal created a "real stink" in Washington's state department.

He had been "slighted and ignored" and the official viewpoint seemed to be: "He has always been right about the past but nev r about the present."

Amid laughter, Mr. Minifie continued:

"That is the way they deal with an opponent they cannot argue down."

Mr. Minifie said he believed the U.S. state department would come round to General de Gaulle's way of thinking and said he was expected to visit Washington next January.

"Washington spokesmen wonder why he is coming, since they feel they have nothing in common with him. But, come January, I think they will find plenty in common."

Mr. Minifie told of a Buddhist celebration in North Viet Nam honoring the birth of "their Deity" which could be likened to Christmas in North America.

"These celebrations were interrupted by the arrival of tanks bearing obvious marks of U.S. manufacture . . . and the religious festival was broken up with a loss of between 10 and 20 lives . . .

"Had this taken place in one of our cathedrals at Christmas, when midnight mass was being celebrated, and the RCMP were the aggressors you can imagine what the popular reaction would be"

'I'll Fight if I Have to' Questioner Tells Socreds

Religious controversy was injected into the election campaign in Victoria Monday night.

An angry questioner, ignoring repeated calls for order by the chairman, threw a Social Credit meeting at Sir James Douglas School into a minor frenzy over the issue of public funds to support Catholic schools.

Walter Halsall, 2880 Foul Bay Road, listened quietly along with 27 others to Social Credit candidates W. N. Chant, J. Donald Smith and Waldo Skillings make their pitch for votes.

But he took over the question period to make his own speeches berating the present and past provincial governments for "stripping our children naked of financial support because they go to separate schools."

Describing himself as coming from a pioneer Canadian family which had served Canada faithfully in time of war, he demanded to know why the provincial government had ignored a brief presented by Catholic bishops asking public support for parochial schools nine years ago.

Others in the audience argued back and even heckled him. Tempers began rising along with the voices while the chairman unsuccessfully tried to block the debate as involving federal and municipal, not provincial, jurisdiction.

When Mr. Halsall complained he had to pay public school taxes while being hard pressed to pay for his own children's education, he was told he had every right to send his children to public school.

'WHY NOT HERE?'

"I'm bound by my religion to send them to separate school," he exclaimed. "It's against canon law to send my children to public school so why should I be penalized?

"That's a situation that is recognized in every civilized country so why not here?" he shouted.

At one point he said "bayonets" should have been used to back up Roman Catholic rights.

"If you guys want a fight you will get it," he stormed at one persistent heckler. "I'm a veteran. I wasn't trained as a carpenter or a plumber. I was trained for war and to fight and if I have to I will."

BURDEN EASED

The Socred candidates at various points reminded him the government had taken one step to ease the burden on parochial schools by exempting them from property tax. A ruling by the attorney-general's department also permitted reasonable use of bingo for charitable purposes.

Government policy always has been that while every child had a right to go to public school, every parent had a right to send his children to a private school but at his own expense and at present "no changes are contemplated," said Works Minister Chant.

A lady in the audience got the last crack in before the 20-minute flurry was cut off by the national anthem.

"I'm a widow living on a pension and I don't think I should be made to pay taxes to send other people's children to private schools," she snapped.

Earlier, Mr. Chant announced the government has given formal approval to the $1,750,000 St. Joseph's Hospital expansion and renovation but final green light for government funds awaits a report from BCHIS.

He also said that a mental health centre for Victoria, promised two years ago, is still being planned.

Mr. Skillings said removal of the homeowners' grant advocated by some opposition candidates would benefit big firms "$10 for every 10 cents you would benefit."

Mr. Smith said development of the Peace River project was vital to expanding the economy in all parts of B.C. and solving unemployment problems.

Ex-Socred Says Bennett Hurting B.C.

SIDNEY — Saanich PC candidate, Central Saanich Reeve Gordon Lee told a meeting Monday night that Premier Bennett had endangered private capital investment in British Columbia.

He had done this, Mr. Lee said, by such actions as taking over the B.C. Electric Company.

Mr. Lee had been a Conservative for 40 years till he came here from the Yukon, and became briefly a Socred.

"The BCE takeover put me back in Progressive Conservative ranks," he said.

"There must be an uninterrupted flow of capital investment into British Columbia to help its business and its industry.

"The spending of public money by the government cannot take the place of investment capital."

FRED S. AUGER, PUBLISHER

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1963

The alternative that failed . . .

Prior to the 1960 provincial general election, after sizing up the offerings of the Liberal and Conservative parties, this newspaper said that for those who did not wish a Socialist government the only alternative was to support Social Credit.

In the intervening three years Premier Bennett's Social Credit government has forfeited the support of British Columbians who fear Socialist experimentation and want sound, businesslike, middle-of-the-road administration.

No longer is the government an honest exponent of private enterprise.

It has taken over the largest private corporation in western Canada, virtually driven private companies out of the Vancouver Island ferry business and is engaged in a billion-dollar power development gamble on the Peace River, investing the taxpayer's money on an unprecedented scale without ever asking their opinion of the project.

* * *

No longer is the government businesslike.

Mr. Bennett's take-over of the BCE was so ham-handed it shocked everyone who had even a rudimentary sense of fairness and good business principles. The premier arbitrarily set the price the government would pay and then passed legislation denying BCE shareholders an appeal to the courts.

He is negotiating with the shareholders now, not because he wants to but because the Supreme Court of British Columbia ruled his take-over legislation unconstitutional and forced him to negotiate a price for the big utility.

This is bad business every way you look at it.

No longer is this government always democratic.

Without the slightest reference to the people of this province the Social Credit cabinet embarked on one of the largest projects in the history of this country, the Peace River power program.

British Columbians, their children, their grandchildren and probably their great-grandchildren have been made captive investors in a vast undertaking in which private investors were not ready to risk their money.

The point here is not whether the Peace is ultimately a success (this newspaper feels it is premature) but whether it should have been attempted without asking the voters for their approval. This is probably the most marked departure from democratic procedures in national history.

* * *

No longer is this government honest.

Time after time government spokesmen have insulted public intelligence by gross misinterpretation of the truth, or by withholding vital information and presenting only one side of a case.

This intellectual dishonesty, this addiction to half-truths and specious reasoning, has become a trademark of the Bennett administration. Distortion has become the rule.

* * *

No longer is this government a safeguard against socialism.

Because of its abandonment of basic principles and its unbusinesslike behavior the government has lost the margin of popular support that made it the defence against Mr. Strachan and his followers.

No longer can British Columbia businessmen safely put their money on Mr. Bennett. Those who cling to the premier's skirts in the hopes he will once again save them from the Socialists are deluding themselves as witness the B.C. election.

As long as the Socreds are considered the only alternative to Mr. Strachan the Socialist victory is guaranteed. Never has there been a time in the history of democracy when a government has not been ultimately defeated by the strongest party opposing it.

Already Mr. Strachan feels government is in his grasp.

* * *

If the middle-of-the-road British Columbians (who are the vast majority of voters) are to retain the kind of government in which they can have confidence, they must start looking for a new alternative to socialism.

The place to start in this election is in electing the many fine, honest and intelligent citizens of all parties who are offering themselves.

Party labels, party platforms, party strengths may be confusing but if the voters return candidates who they know will put the welfare of British Columbia before anything else this election will be worthwhile.

A period of political irresolution may lie ahead for this province and in this interlude men will be more important than parties, or any particular brand of political "ism."

In this critical period, when a government may not have an overall majority, let us make sure the balance of power is held by the best men and women offering themselves, not by those whose first loyalty is to their party.

Saanich Hall Vote to Await Federal Loan Clarification

A referendum on a new municipal hall will be held when Saanich learns more about obtaining a $330,000 loan from the federal government.

At present, councillors don't know whether the civil service channels have been set up for obtaining the loan under the government's new municipal loan fund.

The council decided to write to George Chatterton, MP for Esquimalt-Saanich, for advice.

Until that comes, the $785,000 project must wait.

"POLITICAL FOOTBALL"

Council reached the decision amid cries from Coun. Leslie Passmore that to include the referendum in the December council elections would be to make a political football of the issue.

Comptroller John Tribe told the council that holding the vote before the elections would mean using the old voters' list. Newcomers would have no vote.

Coun. Hugh Curtis suggested the money bylaw be included at the December polls, "and it is not too much to hope for that it will not become a political football."

HAPPENED ALREADY

"It will become a political football; it has done so already here tonight," replied Coun. Passmore.

Mr. Tribe said $265,000 of the cost could be paid from reserve funds and $90,000 could be taken from a tax sale land fund.

Winter works money of $100,000 could be obtained from the federal government.

This would leave a total of $330,000 to be found by way of the loan from the municipal loan fund.

This could be paid off by continuing the present policy of setting aside $50,000 a year for the hall.

'It's Absurd' —Passmore

Saanich police and fire hall will be altered at a cost of $2,000 to accommodate Greater Victoria police courts.

The other municipalities will have to help foot the bill on a rental basis, council decided Monday night.

The attorney-general's department has assured Saanich council the courts for all four Greater Victoria municipalities will be held in Saanich unless Saanich wants it otherwise, Reeve Stanley Murphy told council.

The court merger was ordered recently by the A-G's department.

Coun. Leslie Passmore said "the whole thing is absolutely absurd." He said alterations would not relieve the overcrowding caused by all municipalities using the building.

Mr. & Mrs. OAK BAY
OPEN LETTER

Mr. MACFARLANE STOP KIDDING!

As MLA for Oak Bay for the past three years, you have done nothing — nor can you ever do anything—for Oak Bay. It's not your fault entirely, Mr. Macfarlane, for you are a fine person . . . a well respected lawyer. It's just that you represent a small, ineffective minority party, whose sole aim seems to be to embitter and antagonize the government.

In this regard you are not blameless. The fact that you voted consistently with the N.D.P. party . . . that you tried to kill the Home Owner grant . . . and your general behaviour on the floor of the House has prejudiced your position with the government. It has made you totally ineffective for Oak Bay.

We may be putting it a little strongly, Mr. Macfarlane, but you'll have to agree that to get things done for Oak Bay you must make friends, not enemies, especially since you are a member of a small, ineffective minority party and are on the wrong side of the government.

Give Oak Bay a Strong Respected Voice on the "Right" Side of Government

Rough Riders Capitalize on Onside Kick

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders dipped into their bag of tricks Monday night and came up with a 23-17 victory over British Columbia Lions in a Canadian Football League interlocking game at Lansdowne Park.

The victory, watched by 20,141 fans, moved Riders back into a first-place tie in the Eastern Conference with Hamilton Tiger-Cats. Each team has four wins.

Lions retained first place in the Western Conference. They have 14 points, one better than Calgary Stampeders.

Fleet Whit Tucker and rookie Rick Black provided the main surprises for Lions.

Tucker, a University of Western Ontario graduate, lined up onside with Black on a third-down kick in the second quarter and then raced 26 yards to the B.C. 19-yard line to catch the ball. Two plays later Riders went over for a touchdown.

Black, a graduate of Mount Allison University, caught Lions napping in the fourth quarter when he raced downfield to recover his own third-down kick on the B.C. 47. Seven plays later Riders scored the winning touchdown.

THREE FOR THELEN

Fullback Dave Thelen, playing his best game of the season, scored all three Ottawa touchdowns. Showing the form that made him second leading rusher in 1961, the 210-pound import reeled off touchdown runs of 14 yards, 13 yards and one yard.

Moe Racine scored the other five Ottawa points on a 24-yard field goal, a 40-yard single and a convert.

Passing plays accounted for both B.C. touchdowns.

Lions travelled 65 yards for their first touchdown. Kapp threw a 27-yard pass to Bill Lasseter at the Ottawa 32 and two plays later threw a strike to Janes in the end zone.

KAPP TO FLEMING

Lions' second touchdown, also in the second quarter, came after Ottawa halfback Don Derrick was called for interference against Mac Burton. That gave Lions the ball on the Ottawa 38. From there Kapp tossed to Fleming and the fleet back went over

Peter Kempf kicked a 17-yard field goal and two converts to complete the B.C. scoring.

Lions had 21 first downs, eight by rushing, eight by passing and five by penalties. Riders made 20 first downs, 13 on the ground, six on passing and one on a penalty.

Ottawa quarterback Russ Jackson completed eight of 16 passes for 131 yards. Ted Watkins caught four of them for 28 yards and George Belu snatched one for 46 yards.

BURTON TOP RECEIVER

Kapp completed 10 of 19 passes for 199 yards. Mac Burton was his top receiver, accounting for 68 yards with five catches. Fleming caught three passes for 45 yards.

Thelen was the game's top rusher—92 yards in 15 carries. Nub Beamer was the Lions' workhorse on the ground, carrying 11 times for 63 yards.

Former Ottawa tackle Gilles Archambault was honored by the football club and by fans during halftime. Archambault retired last season after injuring his leg in the semifinal playoff game against Montreal Alouettes.

'OVERPAID PRIMA DONNAS'

Argos Support Coach After Players Fined

TORONTO (UPI)—The Toronto Argonauts' management has given coach Nobby Wirkowski a vote of confidence and insisted he was "not running scared" in his attempts to build a winning team.

Assurances of satisfaction with Wirkowski's performance in his first full year as a coach was voiced today by director Lew Hayman.

"Nobby is on a one-year contract," Hayman said, "and, for the moment, it is a little premature to talk about next year. But don't believe that talk about Nobby making so many changes because he's running scared for his job this year. Many of our changes are also based on building for next year."

NOBBY WIRKOWSKI

Hayman's support of Wirkowski was a denial of rumors he had disagreed with the coach's public criticism of his players following Sunday's 50-0 surrender to Calgary. Wirkowski called them excuse-making "overpaid prima donnas" who "quit" in the dressing room and "stole" their salaries.

He also fined members of the starting offensive unit $50 each for their ineptness.

Hayman said it was Wirkowski's responsibility to handle his personnel and he would not interfere or criticize.

He offered his own descriptions of the game: "The best team in Canada by far," he said, "beat the worst team in Canada by far."

CHILLED FOR YEAR?

That Champagne Is Mighty Cold

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For the Los Angeles Dodgers the long, hot summer seems over. The champagne is cold. The magic number is one.

One win by the Dodgers, which would happen tonight at the New York Mets' expense, or one loss by the St. Louis Cardinals, which could be today to the Chicago Cubs, was all that the Dodgers needed for the National League pennant.

The champagne is on ice in the Stadium Club at Dodger Stadium, and it's mighty cold. Some say it has been there since last year about this time, when an end-of-season plunge brought disaster to Dodger pennant hopes in a playoff loss to San Francisco.

OPPOSES STALLARD

On July 2 it was Dodger pitcher Don Drysdale who defeated Curt Simmons and the Cardinals, 1-0, in the same stadium, to put the Dodgers in first place. They've been there ever since.

He opposes Tracy Stallard tonight. Drysdale is 18-17, Stallard 6-16. In 15 games against the Mets this season the Dodgers have only lost two—and Stallard pitched one of them, a four-hitter July 30

The Dodger switchboard has been flooded with calls from fans seeking World Series ducats. Los Angeles hotels report a flood of reservations

Dodger players now feel cocky enough to talk about the fans who deserted them Sept. 15 when their 7½-game lead shrank to a one-game margin, and the town was full of rumors about Dodger manager Walter Alston's impending downfall.

Then the Dodgers crushed the Cards in a series sweep. Said the Dodgers' Lee Walls, savoring the sweet smell of success:

"We won it in St. Louis, they can't take anything away from us, either. We earned it by beating the team we had to beat."

There was only one game scheduled in the majors Monday. Detroit Tigers whipped Washington Senators 4-1.

Washington ....100 000 000—1 5 0
Detroit ....100 120 00x—4 9 0

Daniels, 5-10, Baird (7), Roebuck (8) and Retzer; Regan, 15-8, Smith (9) and Triandos. Home runs: Washington—Blasingame (2nd); Detroit—Cash (28th), Colavito (22nd).

Fleming Rips Off 18 Points Against Esks

WINNIPEG (CP) — Toronto Argonauts must blush every time they scan the Western Football Conference scoring race.

Winnipeg Blue Bomber halfback George Fleming is the leader with 78 points. Fleming, a talented place kicker, made Argos look bad again Monday night.

His 18-point effort paced the Bombers to a 24-15 win over Edmonton Eskimos and closer to third place in the WFC standings.

Argos, doormats in the Eastern Conference, cut Fleming early this season.

He has collected six touchdowns, 15 converts, seven field goals and six singles in eight games. The entire Toronto team has scored only 82 points in the same number of outings

AIMS FOR TITLE

Winnipeg coach Bud Grant, who felt there "wasn't much satisfaction" in Monday's win, now feels his club can make a stab at the WFC title.

What dampened Grant's enthusiasm was the memory of previous classic struggles between the same two clubs in years gone by. The Eskimos now are mired in last place in the five-team conference with only four points.

The Bombers, defending Grey Cup champions, moved to within one point of the third-place Saskatchewan Roughriders. Winnipeg, however, is only four points behind the leading British Columbia Lions, who have 14. Calgary Stampeders are second with 13.

Grant said the victory gives Winnipeg a chance to challenge for first place within a week as they get set for a return match with Eskimos in Edmonton Saturday and a game against Saskatchewan in Winnipeg next Monday.

FLEMING STARS

The most spectacular and effective player in the game was Fleming, who scored two first-quarter touchdowns, two converts, a field goal and a single.

'Peg also got a touchdown when defensive halfback Dick Thornton intercepted a second-quarter pass from Edmonton quarterback Lynn Amedee at the Winnipeg 45-yard line and ran 65 yards to score.

Edmonton did most of its scoring in the third quarter, after a second-quarter field goal attempt from the 45-yard line by Bill Mitchell went wide for a single.

They came out to start the second half under rookie quarterback Ron Miller and immediately drove for a touchdown. It ended with an eight-yard pass to end Bruce Claridge and Mitchell kicked the convert.

SETS UP TOUCHDOWN

To start the play Thornton, kicking into a wind that gusted to 35 miles an hour, gained only five yards and had them taken away when Winnipeg was given a five-yard no-yards penalty.

Edmonton's second touchdown also was set up by Miller with a series of passes, but completed by Amedee as he tossed the ball 16 yards into end zone to halfback Joe Hernandez. Mitchell converted again.

If Blood-Lines Are Important R.J. Lad Well Worth a Deuce

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Blood-line consideration is an important aspect of handicapping. So, more often than always, good horsemen will throw that good breeding at you.

That's how it was Monday for R. J. Bennett. His colors hit the winner's circle at Sandown Park and R.J., it might be noted, comes from rather sturdy stock himself. His sire, W. A. C. Bennett, is a proven handicapper around political tracks.

W.A.C. is entered in an important race next Monday, but R.J. enjoyed his innings one week earlier. (Hunch players can or can not make a big issue out of it.)

R.J. Lad, a seven-year-old gelding, romped across the finish line by two and a quarter lengths to score in the fifth race and give the Bennett stable its first victory at the 16-day Island meet.

Capably handled by Elcor Aragundi, R. J. Lad made his move on the back stretch and won pulling away. Ky Seven was second and Fitsy Gal was third. R. J. Lad returned $12.70, $5.30 and $5.10 into the pockets of well-wishers.

Although the track was rated "good" on this rather raw and cloudy day, there was a suggestion it wasn't. Times on the track, softened considerably by a Sunday rain, were just so-so.

But R. J. Lad liked it. And there again, breeding came out. "The Lad" is by Ab Jr out of Rodo. Ab Jr was noted for his preference of "off" tracks.

For the second straight day, form players took a beating at the mutuels. Only two clear-cut favorites made it to the winner's circle and, strangely enough, one of those figured in the day's biggest payoff.

That oddity occurred in the eighth when Kim Boy led from post to post. Kim Boy returned a meagre $4.80 for $2 but, coupled with longshot Ande Cara, paid quinella winners a fancy $94.10.

Jessop Only Rider With Two Wins

The only other favorite to connect was Noddark, a four-year-old owned and trained by Alan May.

Nyet Nyet, a definite overlay, scored the biggest win price of the day ($21.70) in romping to a four-length victory in the first race.

Lady Lotti won the decision in a photo for second to combine with Nyet Nyet for a $28.70 oneto.

The fourth race exacto, Holt's Boy and Howeezi, paid $45.20.

Jockey Job Dean Jessop brought Noddark home four lengths ahead of second favorite Gun-An-Noot in the third race. Jessop came back with a fine riding performance in the seventh, aboard the well-liked Dona B, to score the only double victory of the day.

Kelley Dominguez, Lee Wall, apprentice Ken Nishimoto, Aragundi, Jimmy Broomfield and George Miller were other riders to score

Three claims were made.

E. W. Hardy claimed Gun-An-Noot from May for $800 in the third; Jimmy Halkett grabbed Holt's Boy, winner o the fourth race, from George Holt, for $1,000, and Bill Lochead's Kilocycles went to Mrs. E. Witts and M. Chong for $1,600.

Mutuel play again showed an increase. A total of $68,709 went through the wickets, an increase of about 19 per cent over the corresponding day last year.

Junior Hoop Practice

Victoria Islanders, formerly First United, will hold a practice at Central Junior High tonight at 6:30. Anybody interested in playing for the junior entry in the Victoria and District Basketball League is invited to be on hand.

COAST BOOT LOOP MAY OVERSHOOT FAN GOAL

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Pacific Coast Soccer League may exceed its attendance target this season.

President Bill Findler said Monday that with only six games played in the 1963-64 schedule the league is "ahead all the way" in its drive for 100,000 attendance.

"We're not setting the world on fire," he said. "But the trend is quite apparent and if it continues, as we expect it to, we'll be closer to 150,000 than our 100,000 target."

An estimated 85,000 persons attended league games last season.

Education an Aid To Eastern Crew?

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP)—Education may help St. Catharines Athletics, down 3-1 in games in their clash with Vancouver Carlings for the Canadian senior lacrosse title, keep their hopes alive when the best-of-seven series resumes tonight.

A yen for further knowledge and teaching duties will remove two of Vancouver's big threats when the clubs resume their battle for the Mann Cup.

Wayne Pecknold, a bounding forward who has tallied eight goals in the series to rate as the top scorer for the Western champs, had to leave for Boston to register for a post-graduate course in civil engineering.

And more good news came for the Athletics with the return of Peter Black, a 205 - pound bruiser, to Vancouver to take up his teaching duties. He got credit for two goals and a pair of assists in the two games played during the weekend.

But the news wasn't all good for St. Catharines.

Doug Smith, 33, a veteran who played a standout game for the Easterners when they reversed their form of the first three games to down Vancouver 19-12 Sunday in the fourth match, has a bad knee. He injured it early in that fourth game but still scored a goal and six assists in a sparkplug performance.

RESTS HIS KNEE

He is scheduled to be in the lineup but skipped a practice session Monday to give the knee a rest.

Despite the shortening of Vancouver bench strength with the two departures, the Athletics will have a battle to stay alive.

The bulk of the team that pounded the Easterners 19-3, 11-5 and 12-7 in the first three games of the series is ready to go. Vancouver's Ed Nelson, who sat out the Sunday game, will be back and coach Alex MacKay also plans to use one of five Vancouver junior players who played with Victoria in the Minto Cup finals completed in Whitby, Ont., last week.

It is almost sure that playing coach Jim McNulty of St. Catharines will play Pat Baker in goal tonight. Baker, brought in from the Brooklin, Ont., club of the Eastern circuit for the series, was a big factor in the St. Catharines win.

Besides making several brilliant saves he picked up four assists, firing long passes to set up St. Catharines goals.

City Bowlers Take Doubles

Two Victoria women combined in Seattle to win the women's doubles in the Pacific Northwest lawn bowling tournament.

Mrs. Jean Baird, of the Canadian Pacific Club, and Mrs. Vilsie Wright, of Victoria West, teamed up for the victory.

Unplaced were Victoria bowlers Mrs. Iva Johnson and Mrs. Elsie Tillson, of Burnside Club.

Tom Larscheid's Future In Doubt

VANCOUVER (CP) — The football future of Lions' halfback Tom Larscheid is still in doubt after an apparently successful operation on a knee injury Monday.

A Vancouver surgeon however said the star halfback will definitely be side-lined for the remainder of the football season and wouldn't speculate on Larscheid's future.

Larscheid was injured in the Lions-Hamilton game Saturday. Earlier this year his other knee was injured in a game at Utah State University.

Davis in Good Spot To Keep Bat Crown

NEW YORK (AP)—Tommy Davis of Los Angeles Dodgers moves into the final week of the 1963 baseball season with an excellent chance of becoming the first National Leaguer in more than a decade to win two consecutive batting championships.

Davis has taken over the lead, climbing ahead of slumping Dick Groat of St. Louis and Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh. Davis picked up two points to .323 in last week's games with nine hits in 24 times at bat. Groat lost seven points to .320 and dropped into a second-place tie with San Francisco's Orlando Cepeda. Clemente dipped to fourth place at .319.

Carl Yastrzemski of Boston has virtually wrapped up the American League title. He leads Al Kaline of Detroit, the runner-up, by 13 points.

Yastrzemski moved up one point to .323 on seven safeties in 19 tries. Kaline also gained a point to .310.

Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota took over the American League home run lead from Boston's Dick Stuart. Killebrew walloped seven homers last week, giving him 45 for the campaign. Stuart, who leads in runs batted in with 116, has 42 homers.

Willie McCovey of San Francisco hit five homers to take over the National League lead with 43. Hank Aaron of Milwaukee, the RBI pacesetter with 127, dropped to second in home runs with 42.

CLEARWATER WON—FINALLY AND THEN OFF TO WORK

Softball: 7 p.m. to 4 a.m. . . . Ugh!

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—It took 31 innings and seven hours, 41 minutes of playing time, but the defending champion Clearwater Bombers finally beat Portland, Ore., 4-3 in the men's world softball tournament today.

The game started at 7 p.m. Monday and didn't finish until after 4 a.m.

One pitcher, Jack Hutchinson of Portland, left the game with fatigue after 29 innings although he struck out 23, walked only eight and gave up but 10 hits.

The winner, Eddie King, a 30-year-old telephone company accountant, pitched 25 innings, walking only one, allowing 9 hits and striking out 25. He also drove in the winning run.

Harry Hancock, a 240-pound construction superintendent, scored the deciding run in the 31st inning by walking, advancing to second on a sacrifice, stealing third and romping home on a single by King.

Not only was the game the longest ever played in the tournament, breaking the 24-inning record set by Springfield, Mo., and Baltimore in 1954, but it was also stopped for 53 minutes by rain in the middle of the fourth inning.

To top it off, Portland had to get ready to play again at 1 p.m. today and every member of the Clearwater team had to go to work this morning.

Other games scheduled for Monday night were postponed to this morning. They are Oxnard, Calif.-Philadelphia and Oklahoma City-Providence.

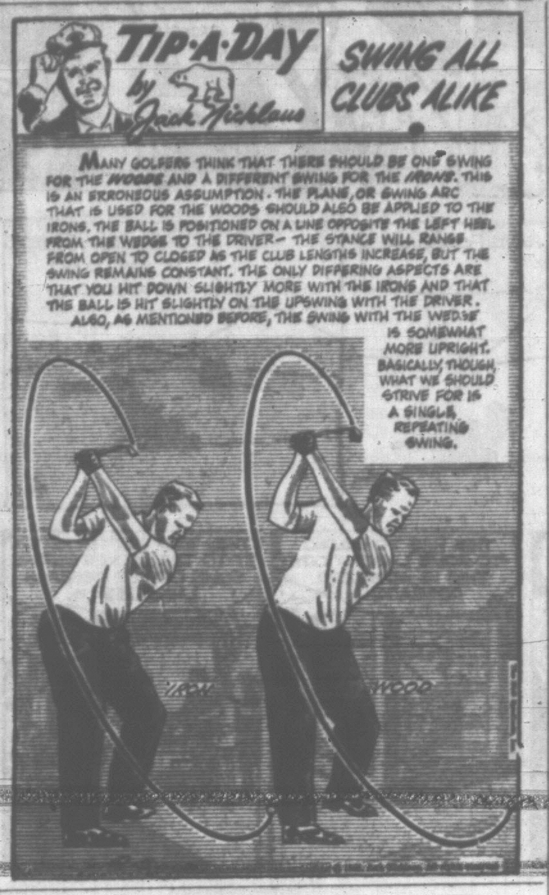
'One of Those Nights' All a Bowler Requires



TIP-A-DAY
by Jack Nicklaus
SWING ALL CLUBS ALIKE
MANY GOLFERS THINK THAT THERE SHOULD BE ONE SWING FOR THE WOODS AND A DIFFERENT SWING FOR THE IRONS. THIS IS AN ERRONEOUS ASSUMPTION. THE PLANE, OR SWING ARC THAT IS USED FOR THE WOODS SHOULD ALSO BE APPLIED TO THE IRONS. THE BALL IS POSITIONED ON A LINE OPPOSITE THE LEFT HEEL FROM THE WEDGE TO THE DRIVER— THE STANCE WILL RANGE FROM OPEN TO CLOSED AS THE CLUB LENGTHS INCREASE, BUT THE SWING REMAINS CONSTANT. THE ONLY DIFFERING ASPECTS ARE THAT YOU HIT DOWN SLIGHTLY MORE WITH THE IRONS AND THAT THE BALL IS HIT SLIGHTLY ON THE UPSWING WITH THE DRIVER.
ALSO, AS MENTIONED BEFORE, THE SWING WITH THE WEDGE IS SOMEWHAT MORE UPRIGHT. BASICALLY, THOUGH, WHAT WE SHOULD STRIVE FOR IS A SINGLE, REPEATING SWING.
IRON
WOOD

Almost any bowler can remember when he, or she, had "one of those nights."

Those are nights on the lanes when, for once, everything seems to go right.

Pins fall as if pulled by a string. Thinly-hit headpins spin in crazy circles and knock down reluctant cornerpins. Other hunks of maple carom off the boards at unexpected and happy angles and strings of strikes stretch across the scoresheet.

Such evenings don't come often, but when they do scores go up and up and a bowler floats in headpin heaven.

Just one of those evenings is all it will take for an average pin-buster to hit the headlines in the new Daily Times "Bowler of the Week" competition, which gets under way Saturday on southern Vancouver Island lanes.

EVERYBODY ELIGIBLE

Experts, of course, will have the best chance of grabbing the Bowler-of-the-Week awards, but almost all the maple-maulers in the area have a chance to top the weekly list and perhaps wind up with a Bowler-of-the-Year trophy and a prize of $100.

It's a contest that takes in fivepinners and tenpinners, men and women, boys and girls. It [illegible] filling out of entry forms and no entrance fee.

Here's how it works:

Open to all bowlers rolling in regular leagues on lanes in Greater Victoria, Duncan, Chemainus and the Lake Cowichan area, the competition will be divided into 28 weekly contests, starting each Saturday and ending the following Friday night.

High scores for the week will be forwarded to the Times and the best in four divisions—men's and women's tenpins and men's and women's fivepins—will receive Bowler of the Week certificates and earn a place in the Times "Bowlerama" in May.

Winners will be decided on a three-game, scratch basis and no contestant may win more than one weekly award. If a former winner tops the weekly list, the runner-up will qualify for the roll-off. This will make 28 bowlers in each section eligible for the final.

The four eventual winners in the Bowlerama will be presented with Bowler of the Year trophies and any who are Times subscribers will receive a bonus prize of $100.

First of the weekly contests gets under way Saturday on lanes in Victoria, Sidney, Duncan, Chemainus, Lake Cowichan and Youbou and the big question around the bowling brigade today is:

Who is going to win the first Bowler of the Week awards?

Perhaps it could be you. So, happy rolling!

'I AM THE GREATEST'

Old Ladies Buying Long-Play by Clay

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—Cassius Clay's long-playing record album, I Am the Greatest, appears to be a hit.

"Cassius' records are going very well, considering they've only been out a couple of weeks," said the proprietor of one mid - Manhattan record store.

"Strangely, they appeal more to gentle old ladies and big, tough ditch-digging types than to the teen-agers."

If you've got $3.98 and a half-hour to spare, you can sit and listen to the beak-bashing bard of Louisville tell you what a great fighter he is and how quickly he plans to disintegrate world heavyweight champion Sonny Liston, when and if they're put in the same ring.

"I am the greatest" Cassius repeats so many times on the 10-part, two-sided record that you constantly are checking to see if the needle is stuck.

He recites some of his favorite poetry—by his favorite rhyme-maker, Cassius Clay:

"This kid is great—he's got endurance.

"If you sign to fight him, increase your insurance."

Other Cassius gems:

"Mister Liston don't need boxing lessons or talking lessons — he needs falling lessons."

"I saw that ugly man shadow boxing—and his shadow won."

"All Liston's got is a physical fatness program."

"I'll hit Liston so far—pop, pop, pop — that he'll think he's surrounded."

"When I'm finished, the president will send out a proclamation declaring Liston's jaw a disaster area."

Post Seeks New Trial On Lawsuit

ATLANTA (AP) — Attorneys for the Saturday Evening Post will argue Oct. 16 for a new trial of Wally Butts' libel suit or for a reduction of a $3,060,000 judgment awarded the former University of Georgia athletic director by a federal court jury.

District Judge Lewis R. Morgan set the hearing Monday.

Post attorneys will press for a retrial on grounds that the jury was prejudiced and the award was excessive. As an alternative, they will ask for a cut in the judgment, one of the largest in legal history.

The former coach and athletic director won his verdict Aug. 20 from a jury which decided the Post libeled him in a March 23 article charging that he conspired with coach Paul Bryant to rig the 1962 Georgia-Alabama football game.

Mounties Flirting With L.A. Dodgers

VANCOUVER (CP) — George Norgan, president of the Vancouver Mounties, said today "We have to deny" reports that his club had been "making a pitch" for Spokane's Pacific Coast League baseball franchise.

"That would be unethical," he said.

"We are not even in the league and until such time as we get some indication that we are going to get back in we cannot approach anybody."

He was commenting on a statement by Spencer Harris, general manager of Spokane Indians of the PCL, who said it was known Vancouver had been making efforts to rejoin the PCL and had been making its strongest move to get the Los Angeles Dodgers of the National League to transfer its PCL franchise here from Spokane.

The Mounties, who dropped out of the PCL because the club was over-burdened with debt, still owe $52,000 and have been told they are welcome back once the debts are cleared away.

Norgan said the Mounties will have a delegate at the San Diego, Calif., league meeting Saturday and "indications are that we may be included in the league in 1964."

Norgan said the ideal situation would be for a major league club to take over complete operation of the Mounties.

BILL GADSBY

UNDER THE ARCS

Prep Soccer Ready to Go

The lights go on again this week for high school soccer players and this year they'll be burning earlier and more frequently.

In the past two years Inter-High School Soccer League officials have staged the city final under the lights. Both times the finals have attracted good crowds and the prep boot brass has decided to borrow a page from baseball television this year and stage a "game of the week" under the arcs at Royal Athletic Park.

Ushering in the new campaign Friday night will be Victoria High's defending champions and their old rivals from Oak Bay. Action starts at 7:30.

Completing the league roster are Esquimalt, Mount View, Mount Douglas and Claremont. Most league games will be played on Wednesday and Friday afternoons and officials will select one game each week for the Friday night presentation.

Promising to add color to the Athletic Park contests are plans for cheerleaders, bands and half-time entertainment.

Oak Bay will be biting off a rugged chore in Friday's opener. Vics have most players from their championship club back for another year and preseason reports indicate they must be rated favorites to repeat.

Tough Bill Gadsby Ready for No. 18

By The Canadian Press

Tough old Bill Gadsby scratched his signature on another National Hockey League contract Monday—signifying he is ready for his 18th season.

But the real old man of the league's defencemen, Doug Harvey is still missing.

Gadsby, 36-year-old Detroit rearguard, played in all 70 games last year plus two sets of playoffs for the Red Wings.

Harvey, 39, is keeping New York Rangers guessing. He's still at his Montreal home.

The Rangers, however, [illegible] he may show up at their Winnipeg camp Wednesday. Harvey says business commitments have caused his delay.

The Wings are training on their home ice at Detroit's Olympia and manager - coach Sid Abel announced Gadsby's signing Monday.

Also signed by the Wings were defenceman Marcel Pronovost, 33, and left winger Parker MacDonald, 30. Pronovost, going into his 14th season, has spent his entire career with Detroit. [illegible] 33 goals and 28 assists.

Chicago Hawks sent four players to their minor camp in Welland — Oscar Gaudet, John Brenneman, Phil Esposito and Dale McDonald.

Boston Bruins also sent six players out of their big camp, all of whom have been optioned to Minneapolis Bruins of the Central League. Terry Crisp, Jeannot Gilbert, Wayne Maxner, Gary Dornhoefer, Ken Stephanson and Wayne Schultz were to join the Minneapolis team at its Bowmanville, Ont., camp.

There were no exhibition games Monday but two are on tap tonight. Toronto Maple Leafs meet Los Angeles Blades of the Western League at Saskatoon, and the Red Wings play their farmhands at Detroit. The Wings' competition will be picked from the combined camps at Pittsburgh Hornets of the American League and Indianapolis of the new Central League, both Detroit farm clubs.

League Lifts Reaume's Ban

NEW YORK (AP)—The indefinite suspension imposed on veteran defenceman Marc Reaume last April was lifted today by Jim Balmer, American Hockey League president.

Reaume was suspended for pushing referee John Ashley during the fifth game of the Calder Cup finals while playing for Hershey against Buffalo. He was subsequently sold to Montreal Canadiens of the National League.

Balmer said Reaume's otherwise excellent deportment in the AHL was a major reason for today's action.

'Reconsider' Mickey Asks Uncle Sam

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mickey Mantle has asked the U.S. in[illegible] siders its decision that he owes $37,605.39 more in 1957 taxes.

In a petition filed with the service Sept. 18, the New York Yankee outfielder asked for a re-determination of the amount which was set June 26 of this year.

Mantle's lawyer said the IRS erroneously included $52,500 as taxable income because Mantle received Jan. 26, 1957, 15,000 shares of stock in the Mickey Mantle Motel Corporation.

Milwaukee Still Home For Baseball Braves

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee Braves announced Monday that the National League baseball club "will be in Milwaukee today, tomorrow, next year and as long as we are welcome."

John McHale, president and general manager of the club, issued a statement saying:

"The many statements, rumors, and speculations concerning the future location of the Milwaukee Braves have created a confused situation. In order to dispel this confusion, my associates join me in making this statement.

"It is quite natural for cities seeking major league franchises to solicit the interest of clubs whose attendance has declined, just as Milwaukee did in 1953.

"Attractive offers have been made to us by several cities, but our decision is to remain in Milwaukee."

For weeks, Atlanta and San Diego fan groups, in particular, have been reported attempting to induce the Braves to move.

Buford Selected Rookie of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Don Buford, 26-year-old third baseman for Indianapolis Indians, was named International League Rookie of the Year Monday by a poll of the league's baseball writers.

Buford took the IL's batting title with a .336 average and had 206 hits and 114 runs batted in. His 42 stolen bases also were a league high.

Visitors to See A Few Changes In Ol' New York

NEW YORK (AP)—A quarter century after tearing down the trylon and perisphere, New York is building another fair—bigger, better and aimed at pulling even more visitors into the metropolis.

Some 25,000,000 persons showed up for the first year of the 1939 fair. This time fair builders hope for 40,000,000 the first year, 1964.

Those returning for the first time since the aquacade closed will find little old New York changed. There will be nostalgia for some. But there will be fascination for all, especially youngsters who never before have seen the stone and brick canyons of New York.

Some old landmarks have changed. The aquarium that used to be on the tip of Manhattan has been moved to Coney Island. The George Washington Bridge has a new lower deck.

The Empire State Building still rises majestically 102 storeys above Fifth Avenue. But a 222-foot television tower has been erected atop it. Among outstanding new skyscrapers is the Pan Am Building, towering 59 storeys over Grand Central Terminal.

The elevated trains on Third and Sixth Avenues have been removed. New construction has erased the avenue's drabness and turned them into imposing thoroughfares. Park Avenue, once a sedate citadel of high-rent apartments, now is mainly an avenue of hotels and bright new business structures.

The subway fare was five cents in 1939. Now it's 15 cents and only tokens fit the turnstiles. Trolleys have vanished. But the Staten Island ferry still is five cents a ride, unfolding in its wake the spectacular lower New York skyline.

PET POINTS

By Dr. J. R. Emas

Does a Dog's Eyes Reveal Internal Diseases?

Yes. Your veterinarian can recognize internal disease by detecting certain changes in the external and internal structure of the eyes.

* * *

Q. "Humans live longer today than their counterparts did only several generations ago. How about cats and dogs? Has their life span increased?"

— M. B. V., Alpine, Texas.

A. Yes. Because of advanced veterinary care, improved breeding knowledge, and the availability of nutritionally balanced pet foods, the average cat and dog today will live five years longer than their counterparts of only 30 years ago.

Q. "Our pet parakeet has recently grown a large beak which curves into his breast. What should we do?"

R. M., Oshkosh, Wis.

A. The beak needs trimming, otherwise your pet will be unable to eat or drink. Take him to your veterinarian. He'll trim the beak and, at the same time, will be happy to give you proper instruction, so that in the future you can properly and safely trim your pet's beak at home. It's a relatively simple procedure.

Q. "Could you please tell me how to get the smell of a skunk off our dog?"

Miss N. C., Chinchilla, Pa.

A. Bathe him in tomato juice for about 20 minutes, then wash him down with a mild soap. The pink color your dog will get from the tomato juice will only disappear after a number of baths, but the skunk odor will go with the first dunking in the tomato juice.

Electricity: Cheap, Fast, In Short Supply

By DOUG MARSHALL

LONDON (CP) — News that there may not be enough electricity to go round again this winter first sent cold chills up and down Britons' spines. Now they are doing a slow burn.

The warning came from Sir Christopher Hinton, chairman of the state-owned Central Electricity Generating Board. Looking ahead, he said grimly:

"We must envisage the possibility that we shall not get through without voltage reductions at a time of peak load and there may even be disconnections of supply."

Britons have no trouble envisaging such a possibility. Memories of last winter, the coldest since 1740, still make teeth chatter.

BITTER BLOW

It was a bitter chronicle of snow, fog, sleet and freezing rain.

Since a high proportion of Britain's newer houses depend entirely on electrical space heaters for general warmth, many families simply froze when supplies were cut or reduced.

The Generating Board report relates, in a gripping now-[illegible] how horrified technicians watched the country's entire electrical grid system all but collapse one night last January.

Frozen slush on insulators short-circuited sub-station after sub-station up and down the country until distribution of power among the four national regions hinged on a single uncertain cable.

Giles, The Daily Express cartoonist, parodies some of the board's publicity slogans with posters reading "Electricity is Cheap, Fast, Clean — and Scarce" and "Only 96 Cooking Days Until Christmas."

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of World Book Encyclopedia to Michael Stiennow, age 12, of Madison, Wisc., for his question:

Is it true that the continents are drifting apart?

The theory of continental drift suggests that the land masses were once joined together. For a time this theory was out of style. But new evidence from rocks, from the sea bed and from Antarctica is causing geologists to take a second look. If we can prove that the continents drifted in the past, we may assume that they are still drifting apart

Our global map certainly has changed in the past. Recent evidence from Antarctica proves that this was not always a cold land. Either the south pole has shifted or Antarctica has shifted. Today it is a barren land, but its minerals and fossils prove that it once supported plant and animal life.

What's more, the fossils have been dated. Certain plants and animals were living at the same periods in South Africa, South America, Australia and Antarctica. These widely-separated lands have ridges left by an Ice Age glacier some 250 million years ago. If this glacial drift is placed in a line, the land masses of the Southern Hemisphere come together like the pieces of a jigsaw puzzle.

In other parts of the world, magnetic rocks indicate that land masses have moved in relation to the poles. North of the equator, fossils and rock formations are repeated on both sides of the Atlantic. If we include the massive underwater Atlantic Ridge, the Old World and the New also fit like pieces of a jigsaw. If we include the shallow continental shelves, the land masses fit even closer.

The theory of this continental drift is still being investigated and more data is needed to prove it. Most experts suspect that the present continents were once one land mass which broke into segments and drifted apart. If this is proved, there is good reason to think that the continents are still drifting apart.

Drifting Apart

The original land mass may have existed some 200 million years ago in the coal-making Carboniferous Period. The large sections may have cracked some 50 million years ago. Since then the continents seem to have been drifting farther and farther apart.

The continents rest on thick layers of dense pre-Cambrian rocks. In turn, they rest on the mantle of still denser basalt rocks. It is hard to imagine these sturdy masses drifting around the globe. It is hard to imagine that the proud Rockies arose from a vast ditch, but they did. If this amazing geological event is true, then perhaps we dare imagine the notion of drifting continents.

* * *

Andy sends a 15-inch World Book globe to Koula Hatzimichael, age 11, of Som, Mass., for her question:

What is a galaxy?

On a clear night, you can look up and see a galaxy. It looks like a ghostly white arch hooping over the sky, and we call it the Milky Way. Its pale glow comes from billions of faraway stars, for a galaxy is a giant pinwheel of whirling stars. The Milky Way looks liks a flat strip because we have an edgewise view of our galaxy.

The solar system and all the stars we see are parts of our galaxy, our home in the heavens. Out in deep space there are countless other galaxies. A few can be seen as hazy blurs in our skies, but most of them can be spotted only by our big telescopes.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Some days you shouldn't read your mail.

It was a typed three-pager from Evanston, Ill.

"To be 50 in America today is a crime—why?" the woman said. "I dare you to find a job at scratch from 50!"

She was attractive . . . well-read . . . travelled . . . a college graduate . . . she could spell. Employers took her to lunch but they wouldn't hire her, not even as a housekeeper or servant . . . she was 53.

I thought about that letter. At a Broadway party I met a bouncy little go-getting woman, "Peppy Fields, who, by coincidence, had started a new life at 50.

"Peppy" was tossed into a hospital at 45 with a coronary. Her husband's business went bad. Her son had to leave college. Everything crashed.

"Suddenly," she said, "they told me my heart condition was falsely diagnosed. I was OK! I got work and started over again."

TELL HER HOW

"Write this Evanston woman how you did it," I urged "Peppy."

She filled three pages. "I went hunting a job as a typist though I was a very bad typist and still am. They weren't too fussy about part-time typists."

She kept an eye open for other jobs. She became "banquet director" at the International cafe on B'way . . . got a job selling ads for a real estate paper . . . but it was temporary . . . sold ads on commission for "New York Visitors' Reporter" . . . "they said it would be rough but I took it . . . it worked out fine and they let me write a column . . .

"I'd been in show business. I decided to try to sing again. I enrolled at the American Theatre Wing . . . started singing at hospitals. The president of Jubilee signed me to a record contract. My album has been well received.

"Oh yes. My son is now a lawyer in Hollywood, Fla. My husband was able to keep his business."

Peppy, of course, closed her letter with a pep talk. "Age has nothing to do with it. Go, Go, Go. Don't do it by mail. Go, Go, Go!"

The Evanston woman told Peppy she must be crazy . . . she must think she was a little girl . . . maybe Peppy would send her a candy bar.

"I hate to be cynical," Peppy said, in another letter to me. "My womanly intuition told me there'd be that kind of a letter. Believe me, there are so many opportunities!"

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Today's Near-Sighted Items: what famous gal singer's teenage son was arrested for beating up an old man in New England? What red-hot TV exec is on the skids? What husband found out that his goregous wife, a star, wasn't fooling in her love scenes with her leading man, who's a notorious wife-burglar? . . . Roy Castle suggests this billing for the quints' father: "Bodies by Fischer." . . . Sammy Davis Jr. reportedly'll get a fat 100Gs for seven days of concerts in Japan.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: There are lots of people in this country who own TV sets with remote control. For instance, the finance companies.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: There is one thing to be said for a dull party—at least you get home at a decent hour.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Going to college has become so expensive that even football players are writing home for money."—Pic Larmour.

EARL'S PEARLS: Some educators are meeting the demand for more strenuous college programs by devoting additional time to football practice.—Harold Coffin.

Comedian Jason Blake went to see "Lawrence of Arabia" and asked the ticket seller for "Two in the shade, please." . . . That's earl, brother.

Tourist Body Asks Replay Of Grey Cup Presentation

A second presentation of the Grey Cup—on the steps of the Legislative Buildings in Victoria—is proposed by the tourist industry group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

Members supported Norman Loomer Monday night when he said:

"Most of the 18,000 people who come out to the Coast for the Grey Cup stay in Vancouver. Why not bring them here?

"There should be a second presentation of the Grey Cup right on the steps of the Buildings. Football is the Number One game in Canada and we should be part of it."

Speaking at a dinner meeting of the tourist industry group in the Guvnor's Grill, Mr. Loomer said the group should go to the football commissioner proposing the second presentation.

GOOD TONIC

Chairman Bernie Cox warned that the winning team might be "too pooped out" to come to Victoria, but other members thought a trip to Victoria might be just what they needed.

"As a promotional idea I think it's first class," said Philip Enman.

Mr. Cox called for volunteers to work with Mr. Loomer on the Grey Cup idea, suggesting Mr. Loomer should be chairman of a "Grey Cup for Victoria" committee.

This brought a comment from Mr. Loomer that the group was too fond of setting up chairmen.

"People are afraid to mention a project for fear they are voted into a chair," he said. "Let's act as a group instead of setting up committees."

Mr. Loomer added that Victoria is "by-passing" thousands of dollars a year by not going all out to attract tourist business.

"We should have a big parade through the city streets for every Grey Cup contest [illegible] Western Canada," he declared.

Ian Ross, proprietor of the Butchart Gardens, said many members of Victoria Chamber of Commerce "do not realize the importance of the tourist industry."

"They are not much interested in the work of this group," he said, "and the public at large needs to be educated to realize what tourism means to Victoria and Vancouver Island."

Mr. Ross also stressed the importance of California as a source of tourism.

DIVORCE SOUGHT

Infidelity, Knife Attack Get Airing

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Lillian Roth says her husband is the father of a child by another woman. He says the actress and singer drank too much and once tried to stab him.

That was testimony Monday in the divorce action filed in Phoenix by Thomas Burt McGuire, Jr., 48, scion of the wealthy Funk and Wagnalls dictionary family and Miss Roth's fifth husband. He charges Miss Roth with desertion, mental and physical cruelty and habitual intemperance.

McGuire said he is virtually disabled as the result of six tumor operations and poliomyelitis. But he refused to answer when Miss Roth's lawyer asked:

"Is it true that a child bearing your name was born in the Cottonwood, Ariz., Hospital Aug. 18, 1963?"

Police Lieut. Thomas M. Aitken of Palm Springs, Calif., testified about the alleged knife attack.

He said he was called to the McGuire home in July, 1960, and "had the impression Miss Roth was intoxicated." Aitken said he also found evidence that the walls had been struck with a knife.

McGuire said Miss Roth, a former alcoholic and author of the 1955 best seller I'll Cry Tomorrow, returned to drinking in 1960 and he tried to protect her from adverse publicity.

PROUD MOMENT AT UBC

Dream Theatre Delight to All

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Audrey

A proud moment, a moment of culmination for the department of theatre, University of British Columbia, came last week when the campus' elegant new Frederick Wood Theatre was declared officially open.

An ideal size from the University viewpoi versity viewpoint — it seats 400 — the theatre is not only a directors' and actors' dream, bu tis a delight for the audience as well.

From every part of the house, the view of the stage is superb and without distraction, due to the soft coloration and uncluttered, contemporary elegance of interior design.

Walls are wood panelled in long, floor-to-ceiling lines, the rubbed finish a soft greyed brown. The front curtain is dove grey velvet, the aisles are carpeted in a lightly patterned grey and only the seats provide an accent.

These, luxuriously comfortable, are upholstered in a delectable violet shade.

The note of elegance is struck upon first entering the spacious foyer where again soft colors predominate and suspended turrets of light, like topaz stalactites, are the principal note of decoration.

Inset Turntable

Backstage, all has been meticulously planned for the maximum efficiency and facility of production. The stage itself boasts that ultimate desire of all theatre producers, an inset turntable.

The opening production, "Salad Days," seemed to me rather a curious choice for such an occasion and such a theatre. However, it is a lovely, airy piece of persiflage and I with the rest of the capacity audience, thoroughly enjoyed it.

Completely lacking in plot and anything significant in the way of songs, it nevertheless is a rhythmic, tuneful, funny and gay affair that is quite irresistible while you are in the theatre with it.

Directed by John Brockington and John Emerson, it gathered momentum after a rather draggy start.

Former Victorian

Former Victorian, John Sparks, and red-haired Yvonne O'Sullivan were lively and appealing as the boy and girl about whom the sketchy threads of story are spun.

Their voices, clear, strong and tunefeul, were well suited to the style of the show But acoustically, the theatre provided every actor and singer with maximum advantage.

Hit of the show for me, however, was undoubtedly young Dean Regan, a highlight of the International Festival's "Spring Thaw" production, who in this plays the mute keeper of the chief protagonist—a magic piano that sets every foot to dancing.

To the role he brought personal charm, grace and agility together with a delightful gift for mime.

A disturbing feature was the fact that from front and sides of the auditorium one was able to see comings and goings backstage. No one had presumably checked these points.

I was more seriously disturbed by the length of the opening ceremonies. It seemed to me that this phase might have been severely pruned or, preferably, transferred to a separate occasion.

If it could have taken place the night before, for example, one might have had a chance to hear something from witty and erudite John Mason Brown.

The famous American drama critic sat on the stage during the whole of the opening ceremonies but never got in a single word, though referred to as "having come a great distance to attend the ceremony."

True he had given an address early in the day before a predominantly student audience in the old auditorium. It was a necessarily brief address, sandwiched between lunch break and classes.

I am certain, however, that the evening audience would have equally appreciated a chance to hear Mr. Brown's penetrating commentary on "The Place of Theatre in the World Today."

As it was, there were too many speakers, too much reiteration, with the result "Salad Days" did not get under way until 9:30, though programed to start at 8:40.

Told On Audience

The long wait told on the audience, most of whom did not avail themselves of an invitation to tour the theatre after the final curtain.

More particularly though, it was reflected in the cast by the slow opening and, despite a good pick-up in the second half of the first and first part of the second acts, a fading of vitality towards the finale.

Opening ceremonies were conducted by Chancellor of the University of British Columbia, Dr. Phyllis G. Ross. Other speakers were Mrs. W. J. Dorrance, representing Canada Council; Dean S. N. F. Chant, Dr. N. A. M. MacKenzie, who gave the official opening address, and Professor Emeritus, Frederick G. C. Wood.

Founder (in 1915) and honorary president of the Players' Club, the former Victoria resident and first B.C. native son to join the faculty of the English department, Mr. Wood's name was originally given, 11 years ago to a small army hut theatre seating 123 persons.

Here much fine talent was developed and exciting theatre of various kinds flourished under the dedicated supervision of Miss Dorothy Somerset, head of UBC's Department of Theatre.

Canada Council provided impetus for development of the new theatre with a grant towards the building on the campus, of a Centre for the Fine Arts.

The theatre and its facilities have also been sponsored by the Province of B.C. capital grants, Leon and Thea Koerner Foundation, Players Club Alumni and Alumni Association.

NIGHT CLUB BANKRUPTED BY SUCCESS

LONDON (AP)—The night club that launched Britain's craze for satirical entertainment has failed — killed by the commodity it created.

"Satirists have become so expensive," said Nicholas Luard, "that only big record companies and TV can afford them."

Luard and actor Peter Cook own the once-popular Establishment Club.

In bankruptcy court Monday, a report said the club had lost £65,985 ($197,955) in less than three years.

ELECTION NOTEBOOK WONDERS IF MAYOR SHOULD FORM 'BASTION SQUARE PARTY'

Dick Wilson's a Jolly Good Fellow—So Say Socreds, Grits, Tories

Politicians sometimes have to swallow bitter pills fed to them not by enemies but "friends."

That's what happened on Monday night to J. Donald Smith, seeking re-election as one of the three Social Credit MLAs for Victoria.

At a campaign meeting in Sir James Douglas School he sat without expression while running-mate Waldo Skillings showered praise on Mayor R. B. Wilson.

"One of the finest mayors we've ever had in the city of Victoria is Dick Wilson," enthused Mr. Skillings. "He is doing just a terrific job."

Skillings either forgot or ignored the fact that Mr. Smith less than two years ago fought and lost a bitter campaign against Mr. Wilson for the mayoralty.

Adding a little more acid to the pill must have been the big round of applause Mr. Skillings' statement aroused—loudest of the evening by far.

Anothering interesting sidelight to the remark is that it lines up the Social Credit party along with the Liberals and Progressive Conservatives as professed admirers of Mr. Wilson.

Now only the NDP hasn't made a declaration of love for Victoria's mayor. And they may yet.

With that kind of bi-partisan support, he should be able to stop turning down refusals to invitations from various parties and organize his own for the next provincial election — possibly the "Bastion Square Party?"

Victoria's heckler-in-chief has apologized for making a racket at Premier Bennett's Royal Theatre meeting on Friday.

A man identifying himself as "the Heckler, Gordon A. Lavoie," made the apology in a telegram to the premier.

"Sorry for all the heckling tonight but you won me over," it said.

"Reason was I applied for civil service position last January and with all qualifications expected action.

"Now no unemployment insurance, no job, a little desperate.

"Be a better backer than heckler."

The Civil Service Commission confirmed that a Gordon A. Lavoie of 1586 Rockland Ave., had applied for a job, hadn't got it, but left his application on file for anything else that might come up.

Liberal leader Ray Perrault Monday night came the closest he has ever done to promising a cabinet post to [illegible]

He hinted strongly that Oak Bay's Alan Macfarlane, a lawyer, would be attorney-general if there were a Liberal government.

"We will take a fresh look at the administration of justice in this province," he told a meeting at Lansdowne Junior High School.

"Alan Macfarlane will be a key figure in it."

Works Minister W. N. Chant unwittingly gave a good example of double-think at a political meeting.

He denounced Davie Fulton for resorting to personal denigration and vituperation against Premier Bennett.

In the next breath, Mr. Chant described the Tory leader as "a disgrace to the public life of this country, spouting absolute falsehoods."

"I say our premier has more integrity and ability in his little finger than this man has in his whole carcass."

Mr. Chant didn't say whether "this man" meant Fulton's carcass or his own.

But he quickly launched into another example of double-think, saying there was a very definite and important reason for calling an election at this time.

"The province has reached the stage where momentous decisions and commitments have to be made and we must have the people's verdict."

And he immediately followed up that statement with an attack on Mr. Fulton's stop-the-Peace stand as throwing away $100,000,000 "that already has been committed."

Election meetings tonight: Esquimalt, all-candidates forum, Luxton Hall; Oak Bay Social Credit, Frank Hobbs School; Saanich Liberals, Gordon Head School; Saanich, NDP., St. Michael's Church; Saanich Progressive Conservatives, Brentwood Women's Institute Hall.

VICTORIA, B.C., TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1963—PAGE 15

Arthur Mayse

We were treading a stately measure at the Empress a while back when my self-esteem was punctured by the sight of a pair who danced as I'd like to, but never, never will.

Later bird-dogging led me three flights up from Broughton Street to a hardwood floor being circled by about 30 couples.

Most were middle-aged, the eldest could call me "sonny" and get away with it, but they all waltzed with grace, precision, and such uniformity as a Canadian ballroom rarely witnesses.

This last is as it should be, according to the blonde half of that dazzling Empress team, a London-accented teacher of the dance called Elsie Holtum.

Almost everywhere in the world, Mrs. Holtum explains, an international ballroom style dictated by England has found acceptance. But here and in America, she qualifies sadly, too many of us persist in getting around a floor by methods of our own devising.

"The Japanese have adopted international," she told me, with an approving nod for the well-synchronized couple who swirled past. "They're good dancers, you know. Even the Russians are interested: they have approached England for dance instructors."

What caused the Soviets to lift a corner of the curtain was worry over the effect of western rock-and-roll on their young people.

"Jungle dancing" is Mrs. Holtum's term for this jive-based phenomenon. She teaches correct jive, but urges teen-agers to learn their ballroom basics as well.

"I feel they miss out on so much by not learning," she mourns.

"A knowledge of ballroom dancing helps them acquire confidence. When a boy especially can be persuaded to learn, he won't be so shy about dancing later."

* * *

As a matter of fact, each year brings boys and girls to the dance studios, most of them without parental pressure. They learn fast and their attitude warms from dubious to enthusiastic.

A girl takes a few ballroom lessons, then goes to a school dance. Next lesson, in she bounces with nose in air.

"Boys!" she declaims to her teacher. "They don't know anything . . . not even how to hold a girl properly!"

And while it doesn't often happen, she's been known to fetch the offending partner to the studio for instruction.

He may, in fact usually does, shed his timidity with exposure. But the general male shyness toward ballroom dancing remains a puzzler.

"Why," Mrs. Holtum demands, "will a man put on a shirt made from the same material as his wife's dress, top it with a white hat and go square-dancing, but be so wary of a ballroom?

* * *

Amiably outspoken, Mrs. Holtum went on to tell me that Canadian orchestras compare dismally with England's, and that doctors as a group are the worst dancers in Victoria.

Enlarging, she added that men in general—although 75 per cent of the partnership—rarely dance as well as women. They have less rhythm, and don't find in dancing the sense of romance and glamor which a woman does.

Almost invariably, it's the wife who prods the reluctant husband into taking lessons.

This, a typical couple gets around to in their forties. The children are grown or mostly so, and for the first time since marriage, husband and wife have entered upon a breathing space.

The reasons people offer for turning up at a dance studio are various.

Some seek and find the friends they haven't been able to acquire elsewhere. Others simply wish to add minimum dancing ability to their social assets, and quit when they feel they've accomplished this. There are those who settle on ballroom dancing as a hobby, and make the studio their club.

Often there's another less tangible reason. Even though youth once flown is a bird uncatchable, the illusion can be achieved for a while, to the beat of a dance rhythm, on a polished floor.

IF A SEAT BELT is strong enough to suspend the front end of this 3,300-lb. automobile it can help prevent injuries to motorists involved in accidents, claim members of Victoria Lions Club. They will be selling and installing belts like the one pictured here Saturday and Sunday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Mooney's Auto Body Shop, 937 View. Belts come in seven colors, have metal-to-metal clasps and have been tested to stand a 6,000-lb. strain. Lions installed 2,000 belts in last year's campaign.

Ferry Crews Keep Pressing Bennett

B.C. Ferry employees, following a meeting in Vancouver Monday, have wired Premier Bennett reiterating demands for collective bargaining and choice of union representation.

They will meet again today to discuss future plans, including a possible strike.

"That will be determined by the men themselves," said Bob Cook, president of Local 425, Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Transport and General Workers, which is seeking jurisdiction.

Crews have been talking strike seriously since Sept. 3 when a wildcat walkout was staged at Nanaimo.

The men returned to work after six hours when they received assurances of meetings with officials to settle their problems.

OPPOSED

Protests broke out again following a government announcement that it would recognize the B.C. Government Employees' Association as representative of all ferry employees.

"The men don't want that," Mr. Cook said.

Today's telegram reads: "A meeting held Monday, Sept. 23, of B.C. Government Ferry employees representing masters, mates, engineers, deckhands, stewards, cooks and unlicensed engineering staff instructed me to send you the following statement—'We employees of the B.C. Government Ferry system demand of your government (1) the right to government-supervised vote to determine the trade union of our choice, (2) the right to collective bargaining.

" 'We feel these are democratic rights owing to every citizen of this province. We request a reply as soon as possible.' Signed Robert F. Cook."

Copies to other leaders began: "If your party becomes the government after this election . . . "

Mr. Cook said ferry men are angry at not having the rights they demand. He said there has been "not a word" from the B.C. Government Employees' Association since the government announced that it would recognize the association for all ferry employees.

A meeting called in Victoria Monday night was a virtual failure, Mr. Cook said.

FEW TURNED UP

"There was a breakdown in communications and few turned up."

He said notices of the meeting were posted aboard ferries "but they were torn down."

He said it was not a large enough meeting to achieve anything definite, so general problems were discussed.

The Brotherhood's marine engineer division has 32 engineers in Victoria.

Help! Message On Smoke Sent To Pittsburgh

Smoke committee chairman Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow today wired the city of Pittsburgh to find out how it beat a world-famous fly ash and smoke problem.

He said he asked Pittsburgh officials to send him any information they could in time for a smoke committee meeting set for Thursday.

UNIQUE PROBLEM

Ald. Edgelow noted however that the local smoke and fly ash problem is unique in that it stems from a concentration of mills in the heart of the city that burn wet wood waste.

He said representatives of local plants would be invited to the meeting to detail all the improvements they have made so far in efforts to reduce the problem.

He said he was tired of receiving criticism every time he pointed out that industry has co-operated with the city's efforts to lessen fly ash fallout.

"I'm not going to stick out my neck again," Ald Edgelow said. "Let the plant operators themselves tell the committee what they are doing to improve the situation and how far they're intending to go in the future."

COUSIN TESTIFIES:

Murder Suspect Drinking

John Stanley Crocker fell overboard from a boat after drinking part of a jug of wine on the evening before Joseph George was murdered, a preliminary hearing was told Monday.

The hearing is into a charge [illegible] murdered his distant relative, the 80-year-old George, on Galiano Island on Aug. 13.

The old man disappeared from his blood-soaked cabin overnight, Aug. 12-13. Evidence showed George had been drinking with the accused's grandfather, Arthur (Pop) Crocker, the night of Aug. 12.

Ernie Crocker, the 15-year-old cousin of the accused, said John took some wine from Pop Crocker's boat and they drank about a half-gallon of it.

[illegible] wine in a boat. After John fell in the water he went ashore and changed into some of Ernie's clothes.

Ernie told Magistrate William Ostler that next morning when he saw John there were bloodstains on the knee of the pants he had loaned to the accused.

At this morning's hearing Gerry James, 21, told of hearing "some banging" when he was asleep later that evening in a shack beside George's cabin.

ARGUMENT

Gerry said he heard "voices arguing" and he identified the voices as those of George, John Crocker and another person called Solomon Joe.

He said he left the shack and went to sleep behind the home of Henry Crocker nearby. Later he heard Solomon Joe arrive at the front of Henry's home and go in.

Gerry said he then got up and also went into the house to sleep. He said that still later John Crocker arrived and also came in to sleep in Henry's house.

Peter Mitchell, the great-uncle of the accused, said he opened the door of Henry's cabin when John arrived. He said he saw blood on John's shirt.

Arthur Crocker, the grandfather of the accused, and a nephew of the dead man, said he met John during the afternoon of Aug. 13 after it was discovered that George was missing.

He said that John told him "I didn't kill the old man. I had a battle with the old man but we shook hands."

Police evidence showed that George's cabin was a bloody mess and that there was a trail of bloodstained articles down to the beach from the cabin.

George's body was recovered a week after he went missing. It was weighted down by an engine manifold in the deep water of Porlier Pass, off the north end of Galiano Island

Family Court Quarters 'Inadequate'

Mayor R. B. Wilson today said the Greater Victoria family court quarters are totally inadequate.

He said he probably would suggest to an intermunicipal committee meeting today that a study be undertaken to improve the situation.

The mayor's comments came after a personal inspection of the court facilities in the basement of the city health and welfare building on Cook Street.

Mayor Wilson said the accommodation is cramped and inefficient.

"And it certainly is not fair to ask people to work all day when the air is so bad," he added.

At present, the court serves the city, Saanich and Oak Bay.

UNIVERSITY SEEKS NAME

Uvic, Univic, Vicu Short Title Snafu

By AB KENT

A short, snappy handle for University of Victoria fires student imagination like a sack of secondhand teabags.

The student body has RAVIC, SUB, PUBS, IVCF, NFCUS AND EUS, and possibly more, but UVIS, VICU and UNIVIC are still strangers to the campuses at Lansdowne and Gordon Head.

A poll conducted today in the steamy cavern of intellectual pursuit, the CAF, shows students haven't thought about a popular title or are still calling their institution Victoria College.

Most agree there should be and probably will be a suitable colloquialism for the university.

EVOLUTION

But in the words of social convener Sharon Kirk, 20, arts 4:

"A name is something you can't make happen by sitting down and declaring. It's the same with a school yell or song. They will evolve of their own accord," because they are part of the university tradition.

As an illustration of her point, the suggested UNIVIC, UVIC and VICU have not been caught up popularly, Miss Kirk said.

"It's got to be something quite catchy. It will be snapped up immediately when the right thing comes along."

So much for chancellor Judge J. B. Clearihue's suggested UVIC.

Winston Jackson, 20, arts 2, thinks UVIC will do for the interim, but suggests UVC, for University of Victoria City, should be considered.

Whatever gets popular consent should not be "corny or sensational," he said.

TORONTO, TOO

Those polled agreed the short title should be distinctive. They are worried that they might be confused with Victoria University in Toronto.

"I think the proper title should be changed to University of Vancouver Island," said Martin Vanderpol, 35, education 1.

"This would be analogous to UBC, which is serving the whole province. This university is serving Vancouver Island."

Anne Logie, 20, arts 4, and Jim Taylor, 21, arts 4, find it hard to think in terms of a university, rather than the more familiar Victoria College

"UVIC sounds a lot better than UNIVIC," said George Puritch, 21, arts 3. UNIVIC conjures up the image of some great electronic brain—a bit too Wellesian.

GETTING READY to tackle the first meal produced and served in the new dining room in the Salvation Army hostel on Johnson Street is Mrs. Frank McGarrick. She was feted Monday evening for her 17 years of service as a Sally-Ann bookkeeper. Waiting on her are Major and Mrs. Lorne Jannison. The stainless steel kitchen and dining room which seats 60 were built into the old thrift store. This was all part of a $75,000 realignment program which included a new thrift store at 521 Johnson and a new chapel and lounge for men upstairs in the hostel, 529 Johnson. The public will have an opportunity to inspect the new premises at an open house Oct. 7 at 7:30 p.m. (Robin Clarke photo.)

Vancouver MP Tours Island Defence Units

A tour of Vancouver Island maritime defence installations is being made by Vancouver-Quadra Liberal MP Grant Deachman.

He is a member of the Commons standing committee on defence.

Mr. Deachman Monday went aboard HMCS Grilse, later transferred to the destroyer Mackenzie and today visited Rear-Admiral W. M. Landymore and Pacific headquarters of maritime command at HMC Dockyard.

Later today he was to be accompanied to RCAF Station Comox by deputy maritime commander Air Commodore Roy Weston.

Ask The Times

Q. In the Kamloops district we noticed that many of the hills had a series of horizontal paths about six to 12 inches wide. These paths seem to go all the way up the hills, which, in many cases are very steep. Can you tell me the cause of these paths? H.M.H.

A. Most popular theory held by the department of lands and forests is they are caused by a combination of soil erosion and grazing of game and domestic animals.

When animals graze, their front and rear feet are level. So when animals are on steep hillsides they will "dig in" to graze, causing these paths over a period of years.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Toes, Teeth and Toppers Inspire Manufacturers

By PENNY SAVER

The most common complaint among women is that their shoes are "killing" them. With our interest at heart, manufacturers have developed a product to eliminate this problem.

This brand new product is guaranteed harmless to shoes, stockings and skin. All you do is pour some of the clear liquid on a cotton swab and dab it on your shoes. This allows the shoe leather to expand without changing the shape of the shoe.

Priced at $1 a bottle, liquid lasts for several applications and can even be used on stiff baby shoes or tight-fitting gloves.

Another boon to the modern age is a fix-a-plate kit. Almost every person who wears dentures breaks his plate at one time or another. Previous to this new discovery, repairs in a dental office took from one to two days. Now in only 15 minutes, you can do your own repairs.

Kit contains a powder and liquid which are mixed to a creamy consistency and applied to cracked or broken surface. Press parts together firmly and hold for five minutes, allow to set for 15 minutes, rinse and dentures are as good as new.

Kit comes complete for $1.98 and contains enough for five repairs at less than 50 cents each.

With changing trends, buying hats can reduce milady's (or milady's husband's) bankroll to almost nil. Finally, manufacturers have produced a substance called French millinery cement exclusively for mending, making or remodelling hats. Cement adheres to velvet, laces, feathers, leathers or fur and dries quickly and smoothly. This year, remodel your old hats for 59 cents.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Is a Bulging Tummy Ruining An Otherwise Good Figure?

I saw her coming down the street
She looked so very young and neat
And she was pretty as could be
I guessed her age at thirty-three
But then she passed by on her way
And this is what I have to say
One figure fault can be a biff
Because it makes a lot of diff.

The dictionary says that biff means "a blow," "to hit." Webster was never more accurate! One outstanding figure fault can be a blow to an otherwise youthful silhouette, and it hits us where we live because we all want to be as attractive as possible.

Lowman

I am thinking today of the most prevalent feminine figure fault, the protruding abdomen. Weight distribution varies, depending on the individual woman. However, I think that this is the most usual one in women who are not overweight and have a good figure except for one defect.

If you are not overweight but have this bulge, you will have to do special exercises faithfully in order to get rid of it. Today I will give you two.

1. Lie on the floor on your back, with your arms resting on the floor at your sides. Raise both legs up to right angles to your body, with stiff knees. Hold the right leg in this position as you lower your left leg to the floor. Touch the left heel to the floor and raise the left leg back to the right leg. This time lower the right leg to the floor and keep the left leg up in position. Continue, alternating eight times. Lower both legs to the floor. Rest and repeat.

2. Lie on the floor on your back. Bend both knees and place your feet flat on the floor. Push your abdominal muscles up toward the ceiling as far as possible. Pull your tummy down toward your backbone. Continue. Keep your hips on the floor. Your abdominal muscles do the work.

If you would like to have my tested abdominal slimming exercises send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet number 2 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

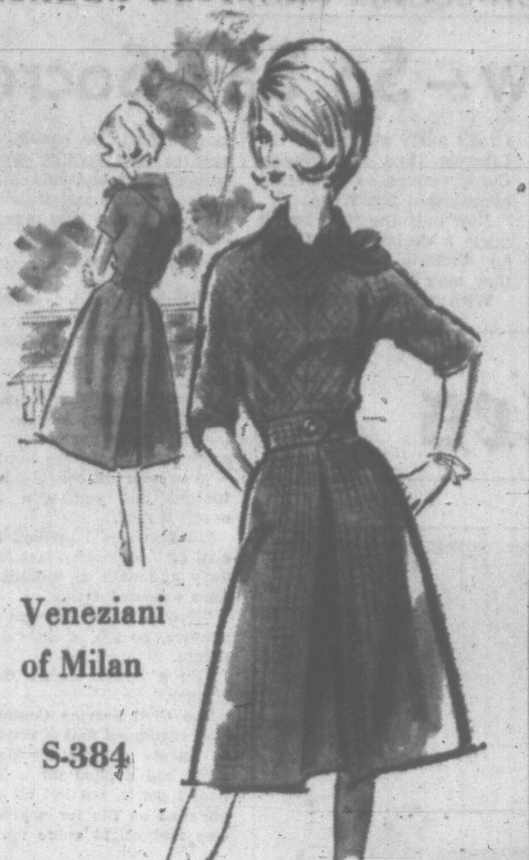
SPADEA DESIGNER PATTERN



Veneziani of Milan

S-384

A shirtdress can be a bore or the best dress you've ever had. This Italian interpretation certainly falls into the latter category. The inverted pleat in front and back gives the skirt the ease of a "million" tucks but still preserves that tailored look. Then the bias cut bodice adds the extra feminine touch that a plain shirtdress just couldn't do. Make it in cotton, linen, silk or very lightweight wool. To select your correct size, use Spadea's exclusive ready-to-wear size chart.

Wigs on Show

Is she, or is she not, wearing a wig? That is what the ladies will be asking when they attend the fashion show in St. Martin's Parish, 550 Obed Ave. on Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Also at the fashion show, sponsored by the Evening Women's Auxiliary to St. Martins, hats and accessories will be modelled from Miss Frith's Millinery.

Conveners for the affair are Mrs. B. P. Harding and Mrs. W. Rowe.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active. Advt.

DEAR ABBY . . .

She's in a Spin!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 29 and am married for the sixth time. I know that makes me sound like a terrible person, but I'm really not. (I married my third husband twice.) My problem is I am still in love with my fifth husband. I lived with him longer than with any of the others (four years) and I loved him with all my heart. He kept accusing me of still being in love with my ex-husbands, first one and then another. I couldn't take it any longer, so I divorced him. The day my divorce became final I married the lawyer who got me my divorce. I don't love him, Abby. I only married him because I am afraid to stay alone at night. How can I get my fifth husband back? He is now going with my younger sister. I know it is only because she reminds him of me.

MIXED UP.

DEAR MIXED UP: After six trips to the altar and five to the divorce court, you are not likely to take my advice—which I am reluctant to give. Forget your numbers game and make No. 6 your No. 1 for life.

DEAR ABBY: We have a [illegible] 16-year-old daughter who has never given us any trouble. She helps her mother and has always brought home good report cards. She has a boy friend who is 18. They have gone together for almost a year. He is a good kid, quiet like our daughter. Lately he has been bringing his laundry here (underwear, shirts and socks) for my daughter to wash and iron. I told my Mrs. this was all wrong. She says our daughter is showing the boy what a good little wife she can be. I say, what's the hurry? Who is wrong?

A SAD DAD.

DEAR DAD: You're not! Your daughter is generous to a fault, and her mother isn't helping matters much. Your daughter should wait until she's married to show what a "good little wife" she can be.

DEAR ABBY: Just a few lines to let you know what you did for us. I saw your column on donating your eyes to the blind. My husband said for years he wanted to do it, so I called the Lions Club in Marysville, and my husband, myself and our five children, ages from 4 to 21 are now going to donate our eyes after death. I want to thank you, Abby. I know this is what God would want us to do. Forever grateful.

DONNA MARTIN.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "E": If you would first forgive yourself, you would find it easier to forgive others.

Popularity of good music with the younger set was evident by the number that joined parents and friends at Monday evening's concert, given by the Victoria Symphony in the Royal Theatre with proceeds being donated to the Community Chest. Seen a few minutes before the curtain was rung up are, left to right, Mr. Steen Jessen, Miss Jan Laudlaw, Mr. Jim Helps, Mrs. Jean Sibley, her son, Mr. Joe Sibley, and Miss Dianne Stewart.

Parasites Seen in Local Fish

Complaints of women who had bought fish containing parasites were dealt with when the Victoria Branch of the Consumers' Association of Canada met Monday afternoon in the Public Library's music room. Mrs. Elizabeth Mills reported that, after having approached local health authorities, the group had been assured that parasites presented no health hazard, provided the fish had been well cooked.

However, it was stressed that consumers should insist on buying fish labelled "Canada Approved", this being the guarantee that the fish had passed requirements of the Federal Fish Inspection Act.

This act demands inspection of all fish leaving the province or country and being supplied to federal groups, i.e. the armed services, penal institutions, Royal Jubilee Hospital and St. Joseph's Hospital.

A provincial fish act was passed in 1955, but, to date, has not been implemented.

Another consumer complaint dealt with inability of parents to buy round-toed shoes in larger sizes for teen-agers. It was recommended that inspection of feet for deformities be included in medical inspections at public schools.

One member reported having had to pay $3 more than that required for a pointed-toe shoe when she shopped for similar style with rounded toe.

Another told members that a local private girls' school had great difficulty obtaining round-toe slippers for its pupils.

Mrs. P. R. A. Coombs, president, announced that a brief would be prepared on gas prices so as to be ready for the gas price commission promised by Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

Mrs. W. Rolls chaired program titled "Consumers at Work" in which Mrs. Coombs, Mrs. A. B. Young, provincial president, and Mrs. Gilbert Brown gave highlights of national meeting held in Winnipeg.

These included action to stop the use of dirty and substandard milk in production of milk products such as cheese and milk powder. Group's motion had received support from the National Dairy Council and farmers but required co-operation of provincial authorities for enforcement.

Mrs. Coombs reported that national council had asked that members report instances of manufacturers using gimmick of "10 cents off" on packaging in order to attract sales. Members were asked to report when the product was still being sold at regular price, instead of at the advertised decrease, or when the product was being sold at less than the required reduction.

Mrs. R. J. Penman, packaging display chairman, asked that members send examples of poor packaging to her committee. Mrs. Penman's phone number is EV 2-3872. Also on her committee is Mrs. M. Benbow, EV 5-2550.

HOSPITAL GROUP URGES ACTION ON PRACTICAL NURSES

The provincial Practical Nurses Act, which was passed in 1951, reviewed and approved with no changes in 1961, but still waits enforcement by the British Columbia legislature, came under fire at a meeting of the Island regional council of the B.C. Hospitals Association at a meeting held in Ladysmith last weekend.

Council unanimously moved that act be amended so as to make the term "practical nurse" apply only to nurses holding a licence as approved by a "council of practical nurses," as required by the act.

The hospital group, chaired by Sister Mary Ann Celesta, administrator of St. Joseph's Hospital, will present a motion to the provincial group when it meets in Vancouver Oct. 23-25, urging promulgation of the act as soon as possible.

In a series of articles, written by Times staffer Pat Dufour earlier this year, the health minister, Hon. Eric Martin, laid blame of delay on the B.C. Hospitals Association and the Hospital Employees' Union.

Glenny-Smith Vows Heard In St. Alban's Church

Rev. F. W. Hayes heard the vows in St. Alban's Church when Violet Jeanne Smith became the bride of Robert Allan Glenny. Pink and white carnations set decor and pews were marked with pink carnations. Walter Hamilton was best man.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. V. Smith and J. C. Smith, both of Victoria. Groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. W. Glenny, 1540 Lionel St.

W. G. Hooson gave his cousin in marriage.

Her floor-length gown of delicate veiled silk organza over taffeta had touches of Alencon lace as highlight and front panel was centred with dainty self-fabric bows. Gown had a sweetheart neckline and sleeves ending in lily points. The cascade bouquet featured red roses, white stephanotis and heather. A coronet of seed pearls and diamante held the shoulder-length veil of silk illusion net that was edged in scallops. Jewelry was a single strand of culture pearls, gift of the groom.

Ballerina-length dresses of soft pink nylon organza over taffeta were choice of maid of honor Miss Jean Miller; bridesmaid, Miss Sharon Dornan and flower girl, Susan Clarke. Senior attendants complemented their gowns with toning pillbox hats trimmed with rosettes at back, and bouquets of pink and white carnations. A white nylon tulle overskirt enhanced the flower girl's pink silk brocade frock. A pink bow trimmed her saucer-hat of brocade and tulle. Pink carnations, white chrysanthemums and heather were in the tiny basket she carried.

Flower girl's outfit was made by the groom's mother.

Brian Huddleston was best man and ushering guests were the groom's brother, Tom Glenny, and Norm Gallagher.

The groom's grandfather proposed the toast at the reception which followed at the Elks Hall. Bob Foulds' orchestra played for dancing.

Pink roses flanked the three-tiered wedding cake that centred the head table.

The bride's going-away outfit was a pink linen suit, white accessories and gardenia corsage.

After a honeymoon in Washington State, the newlyweds will make their home in Victoria.

Among the many out-of-town guests who attended were Mr. and Mrs. B. Glenny and Miss C. Nunn of Campbell River, Mr. and Mrs. P. Makitka of Vancouver, Mrs. F. Pahal, Kamloops, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Rice of Longview, Wash.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD JACOBY

North's four heart bid was the transfer bid to spades at the four level because the two level transfer is not used after second hand doubles the opening no-trump or bids over it.

East and West vulnerable

South	West	North	East
1 N.T.	Double	4 ♥	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead—♥ 8

This time it worked to perfection. South went to four spades and West opened the eight of hearts. The nine was played from dummy and East's queen lost to South's ace. A spade lead put West in with the ace and he led a second heart. South won in dummy and entered his hand with the queen of trumps. Then he led the queen of clubs.

West thought awhile. Or at least stopped to count points. He held 15 high card points himself. Dummy had started with seven and East had shown the queen of hearts. This left 16 points unaccounted for and the odds were that South held them. It also was certain that East could not hold more than one point. South was using the 15-17 no-trump as is customary today.

Thus, there was no hope of beating the hand. West hopped up with the ace of clubs and promptly cashed his ace of diamonds to hold South to his contract.

North might well have made four spades had he been declarer. East would have to find the diamond lead to beat him, but a sure thing is better than a good chance. With South declarer, four spades was a sure thing.

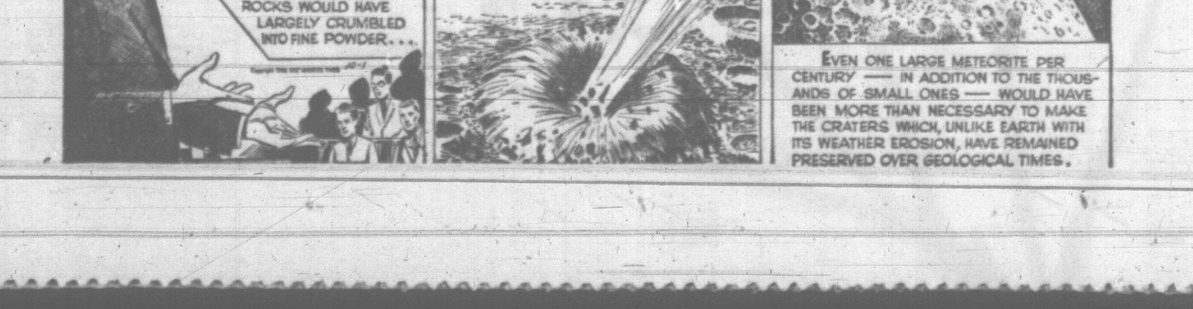
FRONTIERS OF SCIENCE

THE SURFACE HAZARD - Part 2



THE DUST THEORY OF THE MOON'S SURFACE WAS FIRST PROPOSED BY PROFESSOR T. GOLD OF CORNELL UNIVERSITY. GOLD ARGUES THAT, DUE TO THE ENORMOUS TEMPERATURE VARIATIONS OF HUNDREDS OF DEGREES FROM LUNAR DAY TO LUNAR NIGHT, ALL ROCKS WOULD HAVE LARGELY CRUMBLED INTO FINE POWDER...
... WHICH HAS COLLECTED INTO POWDER OCEANS OVER THE THOUSANDS OF MILLIONS OF YEARS. THE MOON'S CRATERS, SAYS GOLD, ARE DUE TO THE METEORITES WHICH HAVE HIT THE MOON OVER THE AGES.
EVEN ONE LARGE METEORITE PER CENTURY — IN ADDITION TO THE THOUSANDS OF SMALL ONES — WOULD HAVE BEEN MORE THAN NECESSARY TO MAKE THE CRATERS WHICH, UNLIKE EARTH WITH ITS WEATHER EROSION, HAVE REMAINED PRESERVED OVER GEOLOGICAL TIMES.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Stephen

There it was, see? It looked as if someone had forgotten to turn off the bubble machine and this giant glass bubble was the result. It was an isolation booth on television's first big-money quiz show since the fix scandals of recent years. It was called "100 Grand."

The show bowed in on ABC-TV on Sept. 15 for a weekly half-hour. After seeing the second of the shows I must admit there is no really logical reason for its existence.

Producers had cameras dolly in for the pained expression of contestants accompanied by a drum beat to underline the questions.

The show has amateurs taking on experts and hose amateurs who survive the questions of five experts and from viewers can win $100,000. There are assurances of iron-clad security for honesty, but here is still no reason for casting this tasteless show to viewers.

* * *

I was in Edmonton Saturday night and therefore did not see the Jerry Lewis show. But, according to such people as Ray Pearce, 4312 Parkside Crescent, the show was some of the worst television to ever be presented by a performer of the calibre of Jerry Lewis. Mr. Pearce expressed shock over the show which was unimaginative and offensive.

Others held similar views. One television critic aid Lewis proved he had guts when he didn't flee from the premises after the first half of the new two-hour live series. He said: "A man with such nerve should make an honest apology about the whole thing when he returns for his second outing this Saturday . . . and perhaps regain the respect of some viewers still in a state of shock."

* * *

"The Bill Dana Show" debuted Sunday night with a half-hour of promise. I like the comedian's creation, Jose Jiminez, cast as a hotel bellboy in New York. Dana is a meticulous comic who has a sense of timing which would do justice to Jack Benny. Although the initial show gave him a solid character with good lines, there was no one else on the show who was able to hold a candle to him and therefore the show sagged.

Dana is strong enough to carry a show like this by himself. There is no reason why he shouldn't be allowed to do so.

Channel 6 will begin to telecast its popular teenage dance show, "Club 6," live from Victoria beginning this Saturday. The times of the show will vary until after the baseball season.

The NBC news team of Huntley-Brinkley were rated the most popular TV newsmen, both individually and as a team, in a recent edition of the performer popularity study which is carried out every two years. They scored a rating of 37 per cent, 9 per cent more than any other newsman. Following were Walter Cronkite, Doug Edwards, Sander Vanocur, Frank Blair, Charles Collingwood, Frank McGee, Ray Scherer and Howard K. Smith, respectively.

V.I. ROUNDUP

Location Chosen For Courthouse

DUNCAN—Site for a proposed $500,000 courthouse-government building in Duncan was chosen by city council on Monday.

The property is near the present courthouse at Government and Station Street.

Mayor Jack Dobson said the government will be asked to accept the site which would be the core of a suggested civic centre to be developed over a period of years.

The government is expected to go ahead with construction next spring, he said.

A new courthouse was promised by the government six years ago, but it is only within the last year that council was pressed to find a site for the building.

Mayor Dobson said the civic centre would include an auditorium, municipal offices, library, council chambers, plaza display area, outdoor eating place and lawns.

It would cover about four acres, including parking spaces.

Mayor Dobson said details of the civic centre are being worked out by the newly formed city planning advisory committee under chairman J. H. Whittome.

DUNCAN—Maurice Girard, Duncan, was fined $30 in magistrate's court when he pleaded guilty to passing when it was unsafe.

Police said the charge had been laid as the result of a Sept. 14 accident caused when Girard attempted to overtake a V.I. Coach Lines bus while travelling up a hill near Nanaimo. An approaching car went out of control and struck the bus.

Accused told the court he had not seen a small car driving ahead of the bus. Damage amounted to $2,500.

DUNCAN—Members of the Duncan Aerie of Eagles were each presented with a memento from Aerie No. 1,269, Mt. Clemens, Michigan, by Herb Cross on Friday night.

Mr. Cross visited Mt. Clemens lodge during his return by auto from Toronto via Detroit, and was given a box of souvenirs for members of his own lodge.

NANAIMO — Police have positively identified the body of a man found floating Monday in Nanaimo harbor.

It was that of Christian Josephson, 65, who vanished from his Nanaimo home on Sept. 16.

NANAIMO — A bomb scare here two weeks ago has prompted school board officials to post watchmen at schools.

Additional staff was hired by the board at the senior secondary school after principal J. B. Litch received an anonymous telephone call warning him that a bomb was set to go off during school hours.

A subsequent search by school staff and RCMP did not turn up a bomb.

However, the board decided to take "preventive action" in the face of a bombing of a real estate firm several weeks ago.

PORT RENFREW—A total of 35 fish were caught at the annual Port Renfrew children's fishing derby held Saturday.

ARTHUR STRINGER
. . . popular baritone

Funeral Held For Leading City Singer

Funeral services were held this afternoon at McCall Bros.' chapel for Arthur S. Stringer, 3127 Fifth Street, who died Saturday in Royal Jubilee Hospital, age 56.

The body was cremated.

Mr. Stringer had been an employee of B.C. Forest Service for 37 years and a resident of Victoria for the past 20 years.

He was well known locally as a baritone and concert singer. He sang at the dedication of Cameron bandshell in Beacon Hill Park and appeared frequently as soloist with the Meistersingers and Arion Club.

He also had his own radio program and sang in many of the city's churches.

He is survived by the widow, Helen; two brothers, Jack in Vancouver and Frank in Penticton; a sister, Mrs. L. Ade of Vancouver, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stringer, in Nelson.

Unions Merge On Sour Note

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canada's newest union—the Canadian Union of Public Employees—was founded today with one sour note, the walkout of a 3,700-member Toronto local.

Al Sims, president of the Toronto local, said his group dissociated itself from CUPE because of opposition to increased union dues and lack of local autonomy.

The new union-founded from a merger of the National Union of Public Employees and the National Union of Public Service Employees—will embrace municipal employees, hospital workers, hydro men and others in municipal and provincial governments.

FANTHORPE:

It's Bargain Day With Tax Dollars

The tax dollar is the consumer's best buy today, New Democratic candidate Harry Fanthorpe told 30 persons in a Victoria campaign meeting Monday.

Medicare, automobile insurance and other benefits accruing from a New Democratic government would be paid for by the citizens.

"They wouldn't be free. These things will come from taxes, but they won't cost you as much (as they do now).

"The tax dollar is your best buy today," he said.

He spoke with running mates A. W. Toone and Dave Reimer at the Union Centre, Quadra Street.

It was the first public meeting held since the hall was officially opened Saturday. President E. T. Staley of Victoria Building Co-operative Union, owner of the building, welcomed the gathering.

FITTING

"It is very fitting that the first meeting should be for the New Democratic Party," he said.

Mr. Fanthorpe said newspapers have overlooked the reason Premier Bennett called an election for Sept. 30.

[illegible] can draw no other conclusion." he said.

Since he is reasonably sure that Peace River development money is coming from the United Kingdom or Europe, and the premier's announcement came on the heels of his return from an unexpected visit to England, the candidate concluded that he had been turned down when he asked for more money.

MANDATE WANTED

"He was probably told he couldn't have more money without a five-year mandate from the people," he said.

Mr. Fanthorpe said Social Credit has not got a two-river power development policy because it intends to give one away.

He said Columbia development involves giving two million kilowatts of power to the U.S.

The province should assume full responsibility for service to persons, such as welfare, hospitals, arterial highways and general education services, except where a federal share is applicable, Mr. Toone advocated.

"This responsibility must be lifted from the backs of municipal taxpayers," he said.

The municipal tax struggle will otherwise get harder and harder to wage.

There should be a full-time labor minister; Bills 42 and 43 must be repealed, and full recognition must be given, with bargaining rights, to government employees, he said.

There should be an economic development corporation to provide B.C. with more skilled people and jobs such as electronics and plastics, halting the export of jobs to the U.S., Mr. Toone said.

Mr. Reimer accused the government of neglecting the crisis in higher education, quoting figures supplied by the UBC Alumni Association.

He said by 1971 there will be 37,000 students needing facilities at four universities and six two-year colleges, requiring an immediate expansion of graduate studies to provide the hundreds of additional faculty members.

He quoted the alumni association as saying the provincial grant to UBC had fallen short of requested money by $1,188,000, causing a reduced program.

TWO KILLED IN CRASH AT PT. HARDY

PORT HARDY—Two men were killed Sunday and four others injured when their car plunged off a bridge near this Vancouver Island community, 150 miles north of Nanaimo.

Dead are Harold Gordon Woods, 33, of Sudbury, Ont., and Ernest Webster, 27, of Rossland, B.C.

The six were employees of the Coast Copper Mine at nearby Benson Lake.

Police said the men were returning to Benson Lake when their car jumped a foot-high guard beam on a small bridge.

Woods is survived by a wife and children in Sudbury. Webster's mother lives in Rossland.

War Damage Remains

LONGWY (Reuters) — Guy Poirot, 18, claimed to be the only boy born in Ravensbruck concentration camp to have survived, was exempted from the French army draft by doctors here Monday. His health has remained precarious because of the lack of milk available for him after birth in the notorious Nazi camp.

TWO HOURS OF QUESTIONS

They Had a Ball At Port Renfrew

About 100 people crammed Port Renfrew Community Hall Monday evening for the biggest, most boisterous meeting so far in the Esquimalt campaign.

Three of the four candidates—Conservative Robin Dunsmuir was speaking elsewhere—spoke at the meeting, which broke up just before midnight.

For Port Renfrew, it was the biggest campaign meeting ever.

NDP candidate Geoff Mitchell called Port Renfrew the "most politically promised community in B.C."

"If all the pieces of all the broken promises made in the last 60 years about the West Coast Road were gathered up, there would be enough to build that breakwater in San Juan Bay," he said.

SURFACED SOON

Socred incumbent Herbert Bruch said he hoped the West Coast Road would be surfaced with crushed rock in the near future, and blacktopped later.

He came under heavy fire from the audience during a two-hour question period.

Mr. Bruch was questioned at length about the labor laws introduced by the Social Credit government, about his stand on the B.C. Electric takeover, and about reconstruction of the road.

Liberal candidate Maurice Simard criticized Premier Bennett's behavior in the legislature.

He charged that the government is run by "approximately three men."

Researchers To Test New Pipeline

EDMONTON (CP) — Dr. R. J. Wiggins, director of the Alberta Research Council, says that construction of an experimental solids pipeline will begin at the end of the year or early next year.

The pilot project will entail construction of pipelines ranging in diameter from four to 12 inches and maximum length of about half a mile, near Edmonton.

The tests, which will be conducted by scientists of the Alberta Research Council, will investigate capsule and slug transport for such commodities as coal, sulphur, potash, gypsum, iron ore and grain.

Initial costs will be $650,000 but capital and operating costs over a five-year period are expected to total $2,000,000.

JOINT EFFORT

Representatives of 23 industries and the government decided to organize a company to carry out the project. Details of financing remain to be worked out.

Dr. Wiggins said reaction of industry is favorable and it is hoped this will be followed by financial contributions. Federal government support also is hoped for.

Dr. Wiggins said laboratory tests, which the council has been doing for some time, are unable to determine power requirements, the need for auxiliary equipment and actual costs. The pilot project has two main objectives — to answer engineering and economic problems.

Adult Education Program Expands

By AB KENT

The need for a full-range adult education centre in Victoria is underlined by the curriculum of Greater Victoria School Board's evening division, opening in two weeks time.

There is an ever-increasing demand for tailored industrial-type courses, assistant director Alan Batey said today.

This supports the school board's theme that an adult education centre should be established to fulfill the educational needs of the community—not just vocational courses but the full range of subjects from academic to job training and hobbies.

For example, Mr. Batey pointed out, there is a new course being offered this year called Mechanics and Strength of Materials, introduced at request of the Society of Architectural and Engineering Technologists of B.C.

PROVIDE INSTRUCTOR

The shipyards asked for a trade course for which they are prepared to supply not only an instructor, but a class of students.

He pointed out a new course for parents to help them understand the homework of children being taught mathematics by a new system.

There is also one to teach hobbyists how to play a recorder.

But still the most popular courses are academic, with more than 600 people enrolled in credit courses, some of which are being taught during the day for the first time.

This is the 4-10 p.m. matriculation course, running full-time through the normal school year.

In addition other academic courses are being carried into Saturday morning, also for the first time.

Yet, it is the women of Greater Victoria who regularly constitute the largest single group in the general subjects: there are some 500 of them registered in sewing and dressmaking classes, where there are still a few openings.

DRESSMAKING

There are 31 dressmaking classes to accommodate women eager to keep down clothing costs and indulge a hobby at the same time.

The quality of instruction has much to do with popularity of the courses, adult division principal John Dalgleish feels.

To date, registration in general courses is 3,604 compared with 2,802 at this time last year. There are 277 classes in the program.

All told, with academic students included, registration was 6,225 last year.

"The day is long past since people thought of night school as a place to go to learn shellcraft," Mr. Batey said.

The shift of emphasis to academic pursuits is prompted largely by the fact that workers find themselves competing with graduating high school students who have potential for employers.

Immigration Changes Due For Chinese

VANCOUVER (CP)—Sweeping changes in regulations governing the admission to Canada of Chinese immigrants were forecast Monday night by Immigration Minister Favreau.

He also said he will visit Hong Kong this year to investigate problems associated with the movement of Chinese immigrants to Canada.

"Before a policy satisfactory to this country and to the Chinese-Canadian community can be definitely worked out, there must be a clear understanding that absolute sincerity and conscientious adherence must apply to whatever new regulations are to be introduced," he said.

"The problem regarding illegal Chinese immigration to Canada can and must be solved."

Bad News for Clerks

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Gordon said Monday there are no plans to provide pay increases for 20,000 government clerks who were not included in last December's round of pay boosts. He said in a letter to the Civil Service Association of Canada that the clerks involved are receiving salaries comparable with those in private businesses.

Arbitration Ends Hotel Dispute

WINNIPEG (CP)—An arbitration board awarded an across-the-board hourly pay increase of four cents spread across 42 months to employees of the CPR's Royal Alexandra Hotel.

The award was implemented during the weekend and ends a long-standing dispute on a new contract for the 130 employees.

The special arbitration board to settle the dispute was set up in the wake of a strike threat by the hotel local of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (CLC).

Pension Boost Asked

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Council of Forest Industries has recommended a $10 increase in widows' pensions in a brief presented Monday to the royal commission on the Workmen's Compensation Act. B. M. Hoffmeister, council president, told the commission that the pension was too low and should be increased to $100.

PEOPLE DON'T WANT JAIL

Council to Forward Mental Home Protest

Saanich council Monday evening decided to forward to the attorney-general's department a 140-signature petition against the use of the Wilkinson Road mental home as any kind of jail.

Council also decided to:

Pay part of the costs of sending the Victoria Junior Shamrocks lacrosse team to Whitby, Ont., for the Minto Cup playoff.;

Put up a traffic light at Shelbourne and Cedar Hill Cross Road at a cost of $3,000;

And participate again in a radio series of municipal reports, even though two councillors indicated they would shun the program.

ASSURANCES

Reeve Stanley Murphy said Saanich has received assurances from the deputy attorney-general that the Wilkinson Road home would not be used as any kind of prison.

He suggested that sending the petition to the provincial government might tend to confirm that decision by indicating popular opinion.

Decision to participate again this year in the Municipal Report series presented by radio station CJVI was made on the understanding that two councillors who objected—Coun. Joseph Casey and Leslie Passmore—need not speak.

HILLBILLY NO. 1

"I want a letter of apology before I'll participate," said Coun. Casey. "I'm hillbilly number one."

(After Coun. Casey spoke on the program last winter, a news editorial commentator for the station referred to anti-amalgamation councillors as "Saanich hillbillies.")

"I don't know anyone who listens to it," said Coun. Casey.

Bigger Pie, Thinner Cuts Irks Jenkins

Saanich Socialist candidate George Jenkins told four listeners at the Lake Hill Community Hall Monday night that incomes, in relation to what the workers produce, have fallen.

He said the worker's slice of the pie has shrunk as the pie has grown.

"It is only natural that where the means of production and distribution is privately owned that any industrial improvements will primarily benefit the owners, not producers," he said.

Automation, bringing a huge increase in productivity of the workers, could only serve society when it is owned and controlled by society, "commonly and democratically, and this is the object of the Socialist Party."

Gov't Pension Fought By Insurance Agents

OTTAWA (CP)—The Life Underwriters' Association of Canada said today it has launched a vigorous campaign aimed at getting a "fluoroscopic examination" of the Canada Pension Plan before it is rushed into law.

Aubrey Oldham of Ottawa, association president, told a press conference the inquiry should be carried out by a parliamentary committee to resolve "conflicting professional opinions" on the proposed wage-related contributory pension plan.

"We are confused by the confusion of the experts," he said. The life insurance and trust companies on one side and the government on the other were defending their particular positions at this stage and "you don't get truth that way."

The association, representing some 11,000 insurance agents, said it has begun lobbying against the Canada Pension Plan. Members of Parliament were being approached individually. Special meetings were being held for insurance agents across Canada.

Mr. Oldham said the federal government should not be "pressing the panic button" on a scheme just because it was conceived during an election campaign for political benefit.

"We are looking 100 years ahead—not 10 years," he said.

Mr. Oldham and his colleagues said figures prepared by trust and insurance company actuaries show that contributions to the federal plan, starting at two per cent of a salary limit of $4,000 a year, wolud rise to between five and eight per cent in 10 years.

Mr. Oldham said one of the greatest arguments against the federal scheme is that it would force a reduction in private pension plans, draining off money now being invested by trust and insurance companies.

With the Canada Pension Plan not investing this money, but paying it out as soon as it came in, up to $500,000,000 a year would be taken out of the pool of Canadian investment capital.

"The economy and the level of employment would suffer accordingly."

Doctor Could Face Misconduct Charge

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto's chief coroner has recommended that a charge of medical misconduct be laid against a Toronto doctor by the College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Dr. Morton B. Shulman said Monday he had sent the recommendation to the college after investigating the death of Margaret Power, who died at 44 of breast cancer on May 8, 1962.

The college today declined to comment on Dr. Shulman's statements.

In a statement written and signed two months before her death Miss Powers said Dr. L. V. Roy had treated her with various serums, health foods and an electrical machine resembling short-wave apparatus. She said in the 10-page statement that at one time she was taking 14 kinds of health foods each day.

Dr. Roy, who graduated from the University of Montreal in 1950, said today: "If any claim is made against me I consider it grossly exaggerated and highly unjustified."

The coroner said he was asked to investigate by the College of Physicians and Surgeons and had found a "number of irregularities."

Sharpen the Scalpel For Outlining Text

By The Reading Laboratory

To get the most out of the following, you'll have to get rid of preconceived notions about outlining. You probably probably remember outlining as a rather dull section of Freshman Composition. Before you wrote themes, you had to make outlines of them. When you wrote, you followed the outline. We'll call this type of outline a writing outline.

The outlines we're going to talk about are fundamentally different from the outlines you use for writing. We're talking about outlines you use for reading. They are analytical tools—scalpels for dissecting the thought-structure of a textbook.

In a reading outline, the ideas must be arranged according to their logical order. The most important idea in the text appears as the first point in the outline—no matter where it appears in the text.

The following is the recommended way to construct an outline:

1.____________________
  1.1____________________
  1.2____________________
2.____________________
  2.1____________________
    2.11____________________
    2.12____________________

This type of outline labels the ideas. Anything marked "1.1" must be directly related to the main idea, or "1.". In the same way, anything marked "1.11" is directly subordinate to "1.1".

The items don't have to be paired off in a reading outline. In writing outilnes it's a good form to pair off each item—if you have an item "a," you should also have an item "b." But in the sample outline above, "2.1" can stand without any "2.2." If you find only one subordinate idea under "2," there's no reason to invent another.

Notice that any entries into "1." and "2." must be of equal importance. The entries in "2.11", "2.12", etc., must also be of equal importance.

* * *

As an example of a reading outline, we could outline today's article as follows:

1. Reading outlines are analytical tools.
   1.1 They organize ideas according to logical order—not according to order of presentation.
   1.11 Different from writing outlines.
   1.111 Ideas are labeled.
   1,112 Ideas don't have to be paired off.

(NEXT: An advanced analytical tool — the summary.)

Dry Run Executed By Coffee Machine

Sleepy spectators perked up a little when a hot coffee machine was wheeled into RCMP court here Monday afternoon.

But it had nothing to give them—it was simply an exhibit in a case of alleged fraud against Portland businessman Robert Caplan, who is said to have offered different kinds of vending machines to Victoria citizens.

Caplan is charged specifically with trying to defraud Saanich police constable Raymond K. McLean by offering to sell him 50 vending machines, each containing 3,600 sticks of gum, at a cost of $199.50 per machine.

Mrs. Michael Chekaluk, 812 Craigflower, testified that she and her husband bought candy machines from Caplan.

"We signed up for 25 machines at $69.50 each," she said.

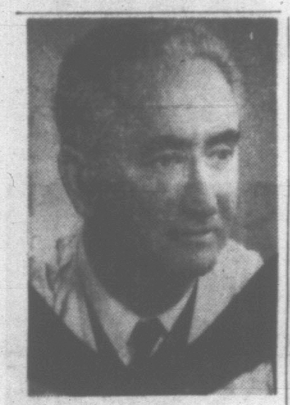
Later a man who claimed he represented Caplan called to say he had placed the machines. But Mrs. Chekaluk said many of the people who had received the machines did not want them.

"Some of the machines sold so few candies I took them out and put in mixed nuts," she testified.

Mrs. Chekaluk said Caplan offered her 30 candy machines with the assurance they would give her an income of about $200 a month.

"I have been disappointed with the returns," she said.

The case against Robert Caplan is a preliminary hearing and will decide whether he is sent to trial in a higher court.



SHAME for Canada's treatment of its 185,000 Indians was expressed Monday by outspoken Rabbi Abraham L. Feinberg, Toronto, who said the country cannot condemn South Africa and ignore its own treatment of Indians. He called the Indians Canada's "home-grown inescapable race problem, a moral blot concealed by the common consent of the Canadian people."

Tito Visiting Chile 'For Cause of Peace'

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — President Tito of Yugoslavia says he came to see Chilean President Jorge Alesandri in the hope of furthering "the cause of peace and constructive international collaboration."

His remarks on his arrival from Brazil Monday were interpreted as an attempt to swing Alesandri from a largely pro-Western to a non-aligned course in world affairs.

Senate Backs Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate ratified the history-making limited nuclear test-ban treaty today.

Approval of the pact banning nuclear weapons testing in the atmosphere, in outer space and underwater, came after more than two weeks of committee hearings and an equal time of Senate debate.

With a two-thirds vote of the 100-member senate required for approval, the resolution went through on a 80-to-19 roll call.

The treaty, signed at Moscow Aug. 5 by the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain, was sent to the Senate by President Kennedy Aug. 8 with these words:

"While it will not end the threat of nuclear war or outlaw the use of nuclear weapons, it can reduce world tensions, open a way to further agreements" and "help to ease the threat of war."

FEAR FOR SECURITY

Opponents contended it jeopardizes national security, freezes a Soviet advantage in high-yield weapons, and permits the Russians to continue development underground in the small weapons field where the United States now leads.

The treaty came under scathing attack from Senators Richard B. Russell (Dem. Ga.), chairman of the Senate armed services committee; John Stennis (Dem. Miss.), who heads its preparedness sub-committee, Strom Thurmond (Dem. S.C.) and others.

Russell expressed fears it might be the first step toward complete disarmament without the safeguard of inspection. He and the others said they were concerned that Soviet moratorium-breaking atmospheric tests in 1961 and 1962 put them at an advantage in high yield weapons, in anti-ballistic weapons system knowledge and in way to harden missile emplacements.

But, in the end an overwhelming majority of the Senate went along with the endorsement of the military joint chiefs of staff, who said that with four specified safeguards, the military "risks and disadvantages," were acceptable.

REASSURED BY JFK

Kennedy, in a letter read to the senate by Senator Everett M. Dirksenof Illinois, the Republican leader, gave the Senate "unqualified and unequivocal assurances" U.S. security would be protected under the treaty.

He gave assurances that the United States will meet the military's four points by continuing an aggressive program of underground testing, maintaining a healthy laboratory weapons development program, keeping up a readiness to resume atmospheric testing if the Russians cheat, and expanding and improving its facilities for detecting such cheating as well as checking on Sino-Soviet atomic progress.

Many proponents laid heavy stress on the curbs the treaty would put on radioactive fallout by halting atmospheric testing.

Kennedy, in his message, called it the "first concrete result of 18 years of efforts by the United States to impose limits on the nuclear arms race."

Senate approval was the last big hurdle the treaty had to clear before it could become effective. But there are still other steps necessary to put the pact in force.

The next major action by the United States will be the formal ratification of the treaty by President Kennedy. Officials said today that it should be possible for this step to be taken within a few days.

Finally, the treaty will become effective when instruments of ratification are deposited by the United States, Britain and Russia in each of their three capitals. This is an unusual procedure but one which the three nuclear powers agreed on when they negotiated the pact in Moscow in July.

"DON'T BE AFRAID" of League of Frightened Men, Liberal Leader Ray Perrault (above) told Victoria audience Monday night. He said the league is headed by oil tycoon Frank McMahon. (Bill Halkett photo.)

PERRAULT WARNING

'Bogeymen Are Coming To Frighten Voters'

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett is about to call in "bogeymen" from industry to try and frighten voters into supporting Social Credit, Liberal leader Ray Perrault predicted Monday night.

He made a fierce personal attack on oil tycoon Frank McMahon who, he said, would lead another last-minute attempt to scare the voters as he did in 1960.

Mr. Perrault spoke to 200 people at Lansdowne Junior High School at what was planned to be the local Liberals' major meeting of the election campaign.

On election day 1960, Mr. Perrault recalled, Mr. McMahon, president of Westcoast Transmission Co. Ltd., grabbed the headlines with a statement that if B.C. voted NDP it would lose 10,000 jobs and a $450,000,000 northern pipeline.

'JUMP ON YOU'

"In the next few days — watch for it — it's coming," Mr. Perrault said.

"They're going to try and jump on you like bogeymen.

"They're going to try to frighten you out of your wits."

Mr. Perrault said he had received a telephone call from a B.C. businessman who said he had been asked to appear on a television series featuring other top industrial leaders supporting Social Credit. He said Mr. McMahon was to be the first.

Mr. Perrault said that most of Social Credit's election manifesto was written by Dan Ekman, Mr. McMahon's personal assistant and formerly the premier's top aide.

"Right out of his mind," said Mr. Perrault.

PIPELINE

"Mr. Ekman was the pipeline that Mr. McMahon built into the premier's office for his league of frightened men.

"The league of frightened men is at work again today. These are their advertisements you see in the newspapers today.

"There'll be more of them—just as there were in 1960—battering at the sanity of this province with the fear of socialism.

"McMahon and other industrialists of this province are the men who started paying their dues to the Social Gimmick Party in 1952."

Mr. Perrault said these men are not really afraid of socialism—only afraid of Premier Bennett.

"Mr. Bennett over the past 11 years has insidiously taken over control of their industries."

Mr. Perrault said these industries were forestry, mining, oil and gas.

JETS BUZZ BRITISH EVACUEES

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Indonesian Air Force MiG-21 jet fighters buzzed the airport terminal here tonight as a group of British men, women and children waited to be evacuated after their embassy was burned by mobs last week.

About 30 minutes before an airliner was due to take off with part of the evacuees, two Indonesian jets screamed low over the terminal building.

Everyone inside ducked as the building shook under the roar of the jets. The two MiGs circled the airport before landing near the waiting Quantas Australian airliner.

The group, mainly businessmen and their families, was escorted to the airport under a strong police guard to board a jet airliner to Europe and another plane was due to take a group of 40 British evacuees to Singapore.

Road Promised To Port Hardy

Special to The Times

NANAIMO—Cheering, punctuated by some heckling, greeted Premier W. A. C. Bennett at a campaign meeting here Monday night that drew 600 spectators.

The premier spoke on behalf of Recreation Minister Earle Westwood, who won the riding by a bare 51 votes in 1961. At that time, Premier Bennett's campaign speech in Nanaimo met a generally hostile reception.

The premier announced that Dawson Wade Company tendered the lowest bid, $740,690, for construction of the first 10 miles of right-of-way involved in the PGE extension from Prince George to Fort St James.

IN SEVEN YEARS

But the loudest applause came when Mr. Bennett said the Social Credit manifesto included a plan to provide a blacktop road to Port Hardy within seven years.

The Albernis would be connected to the Port Hardy route by a new road.

He gave no starting dates but said the northern Vancouver Island community would also be linked to the proposed northern trans-provincial highway and Alaska by ferry systems.

The northern highway also is included in the seven-year manifesto, involving construction of a paved highway from Jasper to Prince Rupert.

He said the new roads would make B.C. the leading tourist attraction on earth.

'I'M PROUD'

"They call us the hard-top government in derision, my friends, but I am proud of it," Mr. Bennett said.

"They call the others the washboard parties and the women have thrown the wash-

Two Ex-Ministers Charged in Quebec

Accused Of Fraud

ANTONIO TALBOT
. . . highways

J. D. BEGIN
. . . colonization

QUEBEC (CP)—Charges of defrauding the province of Quebec were laid today against two former Union Nationale cabinet ministers, one legislative councillor and a former high-ranking civil servant.

Charged with fraud are J. D. Begin, former minister of colonization; Antonio Talbot, former minister of highways; Legislative Councillor Gerald Martineau and Alfred Hardy, former director of government purchasing services.

At the same time a charge of conspiracy to defraud the province was laid against Arthur Bouchard, a Quebec City businessman.

The total amount involved in the charges is $309,000.

The charges arise from findings by a royal commission under Mr. Justice Elie Salvas of Quebec Superior Court that investigated purchasing practices of the Union Nationale government between July 1, 1955, and June 30, 1960.

The Union Nationale was defeated by the Liberals in the June, 1960, provincial election and the Salvas commission was appointed later the same year.

Begin, who retired from politics last year prior to the 1962 provincial election, had been member of the legislative assembly for Dorchester since 1935. As minister of colonization from 1944 to 1960, he headed the government department administering pioneer farm lands.

Under the present government the colonization portfolio has been combined with agriculture.

Talbot entered the provincial legislature in a 1938 by-election as member for Chicoutimi, a seat he still holds. He was highways minister from 1944 to 1960.

Martineau, former treasurer of the Union Nationale party, has been a member of the Quebec legislative council, only provincial upper house in Canada, since 1946.

SETBACKS HIT MURDER PROBE

City police today are back almost to where they were nine days ago in their investigation of the George Down murder.

Their most promising lead in the case has led them nowhere.

A steel bar found in a downtown church has proved not to be the weapon used to murder the 17-year-old delivery boy in the Hudson's Bay Parkade almost four weeks ago.

And a 17-year-old Victoria boy picked up in Calgary Sunday and brought back here for questioning has not been as much help in the investigation as police had hoped.

The youth ran away from home Friday after telling his parents he had information about the murder.

WON'T SAY

Detective Sergeant Bill Andrews refused to say what the boy has told police. But he said the information he gave is being investigated. There did not appear to be much optimism.

The youth was released in custody of his parents after being questioned.

The foot-long bar found in a collection box at Christ Church Cathedral nine days ago was the most hopeful lead.

It was sent to the RCMP crime detection laboratory in Vancouver for examination

Sgt. Andrews said conclusive tests there showed it definitely is not the murder weapon. He refused to disclose the tests which ruled it out as the murder weapon saying it is not customary to give out this information.

WITH YOUTHS

George Down's body was found badly battered on a ramp in the Bay Parkade Aug. 30. He had been seen several hours before his death in company with several young men in Coffee Mac's on Gorge Road.

Sgt. Andrews said detectives are still interviewing persons who knew Down during the last year or so.

FIREWORKS PLANT BLAST KILLS 14

CASERTA, Italy (UPI)—An illegal fireworks factory blew up in the heart of this southern Italian town today, killing at least 14 persons and injuring 20 others, at least nine seriously.

The injured included Antonio Mariniello, 57, the factory owner, who faces arrest if he recovers.

Police said the pre-dawn blast was caused by sparks which touched off a fire in the powder used in the factory. The fire spread to powder supplies and finished fireworks, which exploded with a roar that shook the town.

The factory was one of many clandestine fireworks plants in southern Italy. Italian law bans such factories in inhabited areas, but many are known to exist. Police seldom find them until they blow up, officials here said.

McNamara Target For Red Bullet?

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (Reuters) — A Pan-American 707 jet airliner was hit by a Communist guerrilla bullet early today in firing that some sources said could have been directed against United States Defence Secretary Robert McNamara and his special mission.

The plane, on a flight from Singapore to Manila, was hit in one engine seven miles from the Saigon airport but managed to land safely here on three engines.

Some sources said the guerrillas might have thought the airliner was bringing in McNamara and Gen. Maxwell Taylor, chairman of the U.S. joint chiefs of staff.

They were due in Saigon tonight to make a special examination of the four-year war against the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet Nam.

South Africa Sentences Policeman

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) Policeman Johannes Arnoldus Greef, 18, was sentenced today to six years in prison for helping South African political refugees escape from police cells here and accepting a bribe.

He was arrested after artist Arthur Goldreich and lawyer Harold Wolpe and two Indian political prisoners escaped while being detained under South Africa's 90-day "no trial" anti-subversion law.

Goldreich and Wolpe arrived in London Monday. The Indians, Moosa Moolla and Abdulhay Jassay were reported to be in Dar Es Salaam, Tanganyika.

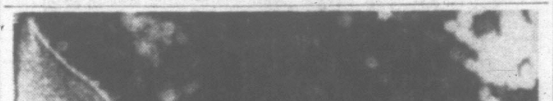
The four men slipped through one of the biggest manhunts in South African history to cross into the neighboring British territory of Bechuanaland last month.

Transvaal Deputy Attorney-General Percy Yutar told the court that Greef—who was on night duty as cell warder at the Marshall Square police headquarters—was paid £50 ($150) by Goldreich's relatives and promised a further £2,000 if he permitted the escape.

Yutar added that the escapees double-crossed Greef, because when he afterwards went to a man who was to pay him the promised £2,000, the man said he knew nothing about the matter.

Viet Nam Denial

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—President Ngo Dinh Diem has sent a letter to Secretary-General U Thant charging that reports of repressive acts against the Buddhists in South Viet Nam are "nothing but an imperialist invention."



'I'M ALL FAGGED OUT'

Martin Talks Disarmament With Gromyko

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—External Affairs Minister Paul Martin has explored a possible new initiative in the disarmament field with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, it was learned today.

The Canadian minister, who met with Gromyko for more than an hour late Monday at the Soviet United Nations mission, was understood to have sought the Soviet reaction on an initiative the Canadian delegation has been considering.

The nature of the move was not disclosed, but it was understood to involve an area where considerable agreement already exists between East and West.

Martin, who flies back to Ottawa today for trade talks with a Japanese ministerial delegation, planned several other conferences before his departure.

He was to meet with India's chief delegate Mrs. Vijaya L. Pandit and Foreign Minister Mongi Slim of Tunisia—both of whom he also saw Monday. Later he was to meet with South Africa's chief delegate G. P. Joost.

TRASH LEFT IN PARK CHEERS COMMISSIONER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Toronto park commissioner T. W. Thompson believes that the anti-litterbug campaign in the United States is "the greatest mistake any park people ever got tied up with."

Thompson told a conference of American park executives Monday that for parks the campaign is a "negative" approach.

His city's system is noted for its "please walk on the grass" signs. Thompson said the approach was not a gimmick because Toronto's parks planners feel it's their function "to bring the people off the cement walks and onto the grass." To do this they decided to use positive signs and never to say "don't" to anyone.

Thompson said little boys think their names are important, so they carve them on trees. "If they think our trees are a good place to carve them, then we think it's better than the toilet partitions," he said.

His park staff also expects the turf to wear out from time to time "like any carpet." They resod it by sections to save costly reseeding.

He admitted that they had trouble with dog-owners. Currently his staff is working on some signs to be addressed to the dogs. But he has had little trouble traced to maliciousness.

His employees do not use the words "litterbug" and "vandal."

"The people who use our parks are people, not bugs," Thompson said. "My reaction to the few persons who leave trash is that they were on the parks and they were happy."

province, are now so tightly in Mr. Bennett's grasp that these men are willing to do anything—anything—he demands of them."

He said they hide behind front groups with names like the Free Enterprise Education Fund.

"The front groups should appear any day now."

"Where are the 10,000 jobs now in B.C.?" asked Mr. Perrault. "Where are the 10,000 jobs of Frank McMahon?"

B.C. voters should take care they do not make this election "an appointment with fear," Mr. Perrault said.

Mr. Perrault pledged that if elected the Liberals will immediately call a special session of the legislature to tackle what he called "the school finance crisis."

They would remove school taxes from property owners, he said.

In answer to a later question, Mr. Perrault said the Liberals would not eliminate the home-owner grant but "incorporate it in some much more meaningful tax relief."

He said his Point Grey candidate, Dr. Pat McGeer, was not really disagreeing with this when he said last week the Liberals would abolish the grant—"he said it more bluntly."

Appearing with Mr. Perrault were five of the six local candidates.

Oak Bay candidate Alan Macfarlane said Premier Bennet could not justifiably campaign against socialism, because he had taken so many socialistic steps himself—"what is there left?"

Victoria Liberal Michael Griffin said Social Credit gives "only a few stale crumbs" to local government but takes all the glory itself for local growth.

Bruce Humber, another Victoria candidate, said Social Credit's debt-free claims reminded him of TV commercials by finance companies.

Elizabeth Forbes, the third Victoria candidate, said Socred candidates have lost the look of dedication — "it has been superceded by a blank look."

Ian Stewart, the Saanich candidate, promised if elected he would call a Saanich summit meeting of local government officials to discuss all the problems of the riding.

VOTE FORECAST CAN'T MISS

VANCOUVER (CP)—Social Crediter Bert Price, seeking re-election in Vancouver Burrard in the Sept. 30 British Columbia election, said at an election meeting Monday night:

"Just remember, a vote for the opposition won't do the government any good"

You are cordially invited to meet the Hon. E. Davie Fulton at a rally to be held in the Central Junior High 8 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 26.

Anti-Negro Charge Faces Toronto Youth

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Eight white men including a Toronto youth have been indicted by a special federal grand jury investigating interference with school desegregation court orders in Birmingham.

The indictments result from incidents which occurred when three Birmingham schools were desegregated Sept. 4 as pickets appeared at each school.

There was no widespread violence although several times police used force to restrain pickets protesting entry of five young Negroes in the three schools.

Named in the indictments were:

Edward R. Fields, 30, information director and leader of the pro-segregation National States Rights Party; Gerald Q. Dutton, 22; James K. Warner, 24; Barney M. Carmack Jr., 29; Jack Cash, 56, all of Birmingham, and Jesse B. Stoner, an Atlanta lawyer; Ralph Lewandowski, 18, Chicago; and David A. Stanley, 19, Toronto.

SETTLE IT LOCALLY

In Washington, President Kennedy expressed belief that Birmingham leaders, working with his special emissaries, can settle that city's racial problems at the local level.

The president met with the two special representatives, Earl (Red) Blaik and Kenneth C. Royall. He said they would go to Birmingham "to be of whatever assistance they can in restoring good communications between white and Negro communities in that city and in easing the racial tensions which now exist."

Kennedy conferred also with Birmingham civil leaders and Alabama religious leaders.

Mayor Albert Boutwell announced that a reward fund for the capture of persons responsible for recent racially-connected bombings in Birmingham had risen to nearly $80,000.

SUSPEND McDOWELL

At Oxford, Miss., Negro student Cleve McDowell was suspended by the University of Mississippi after he was arrested on a charge of carrying a pistol.

McDowell, 21, was jailed on a charge of carrying a concealed deadly weapon. University authorities said the suspension would remain in effect pending a school hearing.

Deputies at Selma, Ala., arrested 26 Negro teen-agers on charges of violating state truancy laws as officers sought to head off threatened new outbreaks of racial demonstrations.

Also arrested were two adult Negroes on charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Both were active in racial demonstrations in Selma recently.

boards away and not the washboard parties."

Mr. Bennett continued his bitter personal attacks against Tory Leader Davie Fulton in his Nanaimo speech, as he has done ever since he opened his campaign.

He said NDP Leader Robert Strachan's "Bond Street clothes" was an indication that Social Credit and not the NDP now was the party of the working man.

WERNER-GREN JIBE

Sharpest heckle to hit the premier broke into his sentence that "Fulton was certainly taken in . . . " with a biting "Wenner-Gren took you in."

The premier shot back that Wenner-Gren did not get a single acre of B.C. land through his dealings with the government.

"No—$10,000,000," yelled his tormentor.

"That's what we got from them, my friend," replied the premier.

When the heckler tried to toss another crack back, a Bennett supporter in the audience rose up and shouted him down.

SOCRED 'FRAUD'

Tory Charges Trickery

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dick Malkin, Progressive Conservative candidate in Vancouver Point Grey riding, Monday night charged the Social Credit party is fraudulently using a University of B.C. dean's name in the Sept. 30 provincial election campaign.

Mr. Malkin told an all-candidates meeting Monday that a newspaper advertisement featuring a statement from S. N. F. Chant, acting dean of arts at UBC, was a good example of what he called Social Credit "trickery."

He said the advertisement quoted Dean Chant as saying the Social Credit education program was "the most significant breakthrough in educational planning that has occurred in any province in Canada."

"This, ladies and gentlemen, is a fraud," Mr. Malkin said.

"We learned from Dean Chant this morning that his quotation is taken from a private letter to the minister of education last March.

Mr. Malkin said the quote concerned the government's implementing part of the Macdonald Report, which urged the formation of new universities in B.C.

"To take this quote out of Dean Chant's letter and make it appear as a blanket endorsement of Mr. Bennett's educational policy is plain and simple misrepresentation," Mr. Malkin said.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids . . . and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Satisfaction guaranteed or your money refunded.

Davie Punctures Peace Dam Again

KIMBERLEY (CP) — E. Davie Fulton Monday night reduced the issues of the Sept. 30 provincial election campaign down to:

"Do you want the Peace dam so badly that nothing else really matters?"

He said in an election address in support of Progressive Conservative candidate Dr. Bill Green that nothing else really matters to Premier Bennett.

The Conservative leader said the money required for the Peace project would pay for two Columbia projects.

It would: build two tunnels across the English Channel; pay for three St. Lawrence seaways; represent a $4,000 mortgage on every home in B.C.

The money saved on the Peace would make three first-class highways, six first-class hospitals, four universities or would pay for all municipal services for 10 years.

He said B.C. could not have education, lower municipal taxes, Columbia power, new industries, portable pensions, medicare, agricultural research and processing industries and the Peace project as well.

"What I am trying to tell you is not just stop the Peace. It is get on with education. Get on with social justice. Get on with a new deal for the municipal taxpayer. Get on with industrial development. Get on with a real, and honest attack on unemployment. Get on with financial stability. Get on with the Columbia.

Threat to French

ALGIERS (Reuters)—President Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria gave a clear hint Monday night he will nationalize remaining French property in Algeria if France carries out further nuclear tests in the Sahara Desert.

$2,000 JUMP IN REVENUES FOR FARMERS

MOOSE JAW (CP) — Two Liberal cabinet ministers entered the Progressive Conservative's Prairie stronghold Monday to tell farmers about the recently signed $500,000,000 wheat sale to Russia.

Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp said the agreement, arranged by the Canadian wheat board, will mean an increase in revenue of $2,000 each for the average wheat grower.

At the same time Agriculture Minister Harry Hays said farmers should trim wheat acreages, take a close look at domestic feed grain needs and plan diversified programs to avoid future burdensome wheat surpluses.

The ministers spoke to about 300 persons attending a Saskatchewan Farmers' Union meeting here.

YOUNG WIDOWS ARE SELDOM MERRY

Three young widows, each with small children, live on one relatively short street. They have another thing in common, unfortunately: they have all gone back to work to try and earn enough to keep their homes—and feed and clothe their school age youngsters.

Their lives are a far cry from that of opera's "Merry Widow".

Yet just 2 years ago the future looked bright for all three. Then a car accident killed one father, a heart attack the second; hidden cancer the third. All three men were in their early thirties!

One certain way to be sure your family can remain together as a unit with a "full-time" mother is through your purchase NOW of sufficient permanent personal life insurance. May we suggest you talk over your life and health insurance needs with a trained representative of The Excelsior Life Insurance Company, the Company helping Canadians help themselves to peace of mind.

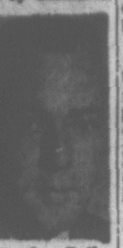
Instant Beer to Shake Up Industry

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor



Gordon Bell

Not "instant" beer, but the nearest thing to it in Canada has been developed by Canadian Breweries Ltd.

It could revolutionize the industry in this country.

The development, according to Canadian Breweries president Ian R. Dowie, is a successful method of preparing traditional brewing materials in extracted liquid form for economical shipment to small breweries in distant locations.

CUTS COSTS

In effect what has been achieved is the elimination of one of the chief capital cost items in brewing, the need for an expensive full-scale brewing plant in every brewery location.

Instead the early brewing steps are carried out in one central location. This takes the brew right up to the fermentation stage and then a [illegible] removed by a special process, reducing the volume to about one-seventh.

The concentrated ingredients can be shipped in special containers to small branch plants where the water is put back in, fermentation carried on and the finished beer bottled.

The new process, known as the "Conbrew" method, will be used first for the company's brewery subsidiary in Nassau. The extracted liquid will be prepared by another subsidiary in St. John's, Newfoundland.

FLAVOR UNAFFECTED

The company claims the new process does not affect the quality or flavor of the final product.

Initially at least, Canadian Breweries sees the new method as most suitable for foreign expansion.

"We expect to be able to make increasing use of this new process for breweries in countries where the initial market may be small," Mr. Dowie said.

However, if it is successful, there is no doubt the new method could be applied domestically as well to serve areas where full-scale brewery [illegible] yet which are far enough away from established breweries for freight costs of shipping in finished products to be an important factor.

In the U.S., meanwhile, several brewing firms are looking at an actual beer concentrate — finished beer with a large amount of the water removed.

Miller Brewing Co. of Milwaukee and Union Carbide Corp. have developed a concentrating process which reduces beer in volume by about 75 per cent. The concentrate can be stored and reconstituted when required by the addition of water and carbon dioxide.

Miller, which has only the one brewery in Milwaukee, sees the development as a natural for the growth of a "franchised bottler" system similar to that in the soft-drink industry. In addition, use of the process could lead to a "continuous brewing" system with the brewery operating at a year-round optimum level and the excess product stored for reconstitution in peak consumption periods.

Steps are to be taken in the $5.1 million takeover of Rock City Tobacco by Rothmans of [illegible] tinue the 50 per cent public ownership of Rothmans of Pall Mall.

Rock City is owned by Rothmans of Canada Ltd. which also holds 50 per cent of the common stock of Rothmans of Pall Mall. Included in the purchase price will be 300,000 class B convertible shares which, when converted would give the parent company [illegible]000 Rothmans of Pall Mall common compared with [illegible]000 in the hands of the public.

However, the parent company has agreed to sell 150,000 of these shares to the public thus maintaining the 50-50 ownership and has undertaken not to vote the additional shares until such sale has been completed.

The $5.1 million purchase price includes $3.3 million net tangible asset values plus intangibles such as goodwill valued at $3 million and an establishment account cost of $3.6 million before provision for amortization.

One of the main reasons for the acquisition, according to Rothmans of Pall Mall president John H. Devlin, is to strengthen the competitive position of the company which depends now on the sale of only one brand of cigarette. The addition of the Rock City sales will more than double Rothmans sales and expand the number of brands from one to seven.

Sniff the air at 51° North 114° West Air is not the same everywhere. Crisp winter prairie air is different from humid summer city air. Mountain air is different from sea level air. And there is another reason why ADL rye whiskys taste smoother, finer. They age in the cool dry air that sweeps in from mile-high Rocky Mountain passes. This marriage of air and ageing whisky gives the character and quality you enjoy – and only ADL whiskys offer this unique distilling advantage. Next time, ask for an ADL rye. You'll probably ask for it again.

ELECTION NOTEBOOK WONDERS IF MAYOR SHOULD FORM 'BASTION SQUARE PARTY'

Dick Wilson's a Jolly Good Fellow—So Say Socreds, Grits, Tories

Politicians sometimes have to swallow bitter pills fed to them not by enemies but "friends."

That's what happened on Monday night to J. Donald Smith, seeking re-election as one of the three Social Credit MLAs for Victoria.

At a campaign meeting in Sir James Douglas School he sat without expression while running-mate Waldo Skillings showered praise on Mayor R. B. Wilson.

"One of the finest mayors we've ever had in the city of Victoria is Dick Wilson," enthused Mr. Skillings. "He is doing just a terrific job."

Skillings either forgot or ignored the fact that Mr. Smith less than two years ago fought and lost a bitter campaign against Mr. Wilson for the mayoralty.

Adding a little more acid to the pill must have been the big round of applause Mr. Skillings' statement aroused—loudest of the evening by far.

Anothering interesting sidelight to the remark is that its lines up the Social Credit party along with the Liberals and Progressive Conservatives as professed admirers of Mr. Wilson.

Now only the NDP hasn't made a declaration of love for Victoria's mayor. And they may yet.

With that kind of bi-partisan support, he should be able to stop turning down refusals to invitations from various parties and organize his own for the next provincial election — possibly the "Bastion Square Party?"

Victoria's heckler-in-chief has apologized for making a racket at Premier Bennett's Royal Theatre meeting on Friday.

A man identifying himself as "the Heckler, Gordon A. Lavoie," made the apology in a telegram to the premier.

"Sorry for all the heckling tonight but you won me over," it said.

"Reason was I applied for civil service position last January and with all qualifications expected action.

"Now no unemployment insurance, no job, a little desperate.

"Be a better backer than heckler."

The Civil Service Commission confirmed that a Gordon A. Davoie of 1586 Rockland Ave., had applied for a job, hadn't got it, but left his application on file for anything else that might come up.

Liberal leader Ray Perrault Monday night came the closest he has ever done to promising a cabinet post to a candidate.

He hinted strongly that Oak Bay's Alan Macfarlane, a lawyer, would be attorney-general if there were a Liberal government.

"We will take a fresh look at the administration of justice in this province," he told a meeting at Lansdowne Junior High School.

"Alan Macfarlane will be a key figure in it."

Works Minister W. N. Chant unwittingly gave a good example of double-think at a political meeting.

He denounced Davie Fulton for resorting to personal denigration and vituperation against Premier Bennett.

In the next breath, Mr. Chant described the Tory leader as "a disgrace to the public life of this country, spouting absolute falsehoods."

"I say our premier has more integrity and ability in his little finger than this man has in his whole carcass."

Mr. Chant didn't say whether "this man" meant Fulton's carcass or his own.

But he quickly launched into another example of double-think, saying there was a very definite and important reason for calling an election at this time.

"The province has reached the stage where momentous decisions and commitments have to be made and we must have the people's verdict."

And he immediately followed up that statement with an attack on Mr. Fulton's stop-the-Peace stand as throwing away $100,000,000 "that already has been committed."

Election meetings tonight: Esquimalt, all-candidates forum, Luxton Hall; Oak Bay Social Credit, Frank Hobbs School; Saanich Liberals, Gordon Head School; Saanich, NDP., St. Michael's Church; Saanich Progressive Conservatives, Brentwood Women's Institute Hall.

Victoria Daily Times

VICTORIA, B.C., TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1963—PAGE 15

Arthur Mayse

We were treading a stately measure at the Empress a while back when my self-esteem was punctured by the sight of a pair who danced as I'd like to, but never, never will.

Later bird-dogging led me three flights up from Broughton Street to a hardwood floor being circled by about 30 couples.

Most were middle-aged, the eldest could call me "sonny" and get away with it, but they all waltzed with grace, precision, and such uniformity as a Canadian ballroom rarely witnesses.

This last is as it should be, according to the blonde half of that dazzling Empress team, a London-accented teacher of the dance called Elsie Holtum.

Almost everywhere in the world, Mrs. Holtum explains, an international ballroom style dictated by England has found acceptance. But here and in America, she qualifies sadly, too many of us persist in getting around a floor by methods of our own devising.

"The Japanese have adopted international," she told me, with an approving nod for the well-synchronized couple who swirled past. "They're good dancers, you know. Even the Russians are interested: they have approached England for dance instructors."

What caused the Soviets to lift a corner of the curtain was worry over the effect of western rock-and-roll on their young people.

"Jungle dancing" is Mrs. Holtum's term for this jive-based phenomenon. She teaches correct jive, but urges teen-agers to learn their ballroom basics as well.

"I feel they miss out on so much by not learning," she mourns.

"A knowledge of ballroom dancing helps them acquire confidence. When a boy especially can be persuaded to learn, he won't be so shy about dancing later."

* * *

As a matter of fact, each year brings boys and girls to the dance studios, most of them without parental pressure. They learn fast and their attitude warms from dubious to enthusiastic.

A girl takes a few ballroom lessons, then goes to a school dance. Next lesson, in she bounces with nose in air.

"Boys!" she declaims to her teacher. "They don't know anything . . . not even how to hold a girl properly!"

And while it doesn't often happen, she's been known to fetch the offending partner to the studio for instruction.

He may, in fact usually does, shed his timidity with exposure. But the general male shyness toward ballroom dancing remains a puzzler.

"Why," Mrs. Holtum demands, "will a man put on a shirt made from the same material as his wife's dress, top it with a white hat and go square-dancing, but be so wary of a ballroom?

* * *

Amiably outspoken, Mrs. Holtum went on to tell me that Canadian orchestras compare dismally with England's, and that doctors as a group are the worst dancers in Victoria.

Enlarging, she added that men in general—although 75 per cent of the partnership—rarely dance as well as women. They have less rhythm, and don't find in dancing the sense of romance and glamor which a woman does.

Almost invariably, it's the wife who prods the reluctant husband into taking lessons.

This, a typical couple gets around to in their forties. The children are grown or mostly so, and for the first time since marriage, husband and wife have entered upon a breathing space.

The reasons people offer for turning up at a dance studio are various.

Some seek and find the friends they haven't been able to acquire elsewhere. Others simply wish to add minimum dancing ability to their social assets, and quit when they feel they've accomplished this. There are those who settle on ballroom dancing as a hobby, and make the studio their club.

Often there's another less tangible reason. Even though youth once flown is a bird uncatchable, the illusion can be achieved for a while, to the beat of a dance rhythm, on a polished floor.

IF A SEAT BELT is strong enough to suspend the front end of this 3,300-lb. automobile it can help prevent injuries to motorists involved in accidents, claim members of Victoria Lions Club. They will be selling and installing belts like the one pictured here Saturday and Sunday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Mooney's Auto Body Shop, 937 View. Belts come in seven colors, have metal-to-metal clasps and have been tested to stand a 6,000-lb. strain. Lions installed 2,000 belts in last year's campaign.

Ferry Crews Keep Pressing Bennett

B.C. Ferry employees, following a meeting in Vancouver Monday, have wired Premier Bennett reiterating demands for collective bargaining and choice of union representation.

They will meet again today to discuss future plans, including a possible strike.

"That will be determined by the men themselves," said Bob Cook, president of Local 425, Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Transport and General Workers, which is seeking jurisdiction.

Crews have been talking strike seriously since Sept. 3 when a wildcat walkout was staged at Nanaimo.

The men returned to work after six hours when they received assurances of meetings with officials to settle their problems.

OPPOSED

Protests broke out again following a government announcement that it would recognize the B.C. Government Employees' Association as representative of all ferry employees.

"The men don't want that," Mr. Cook said.

Today's telegram reads: "A meeting held Tuesday, Sept. 24, of B.C. Government Ferry employees representing masters, mates, engineers, deckhands, stewards, cooks and unlicensed engineering staff instructed me to send you the following statement—'We employees of the B.C. Government Ferry system demand of your government (1) the right to government-supervised vote to determine the trade union of our choice, (2) the right to collective bargaining.

"'We feel these are democratic rights owing to every citizen of this province. We request a reply as soon as possible.' Signed Robert F. Cook."

Copies to other leaders began: "If your party becomes the government after this election . . . "

Mr. Cook said ferry men are angry at not having the rights they demand. He said there has been "not a word" from the B.C. Government Employees' Association since the government announced that it would recognize the association for all ferry employees.

A meeting called in Victoria Monday night was a virtual failure, Mr. Cook said.

FEW TURNED UP

"There was a breakdown in communications and few turned up."

He said notices of the meeting were posted aboard ferries "but they were torn down."

He said it was not a large enough meeting to achieve anything definite, so general problems were discussed.

The Brotherhood's marine engineer division has 32 engineers in Victoria.

Help! Message On Smoke Sent To Pittsburgh

Smoke committee chairman Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow today wired the city of Pittsburgh to find out how it beat a world-famous fly ash and smoke problem.

He said he asked Pittsburgh officials to send him any information they could in time for a smoke committee meeting set for Thursday.

UNIQUE PROBLEM

Ald. Edgelow noted however that the local smoke and fly ash problem is unique in that it stems from a concentration of mills in the heart of the city that burn wet wood waste.

He said representatives of local plants would be invited to the meeting to detail all the improvements they have made so far in efforts to reduce the problem.

He said he was tired of receiving criticism every time he pointed out that industry has co-operated with the city's efforts to lessen fly ash fallout.

"I'm not going to stick out my neck again," Ald Edgelow said. "Let the plant operators themselves tell the committee what they are doing to improve the situation and how far they're intending to go in the future."

COUSIN TESTIFIES:

Murder Suspect Drinking

John Stanley Crocker fell overboard from a boat after drinking part of a jug of wine on the evening before Joseph George was murdered, a preliminary hearing was told Monday.

The hearing is into a charge that the 21-year-old Crocker murdered his distant relative, the 80-year-old George, on Galiano Island on Aug. 13.

The old man disappeared from his blood-soaked cabin overnight Aug. 12-13. Evidence showed George had been drinking with the accused's grandfather, Arthur (Pop) Crocker, the night of Aug. 12.

Ernie Crocker, the 15-year-old cousin of the accused, said John took some wine from Pop Crocker's boat and they drank about a half-gallon of it.

Ernie said they drank the wine in a boat. After John fell in the water he went ashore and changed into some of Ernie's clothes.

Ernie told Magistrate William Ostler that next morning when he saw John there were bloodstains on the knee of the pants he had loaned to the accused.

At this morning's hearing Gerry James, 21, told of hearing "some banging" when he was asleep later that evening in a shack beside George's cabin.

ARGUMENT

Gerry said he heard "voices arguing" and he identified the voices as those of George, John Crocker and another person called Solomon Joe.

He said he left the shack and went to sleep behind the home of Henry Crocker nearby. Later he heard Solomon Joe arrive at the front of Henry's home and go in.

Gerry said he then got up and also went into the house to sleep. He said that still later John Crocker arrived and also came in to sleep in Henry's house.

Peter Mitchell, the great-uncle of the accused, said he opened the door of Henry's cabin when John arrived. He said he saw blood on John's shirt.

Arthur Crocker, the grandfather of the accused, and a nephew of the dead man, said he met John during the afternoon of Aug. 13 after it was discovered that George was missing.

He said that John told him "I didn't kill the old man. I had a battle with the old man but we shook hands."

Police evidence showed that George's cabin was a bloody mess and that there was a trail of bloodstained articles down to the beach from the cabin.

George's body was recovered a week after he went missing. It was weighted down by an engine manifold in the deep water of Porlier Pass, off the north end of Galiano Island

Family Court Quarters 'Inadequate'

Mayor R. B. Wilson today said the Greater Victoria family court quarters are totally inadequate.

He said he probably would suggest to an intermunicipal committee meeting today that a study be undertaken to improve the situation.

The mayor's comments came after a personal inspection of the court facilities in the basement of the city health and welfare building on Cook Street.

Mayor Wilson said the accommodation is cramped and inefficient.

"And it certainly is not fair to ask people to work all day when the air is so bad," he added.

At present, the court serves the city, Saanich and Oak Bay.

Uvic, Univic, Vicu Short Title Snafu

By AB KENT

A short, snappy handle for University of Victoria fires student imagination like a sack of secondhand teabags.

The student body has RAVIC, SUB, PUBS, IVCF, NFCUS AND EUS, and possibly more, but UVIS, VICU and UNIVIC are still strangers to the campuses at Lansdowne and Gordon Head.

A poll conducted today in the steamy cavern of intellectual pursuit, the CAF, shows students haven't thought about a popular title or are still calling their institution Victoria College.

Most agree there should be and probably will be a suitable colloquialism for the university.

EVOLUTION

But in the words of social convener Sharon Kirk, 20, arts 4:

"A name is something you can't make happen by sitting down and declaring. It's the same with a school yell or song. They will evolve of their own accord," because they are part of the university tradition.

As an illustration of her point, the suggested UNIVIC, UVIC and VICU have not been caught up popularly, Miss Kirk said.

"It's got to be something quite catchy. It will be snapped up immediately when the right thing comes along."

So much for chancellor Judge J. B. Clearihue's suggested UVIC.

Winston Jackson, 20, arts 2, thinks UVIC will do for the interim, but suggests UVC, for University of Victoria City, should be considered.

Whatever gets popular consent should not be "corny or sensational," he said.

TORONTO, TOO

Those polled agreed the short title should be distinctive. They are worried that they might be confused with Victoria University in Toronto.

"I think the proper title should be changed to University of Vancouver Island," said Martin Vanderpol, 35, education 1.

"This would be analogous to UBC, which is serving the whole province. This university is serving Vancouver Island."

Anne Logie, 20, arts 4, and Jim Taylor, 21, arts 4, find it hard to think in terms of a university, rather than the more familiar Victoria College.

"UVIC sounds a lot better than UNIVIC," said George Puritch, 21, arts 3. UNIVIC conjures up the image of some great electronic brain—a bit too Wellesian.

GETTING READY to tackle the first meal produced and served in the new dining room in the Salvation Army hostel on Johnson Street is Mrs. Frank McGarrick. She was feted Monday evening for her 17 years of service as a Sally-Ann bookkeeper. Waiting on her are Major and Mrs. Lorne Jannison. The stainless steel kitchen and dining room which seats 60 were built into the old thrift store. This was all part of a $75,000 realignment program which included a new thrift store at 521 Johnson and a new chapel and lounge for men upstairs in the hostel, 529 Johnson. The public will have an opportunity to inspect the new premises at an open house Oct. 7 at 7:30 p.m. (Robin Clarke photo.)

Vancouver MP Tours Island Defence Units

A tour of Vancouver Island maritime defence installations is being made by Vancouver-Quadra Liberal MP Grant Deachman.

He is a member of the Commons standing committee on defence.

Mr. Deachman Monday went aboard HMCS Grilse, later transferred to the destroyer Mackenzie and today visited Rear-Admiral W. M. Landymore and Pacific headquarters of maritime command at HMC Dockyard.

Later today he was to be accompanied to RCAF Station Comox with deputy maritime commander Air Commodore Roy Weston.

Ask The Times

Q. In the Kamloops district we noticed that many of the hills had a series of horizontal paths about six to 12 inches wide. These paths seem to go all the way up the hills, which, in many cases are very steep. Can you tell me the cause of these paths? H.M.H.

A. Most popular theory held by the department of lands and forests is they are caused by a combination of soil erosion and grazing of game and domestic animals.

When animals graze, their front and rear feet are level. So when animals are on steep hillsides they will "dig in" to graze, causing these paths over a period of years.

McNamara Target For Red Bullet?

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (Reuters) — A Pan-American 707 jet airliner was hit by a Communist guerrilla bullet early today in firing that some sources said could have been directed against United States Defence Secretary Robert McNamara and his special mission.

The plane, on a flight from Singapore to Manila, was hit in one engine seven miles from the Saigon airport but managed to land safely here on three engines.

Some sources said the guerrillas might have thought the airliner was bringing in McNamara and Gen. Maxwell Taylor, chairman of the U.S. joint chiefs of staff.

They were due in Saigon tonight to make a special examination of the four-year war against the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet Nam.

PERRAULT WARNING

'Bogeymen Are Coming To Frighten Voters'

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett is about to call in "bogeymen" from industry to try and frighten voters into supporting Social Credit, Liberal leader Ray Perrault predicted Monday night.

He made a fierce personal attack on oil tycoon Frank McMahon who, he said, would lead another last-minute attempt to scare the voters as he did in 1960.

Mr. Perrault spoke to 200 people at Lansdowne Junior High School at what was planned to be the local Liberals' major meeting of the election campaign.

On election day 1960, Mr. Perrault recalled, Mr. McMahon, president of Westcoast Transmission Co. Ltd., grabbed the headlines with a statement that if B.C. voted NDP it would lose 10,000 jobs and a $45 000,000 northern pipeline.

'JUMP ON YOU'

"In the next few days — watch for it — it's coming," Mr. Perrault said.

"They're going to try and jump on you like bogeymen.

"They're going to try to frighten you out of your wits."

Mr. Perrault said he had received a telephone call from a B.C. businessman who said he had been asked to appear on a television series featuring other top industrial leaders supporting Social Credit. He said Mr. McMahon was to be the first.

Mr. Perrault said that most of Social Credit's election manifesto was written by Dan Ekman, Mr. McMahon's personal assistant and formerly the premier's top aide.

"Right out of his mind," said Mr. Perrault.

PIPELINE

"Mr. Ekman was the pipeline that Mr. McMahon built into the premier's office for his league of frightened men.

"The league of frightened men is at work again today. These are their advertisements you see in the newspapers today.

"There'll be more of them—just as there were in 1960—battering at the sanity of this province with the fear of socialism.

"McMahon and other industrialists of this province are the men who started paying their dues to the Social Gimmick Party in 1952."

Mr. Perrault said these men are not really afraid of socialism—only afraid of Premier Bennett.

"Mr. Bennett over the past

JETS BUZZ BRITISH EVACUEES

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Indonesian Air Force MiG-21 jet fighters buzzed the airport terminal here tonight as a group of British men, women and children waited to be evacuated after their embassy was burned by mobs last week.

About 30 minutes before an airliner was due to take off with part of the evacuees, two Indonesian jets screamed low over the terminal building.

Everyone inside ducked as the building shook under the roar of the jets. The two MiGs circled the airport before landing near the waiting Quantas Australian airliner.

The group, mainly businessmen and their families, was escorted to the airport under a strong police guard to board a jet airliner to Europe and another plane was due to take a group of 40 British evacuees to Singapore.

Road Promised To Port Hardy

Special to The Times

NANAIMO—Cheering, punctuated by some heckling, greeted Premier W. A. C. Bennett at a campaign meeting here Monday night that drew 600 spectators.

The premier spoke on behalf of Recreation Minister Earle Westwood, who won the riding by a bare 51 votes in 1961. At that time, Premier Bennett's campaign speech in Nanaimo met a generally hostile reception.

The premier announced that Dawson Wade Company tendered the lowest bid, $740,690, for construction of the first 10 miles of right-of-way involved in the PGE extension from Prince George to Fort St James.

But the loudest applause came when Mr. Bennett said the Social Credit manifesto included a plan to provide a blacktop road to Port Hardy within seven years.

The Albernis would be connected to the Port Hardy route by a new road.

He gave no starting dates but said the northern Vancouver Island community would also

Martin Talks Disarmament

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—External Affairs Minister Paul Martin has explored a possible new initiative in the disarmament field with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, it was learned today.

The Canadian minister, who met with Gromyko for more than an hour late Monday at the Soviet United Nations mission, was understood to have sought the Soviet reaction on an initiative the Canadian delegation has been considering.

The nature of the move was not disclosed, but it was understood to involve an area where considerable agreement already exists between East and West.

Martin, who flies back to Ottawa today for trade talks with a Japanese ministerial delegation, planned several other conferences before his departure.

He was to meet with India's chief delegate Mrs. Vijaya L. Pandit and Foreign Minister Mongi Slim of Tunisia—both of whom he also saw Monday. Later he was to meet with South Africa's chief delegate G. P. Joost.

Cards' Last Gasp Stifled by Cubs

Times News Services

Los Angeles Dodgers clinched the National League pennant this afternoon the easy way. They move into the World Series against New York Yankees as St. Louis Cardinals dropped a 6-3 decision to the Cubs at Chicago.

Defeat wiped out the last mathematical chance the Cards had of catching the Dodgers, who start tonight's game at Los Angeles against New York Mets with a six-game lead. St. Louis has only five games remaining.

The cocky Dodgers are now talking about World Series chances, but it was a different story 10 days ago after a great St. Louis surge had trimmed the Los Angeles lead to a single game.

Then the Dodgers moved into St. Louis to sweep a three-game series and all but sewed up the pennant. From there it appeared only a matter of time until the Cards were eliminated.

CELEBRATION TONIGHT

Dodgers are expected to hold a victory celebration tonight after the game with New York and some say the champagne has been on ice at Dodger Stadium since last year about this time.

It was late last September when an end-of-season plunge ruined Los Angeles' pennant hopes and ended in a playoff loss to San Francisco.

This time the Dodgers refused to take anything for granted and until today had avoided talk of World Series chances. They couldn't forget last year.

Dates of games in the World Series, expected to be the richest ever, will probably be announced tonight.

Fraud Charges Against Ex-Ministers

QUEBEC (CP)—Charges of defrauding the province of Quebec were laid today against two former Union Nationale cabinet ministers, one legislative councillor and a former high-ranking civil servant.

Charged with fraud are J. D. Begin, former minister of colonization; Antonio Talbot, former minister of highways; Legislative Councillor Gerald Martineau and Alfred Hardy, former director of government purchasing services.

At the same time a charge of conspiracy to defraud the province was laid against Arthur Bouchard, a Quebec City businessman.

The total amount involved in the charges is $309,000.

The charges arise from findings by a royal commission under Mr. Justice Elie Salvas of Quebec Superior Court that investigated purchasing practices of the Union Nationale government between July 1, 1955, and June 30, 1960.

The Union Nationale was defeated by the Liberals in the June, 1960, provincial election and the Salvas commission was appointed later the same year

Begin, who retired from politics last year prior to the 1962 provincial election, had been member of the legislative assembly for Dorchester since 1935. As minister of colonization from 1944 to 1960, he headed the government department administering pioneer farm lands.

Under the present government the colonization portfolio has been combined with agriculture.

Talbot entered the provincial legislature in a 1938 by-election as member for Chicoutimi, a seat he still holds. He was highways minister from 1944 to 1960.

Martineau, former treasurer of the Union Nationale party, has been a member of the Quebec legislative council, only provincial upper house in Canada, since 1946.

TRASH LEFT IN PARK CHEERS COMMISSIONER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Toronto park commissioner T. W. Thompson believes that the anti-litterbug campaign in the United States is "the greatest mistake any park people ever got tied up with."

Thompson told a conference of American park executives Monday that for parks the campaign is a "negative" approach.

His city's system is noted for its "please walk on the grass" signs. Thompson said the approach was not a gimmick because Toronto's parks planners feel it's their function "to bring the people off the cement walks and onto the grass." To do this they decided to use positive signs and never to say "don't" to anyone.

Thompson said little boys think their names are important, so they carve them on trees. "If they think our trees are a good place to carve them, then we think it's better than the toilet partitions," he said.

His park staff also expects the turf to wear out from time to time "like any carpet." They resod it by sections to save costly re-seeding.

He admitted that they had trouble with dog-owners. Currently his staff is working on some signs to be addressed to the dogs. But he has had little trouble traced to maliciousness.

His employees do not use the words "litterbug" and "vandal."

"The people who use our parks are people, not bugs," Thompson said. "My reaction to the few persons who leave trash is that they were on the parks and they were happy."

DUNCAN—Site for a proposed $500,000 courthouse-government building in Duncan was chosen by city council on Monday.

The property is near the present courthouse at Government and Station Street.

Mayor Jack Dobson said the government will be asked to accept the site which would be the core of a suggested civic centre to be developed over a period of years.

The government is expected to go ahead with construction next spring, he said.

A new courthouse was promised by the government six years ago, but it is only within the last year that council was pressed to find a site for the building.

Mayor Dobson said the civic centre would include an auditorium, municipal offices, library, council chambers, plaza display area, outdoor eating place and lawns.

It would cover about four acres including parking space.

Mayor Dobson said details of the civic centre are being worked out by the newly formed city planning advisory committee under chairman J. H. Whittome.

DUNCAN—Maurice Girard, Duncan, was fined $30 in magistrate's court when he pleaded guilty to passing when it was unsafe.

Police said the charge had been laid as the result of a Sept. 14 accident caused when Girard attempted to overtake a V.I. Coach Lines bus while travelling up a hill near Nanaimo. An approaching car went out of control and struck the bus.

Accused told the court he had not seen a small car driving ahead of the bus. Damage amounted to $2,500.

NANAIMO — A bomb scare here two weeks ago has prompted school board officials to post watchmen at schools.

Additional staff was hired by the board at the senior secondary school after principal J. B. Litch received an anonymous telephone call warning him that a bomb was set to go off during school hours.

A subsequent search by school staff and RCMP did not turn up a bomb.

However, the board decided to take "preventive action" in the face of a bombing of a real estate firm several weeks ago.

Immigration Changes Due For Chinese

VANCOUVER (CP)—Sweeping changes in regulations governing the admission to Canada of Chinese immigrants were forecast Monday night by Immigration Minister Favreau.

He also said he will visit Hong Kong this year to investigate problems associated with the movement of Chinese immigrants to Canada.

"Before a policy satisfactory to this country and to the Chinese-Canadian community can be definitely worked out, there must be a clear understanding that absolute sincerity and conscientious adherence must apply to whatever new regulations are to be introduced," he said.

"The problem regarding illegal Chinese immigration to Canada can and must be solved."

Bad News for Clerks

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Gordon said Monday there are no plans to provide pay increases for 20,000 government clerks who were not included in last December's round of pay boosts. He said in a letter to the Civil Service Association of Canada that the clerks involved are receiving salaries comparable with those in private businesses.

WINNIPEG (CP)—An arbitration board awarded an across-the-board hourly pay increase of four cents spread across 42 months to employees of the CPR's Royal Alexandra Hotel.

The award was implemented during the weekend and ends a long-standing dispute on a new contract for the 130 employees.

The special arbitration board to settle the dispute was set up in the wake of a strike threat by the hotel local of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (CLC).

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Council of Forest Industries has recommended a $10 increase in widows' pensions in a brief presented Monday to the royal commission on the Workmen's Compensation Act. Funeral services were held this afternoon at McCall Bros.' chapel for Arthur S. Stringer, 3127 Fifth Street, who died Saturday in Royal Jubilee Hospital, age 56.

The body was cremated.

Mr. Stringer had been an employee of B.C. Forest Service for 37 years and a resident of Victoria for the past 20 years.

He was well known locally as a baritone and concert singer. He sang at the dedication of Cameron bandshell in Beacon Hill Park and appeared frequently as soloist with the Meistersingers and Arion Club.

He also had his own radio program and sang in many of the city's churches.

He is survived by the widow, Helen; two brothers, Jack in Vancouver and Frank in Penticton; a sister, Mrs. L. Ade of Vancouver, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stringer, in Nelson.

Unions Merge On Sour Note

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canada's newest union—the Canadian Union of Public Employees—was founded today with one sour note, the walkout of a 3,700-member Toronto local.

Al Sims, president of the Toronto local, said his group dissociated itself from CUPE because of opposition to increased union dues and lack of local autonomy.

The new union-founded from a merger of the National Union of Public Employees and the National Union of Public Service Employees—will embrace municipal employees, hospital workers, hydro men and others in municipal and provincial governments.

FANTHORPE:

It's Bargain Day With Tax Dollars

The tax dollar is the consumer's best buy today, New Democratic candidate Harry Fanthorpe told 30 persons in a Victoria campaign meeting Monday.

Medicare, automobile insurance and other benefits accruing from a New Democratic government would be paid for by the citizens.

"They wouldn't be free. These things will come from taxes, but they won't cost you as much (as they do now).

"The tax dollar is your best buy today," he said.

He spoke with running mates A. W. Toone and Dave Reimer at the Union Centre, Quadra Street.

It was the first public meeting held since the hall was officially opened Saturday. President E. T. Staley of Victoria Building Co-operative Union, owner of the building, welcomed the gathering.

FITTING

"It is very fitting that the first meeting should be for the New Democratic Party," he said.

Mr. Fanthorpe said newspapers have overlooked the reason Premier Bennett called an election for Sept. 30.

"It can't be proven, but I can draw no other conclusion." he said.

Since he is reasonably sure that Peace River development money is coming from the United Kingdom or Europe, and the premier's announcement came on the heels of his return from an unexpected visit to England, the candidate concluded that he had been turned down when he asked for more money.

MANDATE WANTED

"He was probably told he couldn't have more money without a five-year mandate from the people," he said.

Mr. Fanthorpe said Social Credit has not got a two-river power development policy because it intends to give one away.

He said Columbia development involves giving two million kilowatts of power to the U.S.

The province should assume full responsibility for service to persons, such as welfare, hospitals, arterial highways and general education services, except where a federal share is applicable, Mr. Toone advocated.

"This responsibility must be lifted from the backs of municipal taxpayers," he said.

The municipal tax struggle will otherwise get harder and harder to wage.

There should be a full-time labor minister; Bills 42 and 43 must be repealed, and full recognition must be given, with bargaining rights, to government employees, he said.

There should be an economic development corporation to provide B.C. with more skilled people and jobs such as electronics and plastics, halting the export of jobs to the U.S., Mr. Toone said.

Mr. Reimer accused the government of neglecting the crisis in higher education, quoting figures supplied by the UBC Alumni Association.

He said by 1971 there will be 37,000 students needing facilities at four universities and six two-year colleges, requiring an immediate expansion of graduate studies to provide the hundreds of additional faculty members.

He quoted the alumni association as saying the provincial grant to UBC had fallen short of requested money by $1,188,000, causing a reduced program.

PEOPLE DON'T WANT JAIL

Council to Forward Mental Home Protest

Saanich council Monday evening decided to forward to the attorney-general's department a 140-signature petition against the use of the Wilkinson Road mental home as any kind of jail.

Council also decided to:

Pay part of the costs of sending the Victoria Junior Shamrocks lacrosse team to Whitby, Ont., for the Minto Cup playoff.;

Put up a traffic light at Shelbourne and Cedar Hill Cross Road at a cost of $3,000;

And participate again in a radio series of municipal reports, even though two councillors indicated they would shun the program.

ASSURANCES

Reeve Stanley Murphy said Saanich has received assurances from the deputy attorney-general that the Wilkinson Road home would not be used as any kind of prison.

He suggested that sending the petition to the provincial government might tend to confirm that decision by indicating popular opinion.

Decision to participate again this year in the Municipal Report series presented by radio station CJVI was made on the understanding that two councillors who objected—Coun. Joseph Casey and Leslie Passmore—need not speak.

HILLBILLY NO. 1

"I want a letter of apology before I'll participate," said Coun. Casey. "I'm hillbilly number one."

(After Coun. Casey spoke on the program last winter, a news editorial commentator for the station referred to anti-amalgamation councillors as "Saanich hillbillies.")

"I don't know anyone who listens to it," said Coun. Casey.

Bigger Pie, Thinner Cuts Irks Jenkins

Saanich Socialist candidate George Jenkins told four listeners at the Lake Hill Community Hall Monday night that incomes, in relation to what the workers produce, have fallen.

He said the worker's slice of the pie has shrunk as the pie has grown.

"It is only natural that where the means of production and distribution is privately owned that any industrial improvements will primarily benefit the owners, not producers," he said.

Automation, bringing a huge increase in productivity of the workers, could only serve society when it is owned and controlled by society, "commonly and democratically, and this is the object of the Socialist Party."

TWO KILLED IN CRASH AT PT. HARDY

PORT HARDY—Two men were killed Sunday and four others injured when their car plunged off a bridge near this Vancouver Island community, 150 miles north of Nanaimo.

Dead are Harold Gordon Woods, 33, of Sudbury, Ont., and Ernest Webster, 27, of Rossland, B.C.

The six were employees of the Coast Copper Mine at nearby Benson Lake.

Police said the men were returning to Benson Lake when their car jumped a foot-high guard beam on a small bridge.

Woods is survived by a wife and children in Sudbury. Webster's mother lives in Rossland.

War Damage Remains

LONGWY (Reuters) — Guy Poirot, 18, claimed to be the only boy born in Ravensbruck concentration camp to have survived, was exempted from the French army draft by doctors here Monday. His health was considered precarious because of the lack of milk available for him after birth in the notorious Nazi camp.

Adult Education Program Expands

By AB KENT

The need for a full-range adult education centre in Victoria is underlined by the curriculum of Greater Victoria School Board's evening division, opening in two weeks time.

There is an ever-increasing demand for tailored industrial-type courses, assistant director Alan Batey said today.

This supports the school board's theme that an adult education centre should be established to fulfill the educational needs of the community—not just vocational courses but the full range of subjects from academic to job training and hobbies.

For example, Mr. Batey pointed out, there is a new course being offered this year called Mechanics and Strength of Materials, introduced at request of the Society of Architectural and Engineering Technologists of B.C.

PROVIDE INSTRUCTOR

The shipyards asked for a trade course for which they are prepared to supply not only an instructor, but a class of students.

He pointed out a new course for parents to help them understand the homework of children being taught mathematics by a new system.

There is also one to teach hobbyists how to play a recorder.

But still the most popular courses are academic, with more than 600 people enrolled in credit courses, some of which are being taught during the day for the first time.

This is the 4-10 p.m. matriculation course, running full-time through the normal school year.

In addition other academic courses are being carried into Saturday morning, also for the first time.

Yet, it is the women of Greater Victoria who regularly constitute the largest single group in the general subjects: there are some 500 of them registered in sewing and dressmaking classes, where there are still a few openings.

DRESSMAKING

There are 31 dressmaking classes to accommodate women eager to keep down clothing costs and indulge a hobby at the same time.

The quality of instruction has much to do with popularity of the courses, adult division principal John Dalgleish feels.

To date, registration in general courses is 3,604 compared with 2,802 at this time last year. There are 277 classes in the program.

All told, with academic students included, registration was 6,225 last year.

"The day is long past since people thought of night school as a place to go to learn shellcraft," Mr. Batey said.

The shift of emphasis to academic pursuits is prompted largely by the fact that workers find themselves competing with graduating high school students who have potential for employers.

Leader Curtails Election Tour

VANCOUVER (CP)—Tommy Douglas, national leader of the New Democratic party is cancelling two British Columbia speaking engagements to return to Ottawa for the opening of Parliament.

NDP headquarters here said Monday Mr. Douglas will not speak in Fernie Sept. 27 or in Squamish Sept. 28.

The party chieftain was on a B.C. speaking tour to back NDP candidates running in the Sept. 30 provincial election.

Gov't Pension Fought By Insurance Agents

OTTAWA (CP)—The Life Underwriters' Association of Canada said today it has launched a vigorous campaign aimed at getting a "fluoroscopic examination" of the Canada Pension Plan before it is rushed into law.

Aubrey Oldham of Ottawa, association president, told a press conference the inquiry should be carried out by a parliamentary committee to resolve "conflicting professional opinions" on the proposed wage-related contributory pension plan.

"We are confused by the confusion of the experts," he said. The life insurance and trust companies on one side and the government on the other were defending their particular positions at this stage and "you don't get truth that way."

The association, representing some 11,000 insurance agents, said it has begun lobbying against the Canada Pension Plan. Members of Parliament were being approached individually. Special meetings were being held for insurance agents across Canada.

Mr. Oldham said the federal government should not be "pressing the panic button" on a scheme just because it was conceived during an election campaign for political benefit.

"We are looking 100 years ahead—not 10 years," he said.

Mr. Oldham and his colleagues said figures prepared by trust and insurance companuy actuaries show that contributions to the federal plan, starting at two per cent of a salary limit of $4,000 a year, wolud rise to between five and eight per cent in 10 years.

Mr. Oldham said one of the greatest arguments against the federal scheme is that it would force a reduction in private pension plans, draining off money now being invested by trust and insurance companies.

With the Canada Pension Plan not investing this money, but paying it out as soon as it came in, up to $500,000,000 a year would be taken out of the pool of Canadian investment capital.

"The economy and the level of employment would suffer accordingly."

TWO HOURS OF QUESTIONS

They Had a Ball At Port Renfrew

About 100 people crammed Port Renfrew Community Hall Monday evening for the biggest, most boisterous meeting so far in the Esquimalt campaign.

Three of the four candidates—Conservative Robin Dunsmuir was speaking elsewhere—spoke at the meeting, which broke up just before midnight.

For Port Renfrew, it was the biggest campaign meeting ever.

NDP candidate Geoff Mitchell called Port Renfrew the "most politically promised community in B.C."

"If all the pieces of all the broken promises made in the last 60 years about the West Coast Road were gathered up, there would be enough to build that breakwater in San Juan Bay," he said.

Socred incumbent Herbert Bruch said he hoped the West Coast Road would be surfaced with crushed rock in the near future, and blacktopped later.

He came under heavy fire from the audience during a two-hour question period.

Mr. Bruch was questioned at length about the labor laws introduced by the Social Credit government, about his stand on the B.C. Electric takeover, and about reconstruction of the road.

Liberal candidate Maurice Simard criticized Premier Bennett's behavior in the legislature.

He charged that the government is run by "approximately three men."

PLANT BLAST KILLS 14

[illegible] — An illegal fireworks factory blew up in the heart of this southern Italian town today, killing at least 14 persons and injuring 20 others, at least nine seriously.

The injured included Antonio Mariniello, 57, the factory owner, who faces arrest if he recovers.

Police said the pre-dawn blast was caused by sparks which touched off a fire in the powder used in the factory. The fire spread to powder supplies and finished fireworks, which exploded with a roar that shook the town.

The factory was one of many clandestine fireworks plants in southern Italy. Italian law bans such factories in inhabited areas, but many are known to exist. Police seldom find them until they blow up, officials here said.

Viet Nam Denial

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—President Ngo Dinh Diem has sent a letter to Secretary-General U Thant charging that reports of repressive acts against the Buddhists in South Viet Nam are "nothing but an imperialist invention."

South Africa Sentences Policeman

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — Policeman [illegible] Greef, 18, was sentenced today to six years in prison for helping South African political refugees escape from police cells here and accepting a bribe.

He was arrested after artist Arthur Goldreich and lawyer Harold Wolpe and two Indian political prisoners escaped while being detained under South Africa's 90-day "no trial" anti-subversion law.

Goldreich and Wolpe arrived in London Monday. The Indians, Moosa Moolla and Abdulhay Jassay were reported to be in Dar Es Salaam, Tanganyika.

The four men slipped through one of the biggest manhunts in South African history to cross into the neighboring British territory of Bechuanaland last month.

Transvaal Deputy Attorney-General Percy Yutar told the court that Greef—who was on night duty as cell warder at the Marshall Square police headquarters—was paid £50 ($150) by Goldreich's relatives and promised a further £2,000 if he permitted the escape.

Yutar added that the escapees double-crossed Greef, because when he afterwards went to a man who was to pay him the promised £2,000, the man said he knew nothing about the matter.

Doctor Could Face Misconduct Charge

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto's chief coroner has recommended that a charge of medical misconduct be laid against a Toronto doctor by the College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Dr. Morton B. Shulman said Monday he had sent the recommendation to the college after investigating the death of Margaret Power, who died at 44 of breast cancer on May 8, 1962.

The college today declined to comment on Dr. Shulman's statements.

In a statement written and signed two months before her death Miss Powers said Dr. L. V. Roy had treated her with various serums, health foods and an electrical machine resembling short-wave apparatus. She said in the 10-page statement that at one time she was taking 14 kinds of health foods each day.

Dr. Roy, who graduated from the University of Montreal in 1950, said today: "If any claim is made against me I consider it grossly exaggerated and highly unjustified."

The coroner said he was asked to investigate by the College of Physicians and Surgeons and had found a "number of irregularities."

SETBACKS HIT MURDER PROBE

City police today are back almost to where they were nine days ago in their investigation of the George Down murder.

Their most promising lead in the case has led them nowhere.

A steel bar found in a downtown church has proved not to be the weapon used to murder the 17-year-old delivery boy in the Hudson's Bay Parkade almost four weeks ago.

And a 17-year old Victoria boy picked up in Calgary Sunday and brought back here for questioning has not been as much help in the investigation as police had hoped.

The youth ran away from home Friday after telling his parents he had information about the murder.

WON'T SAY

Detective Sergeant Bill Andrews refused to say what the boy has told police. But he said the information he gave is being investigated. There did not appear to be much optimism.

The youth was released in custody of his parents after being questioned.

The foot-long bar found in a collection box at Christ Church Cathedral nine days ago was the most hopeful lead.

It was sent to the RCMP crime detection laboratory in Vancouver for examination

Sgt. Andrews said conclusive tests there showed it definitely is not the murder weapon. He refused to disclose the tests which ruled it out as the murder weapon saying it is not customary to give out this information.

George Down's body was found badly battered on a ramp in the Bay Parkade Aug. 30. He had been seen several hours before his death in company with several young men in Coffee Mac's on Gorge Road.

Sgt. Andrews said detectives are still interviewing persons who knew Down during the last year or so.

Anti-Negro Charge Faces Toronto Youth

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Eight white men including a Toronto youth have been indicted by a special federal grand jury investigating interference with school desergregation court orders in Birmingham.

The indictments result from incidents which occurred when three Birmingham schools were desegregated Sept. 4 as pickets appeared at each school.

There was no widespread violence although several times police used force to restrain pickets protesting entry of five young Negroes in the three schools.

Named in the indictments were:

Edward R. Fields, 30, information director and leader of the pro - segregation National States Rights Party; Gerald Q. Dutton, 22; James K. Warner, 24; Barney M. Carmack Jr., 29; Jack Cash, 56, all of Birmingham, and Jesse B. Stoner, an Atlanta lawyer; Ralph Lewandowski, 18, Chicago; and David A. Stanley, 19, Toronto.

SETTLE IT LOCALLY

In Washington, President Kennedy expressed belief that Birmingham leaders, working with his special emissaries, can settle that city's racial problems at the local level.

The president met with the two special representatives, Earl (Red) Blaik and Kenneth C. Royall. He said they would go to Birmingham "to be of whatever assistance they can in restoring good communications between white and Negro communities in that city and in easing the racial tensions which now exist."

Kennedy conferred also with Birmingham civil leaders and Alabama religious leaders.

Mayor Albert Boutwell announced that a reward fund for the capture of persons responsible for recent racially - connected bombings in Birmingham had risen to nearly $80,000.

SUSPEND McDOWELL

At Oxford, Miss., Negro student Cleve McDowell was suspended by the University of Mississippi after he was arrested on a charge of carrying a pistol.

McDowell, 21, was jailed on a charge of carrying a concealed deadly weapon. University authorities said the suspension would remain in effect pending a school hearing.

be linked to the proposed northern trans-provincial highway and Alaska by ferry systems.

The northern highway also is included in the seven-year manifesto, involving construction of a paved highway from Jasper to Prince Rupert.

He said the new roads would make B.C. the leading tourist attraction on earth.

'I'M PROUD'

"They call us the hard-top government in derision, my friends, but I am proud of it," Mr. Bennett said.

"They call the others the washboard parties and the women have thrown the washboards away and not the washboard parties."

Mr. Bennett continued his bitter personal attacks against Tory Leader Davie Fulton in his Nanaimo speech, as he has done ever since he opened his campaign.

He said NDP Leader Robert Strachan's "Bond Street clothes" was an indication that Social Credit and not the NDP now was the party of the working man.

WERNER-GREN JIBE

Sharpest heckle to hit the premier broke into his sentence that "Fulton was certainly taken in . . ." with a biting "Wenner-Gren took you in."

The premier shot back that Wenner-Gren did not get a single acre of B.C. land through his dealings with the government.

"No—$10,000,000," yelled his tormentor.

"That's what we got from them, my friend," replied the premier.

When the heckler tried to toss another crack back, a Bennett supporter in the audience rose up and shouted him down.

11 years has insidiously taken over control of their industries."

Mr. Perrault said these industries were forestry, mining, oil and gas.

"These men and their industries, which are the rightful resources of all the people of this province, are now so tightly in Mr. Bennett's grasp that these men are willing to do anything — anything — he demands of them."

He said they hide behind front groups with names like the Free Enterprise Education Fund.

"The front groups should appear any day now."

"Where are the 10,000 jobs now in B.C.?" asked Mr. Perrault. "Where are the 10,000 jobs of Frank McMahon?"

B.C. voters should take care they do not make this election "an appointment with fear," Mr. Perrault said.

Mr. Perrault pledged that if elected the Liberals will immediately call a special session of the legislature to tackle what he called "the school finance crisis."

They would remove school taxes from property owners, he said.

In answer to a later question, Mr. Perrault said the Liberals would not eliminate the home-owner grant but "incorporate it in some much more meaningful tax relief."

He said his Point Grey candidate, Dr. Pat McGeer, was not really disagreeing with this when he said last week the Liberals would abolish the grant—"he said it more bluntly."

Appearing with Mr. Perrault were five of the six local candidates.

Oak Bay candidate Alan Macfarlane said Premier Bennet could not justifiably campaign against socialism, because he had taken so many socialistic steps himself — "what is there left?"

Victoria Liberal Michael Griffin said Social Credit gives "only a few stale crumbs" to local government but takes all the glory itself for local growth.

Bruce Humber, another Victoria candidate, said Social Credit's debt-free claims reminded him of TV commercials by finance companies.

Elizabeth Forbes, the third Victoria candidate, said Socred candidates have lost the look of dedication — "it has been superceded by a blank look."

Ian Stewart, the Saanich candidate, promised, if elected he would call a Saanich summit meeting of local government officials to discuss all the problems of the riding.

Senate Backs Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate ratified the history-making limited nuclear test-ban treaty today.

Approval of the pact banning nuclear weapons testing in the atmosphere, in outer space and underwater, came after more than two weeks of committee hearings and an equal time of Senate debate.

With a two-thirds vote of the 100-member senate required for approval, the resolution went through on a 80-to-19 roll call.

The treaty, signed at Moscow Aug. 5 by the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain, was sent to the Senate by President Kennedy Aug. 8 with these words:

"While it will not end the threat of nuclear war or outlaw the use of nuclear weapons, it can reduce world tensions, open a way to further agreements" and "help to ease the threat of war."

FEAR FOR SECURITY

Opponents contended it jeopardizes national security, freezes a Soviet advantage in high-yield weapons, and permits the Russians to continue development underground in the small weapons field where the United States now leads.

The treaty came under scathing attack from Senators Richard B. Russell (Dem. Ga.), chairman of the Senate armed services committee; John Stennis (Dem. Miss.), who heads its preparedness sub - committee, Strom Thurmond (Dem. S.C.) and others.

Russell expressed fears it might be the first step toward complete disarmament without the safeguard of inspection. He and the others said they were concerned that Soviet moratorium-breaking atmospheric tests in 1961 and 1962 put them at an advantage in high yield weapons, in anti-ballistic weapons system knowledge and in way to harden missile emplacements.

But, in the end an overwhelming majority of the Senate went along with the endorsement of the military joint chiefs of staff, who said that with four specified safeguards, the military "risks and disadvantages," were acceptable.

REASSURED BY JFK

Kennedy, in a letter read to the senate by Senator Everett M. Dirksenof Illinois, the Republican leader, gave the Senate "unqualified and unequivocal assurances" U.S. security would be protected under the treaty.

He gave assurances that the United States will meet the military's four points by continuing an aggressive program of underground testing, maintaining a healthy laboratory weapons development program, keeping up a readiness to resume atmospheric testing if the Russians cheat, and expanding and improving its facilities for detecting such cheating as well as checking on Sino - Soviet atomic progress.

Many proponents laid heavy stress on the curbs the treaty would put on radioactive fallout by halting atmospheric testing.

Kennedy, in this message, called it the "first concrete result of 18 years of efforts by the United States to impose limits on the nuclear arms race."

Senate approval was the last big hurdle the treaty had to clear before it could become effective. But there are still other steps necessary to put the pact in force.

The next major action by the United States will be the formal ratification of the treaty by President Kennedy. Officials said today that it should be possible for this step to be taken within a few days.

Finally, the treaty will become effective when instruments of ratification are deposited by the United States, Britain and Russia in each of their three capitals. This is an unusual procedure but one which the three nuclear powers agreed on when they negotiated the pact in Moscow in July.

SOCRED 'FRAUD'

Tory Charges Trickery

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dick Malkin, Progressive Conservative candidate in Vancouver Point Grey riding, Monday night charged the Social Credit party is fraudulently using a University of B.C. dean's name in the Sept. 30 provincial election campaign.

Mr. Malkin told an all-candidates meeting Monday that a newspaper advertisement featuring a statement from S. N. F. Chant, acting dean of arts at UBC, was a good example of what he called Social Credit "trickery."

He said the advertisement quoted Dean Chant as saying the Social Credit education program was "the most significant breakthrough in educational planning that has occurred in any province in Canada."

"This, ladies and gentlemen, is a fraud," Mr. Malkin said.

"We learned from Dean Chant this morning that his quotation is taken from a private letter to the minister of education last March.

Mr. Malkin said the quote concerned the government's implementing part of the Macdonald Report, which urged the formation of new universities in B.C.

"To take this quote out of Dean Chant's letter and make it appear as a blanket endorsement of Mr. Bennett's educational policy is plain and simple misrepresentation," Mr. Malkin said.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids . . . and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Davie Punctures Peace Dam Again

KIMBERLEY (CP) — E. Davie Fulton Monday night reduced the issues of the Sept. 30 provincial election campaign down to:

"Do you want the Peace dam so badly that nothing else really matters?"

He said in an election address in support of Progressive Conservative candidate Dr. Bill Green that nothing else really matters to Premier Bennett.

The Conservative leader said the money required for the Peace project would pay for two Columbia projects.

It would: build two tunnels across the English Channel; pay for three St. Lawrence seaways; represent a $4,000 mortgage on every home in B.C.

The money saved on the Peace would make three first-class highways, six first-class hospitals, four universities or would pay for all municipal services for 10 years.

He said B.C. could not have education, lower municipal taxes, Columbia power, new industries, portable pensions, medicare, agricultural research and processing industries and the Peace project as well.

"What I am trying to tell you is not just stop the Peace. It is get on with education. Get on with social justice. Get on with a new deal for the municipal taxpayer. Get on with industrial development Get on with a real, and honest attack on unemployment. Get on with financial stability. Get on with the Columbia.

Threat to French

ALGIERS (Reuters)—President Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria gave a clear hint Monday night he will nationalize remaining French property in Algeria if France carries out further nuclear tests in the Sahara Desert.

$2,000 JUMP IN REVENUES FOR FARMERS

MOOSE JAW (CP) — Two Liberal cabinet ministers entered the Progressive Conservative's Prairie stronghold Monday to tell farmers about the recently signed $500,000,000 wheat sale to Russia.

Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp said the agreement, arranged by the Canadian wheat board, will mean an increase in revenue of $2,000 each for the average wheat grower.

At the same time Agriculture Minister Harry Hays said farmers should trim wheat acreages, take a close look at domestic feed grain needs and plan diversified programs to avoid future burdensome wheat surpluses.

The ministers spoke to about 300 persons attending a Saskatchewan Farmers' Union meeting here.

YOUNG WIDOWS ARE SELDOM MERRY

Three young widows, each with small children, live on one relatively short street. They have another thing in common, unfortunately: they have all gone back to work to try and earn enough to keep their homes—and feed and clothe their school age youngsters.

Their lives are a far cry from that of opera's "Merry Widow".

Yet just 2 years ago the future looked bright for all three. Then a car accident killed one father, a heart attack the second, hidden cancer the third. All three men were in their early thirties!

One certain way to be sure your family can remain together as a unit with a "full-time" mother is through your purchase NOW of sufficient permanent personal life insurance. May we suggest you talk over your life and health insurance needs with a trained representative of The Excelsior Life Insurance Company, the Company helping Canadians help themselves to peace of mind.

Location Chosen For Courthouse

DUNCAN—Site for a proposed $500,000 courthouse-government building in Duncan was chosen by city council on Monday.

The property is near the present courthouse at Government and Station Street.

Mayor Jack Dobson said the government will be asked to accept the site which would be the core of a suggested civic centre to be developed over a period of years.

The government is expected to go ahead with construction next spring, he said.

A new courthouse was promised by the government six years ago, but it is only within the last year that council was pressed to find a site for the building.

Mayor Dobson said the civic centre would include an auditorium, municipal offices, library, council chambers, plaza display area, outdoor eating place and lawns.

It would cover about four acres, including parking spaces.

Mayor Dobson said details of the civic centre are being worked out by the newly formed city planning advisory committee under chairman J. H. Whittome.

DUNCAN—Maurice Girard, Duncan, was fined $30 in magistrate's court when he pleaded guilty to passing when it was unsafe.

Police said the charge had been laid as the result of a Sept. 14 accident caused when Girard attempted to overtake a V.I. Coach Lines bus while travelling up a hill near Nanaimo. An approaching car went out of control and struck the bus.

Accused told the court he had not seen a small car driving ahead of the bus. Damage amounted to $2,500.

DUNCAN—Members of the Duncan Aerie of Eagles were each presented with a memento from Aerie No. 1,269, Mt. Clemens, Michigan, by Herb Cross on Friday night.

Mr. Cross visited Mt. Clemens lodge during his return by auto from Toronto via Detroit, and was given a box of souvenirs for members of his own lodge.

NANAIMO — Police have positively identified the body of a man found floating Monday in Nanaimo harbor.

It was that of Christian Josephson, 65, who vanished from his Nanaimo home on Sept. 10.

NANAIMO — A bomb scare here two weeks ago has prompted school board officials to post watchmen at schools.

Additional staff was hired by the board at the senior secondary school after principal J. B. Litch received an anonymous telephone call warning him that a bomb was set to go off during school hours.

A subsequent search by school staff and RCMP did not turn up a bomb.

However, the board decided to take "preventive action" in the face of a bombing of a real estate firm several weeks ago.

Immigration Changes Due For Chinese

VANCOUVER (CP)—Sweeping changes in regulations governing the admission to Canada of Chinese immigrants were forecast Monday night by Immigration Minister Favreau.

He also said he will visit Hong Kong this year to investigate problems associated with the movement of Chinese immigrants to Canada.

"Before a policy satisfactory to this country and to the Chinese-Canadian community can be definitely worked out, there must be a clear understanding that absolute sincerity and conscientious adherence must apply to whatever new regulations are to be introduced," he said.

"The problem regarding illegal Chinese immigration to Canada can and must be solved."

Bad News for Clerks

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Gordon said Monday there are no plans to provide pay increases for 20,000 government clerks who were not included in last December's round of pay boosts. He said in a letter to the Civil Service Association of Canada that the clerks involved are receiving salaries comparable with those in private businesses.

The award was implemented during the weekend and ends a long-standing dispute on a new contract for the 130 employees.

Pension Boost Asked

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Council of Forest Industries has recommended a $10 increase in widows' pensions in a brief presented Monday to the royal commission on the Workmen's Compensation Act. Funeral Held For Leading City Singer

Funeral services were held this afternoon at McCall Bros.' chapel for Arthur S. Stringer, 3127 Fifth Street, who died Saturday in Royal Jubilee Hospital, age 56.

The body was cremated.

Mr. Stringer had been an employee of B.C. Forest Service for 37 years and a resident of Victoria for the past 20 years.

He was well known locally as a baritone and concert singer. He sang at the dedication of Cameron bandshell in Beacon Hill Park and appeared frequently as soloist with the Meistersingers and Arion Club.

He also had his own radio program and sang in many of the city's churches.

He is survived by the widow, Helen; two brothers, Jack in Vancouver and Frank in Penticton; a sister, Mrs. L. Ade of Vancouver, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stringer, in Nelson.

Unions Merge On Sour Note

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canada's newest union—the Canadian Union of Public Employees—was founded today with one sour note, the walkout of a 3,700-member Toronto local.

Al Sims, president of the Toronto local, said his group dissociated itself from CUPE because of opposition to increased union dues and lack of local autonomy.

The new union-founded from a merger of the National Union of Public Employees and the National Union of Public Service Employees—will embrace municipal employees, hospital workers, hydro men and others in municipal and provincial governments.

FANTHORPE:

It's Bargain Day With Tax Dollars

The tax dollar is the consumer's best buy today, New Democratic candidate Harry Fanthorpe told 30 persons in a Victoria campaign meeting Monday.

Medicare, automobile insurance and other benefits accruing from a New Democratic government would be paid for by the citizens.

"They wouldn't be free. These things will come from taxes, but they won't cost you as much (as they do now).

"The tax dollar is your best buy today," he said.

He spoke with running mates A. W. Toone and Dave Reimer at the Union Centre, Quadra Street.

It was the first public meeting held since the hall was officially opened Saturday. President E. T. Staley of Victoria Building Co-operative Union, owner of the building, welcomed the gathering.

FITTING

"It is very fitting that the first meeting should be for the New Democratic Party," he said.

Mr. Fanthorpe said newspapers have overlooked the reason Premier Bennett called an election for Sept. 30.

"It can't be proven, but I can draw no other conclusion," he said.

Since he is reasonably sure that Peace River development money is coming from the United Kingdom or Europe, and the premier's announcement came on the heels of his return from an unexpected visit to England, the candidate concluded that he had been turned down when he asked for more money.

MANDATE WANTED

"He was probably told he couldn't have more money without a five-year mandate from the people," he said.

Mr. Fanthorpe said Social Credit has not got a two-river power development policy because it intends to give one away.

He said Columbia development involves giving two million kilowatts of power to the U.S.

The province should assume full responsibility for service to persons, such as welfare, hospitals, arterial highways and general education services, except where a federal share is applicable, Mr. Toone advocated.

"This responsibility must be lifted from the backs of municipal taxpayers," he said.

The municipal tax struggle will otherwise get harder and harder to wage.

There should be a full-time labor minister; Bills 42 and 43 must be repealed, and full recognition must be given, with bargaining rights, to government employees, he said.

There should be an economic development corporation to provide B.C. with more skilled people and jobs such as electronics and plastics, halting the export of jobs to the U.S., Mr. Toone said.

Mr. Reimer accused the government of neglecting the crisis in higher education, quoting figures supplied by the UBC Alumni Association.

He said by 1971 there will be 37,000 students needing facilities at four universities and six two-year colleges, requiring an immediate expansion of graduate studies to provide the hundreds of additional faculty members.

He quoted the alumni association as saying the provincial grant to UBC had fallen short of requested money by $1,188,000, causing a reduced program.

PEOPLE DON'T WANT JAIL

Council to Forward Mental Home Protest

Saanich council Monday evening decided to forward to the attorney-general's department a 140-signature petition against the use of the Wilkinson Road mental home as any kind of jail.

Council also decided to:

Pay part of the costs of sending the Victoria Junior Shamrocks lacrosse team to Whitby, Ont., for the Minto Cup playoff.;

Put up a traffic light at Shelbourne and Cedar Hill Cross Road at a cost of $3,000;

And participate again in a radio series of municipal reports, even though two councillors indicated they would shun the program.

ASSURANCES

Reeve Stanley Murphy said Saanich has received assurances from the deputy attorney-general that the Wilkinson Road home would not be used as any kind of prison.

He suggested that sending the petition to the provincial government might tend to confirm that decision by indicating popular opinion.

Decision to participate again this year in the Municipal Report series presented by radio station CJVI was made on the understanding that two councillors who objected—Coun. Joseph Casey and Leslie Passmore—need not speak.

HILLBILLY NO. 1

"I want a letter of apology before I'll participate," said Coun. Casey. "I'm hillbilly number one."

(After Coun. Casey spoke on the program last winter, a news editorial commentator for the station referred to anti-amalgamation councillors as "Saanich hillbillies.")

"I don't know anyone who listens to it," said Coun. Casey.

Bigger Pie, Thinner Cuts Irks Jenkins

Saanich Socialist candidate George Jenkins told four listeners at the Lake Hill Community Hall Monday night that incomes, in relation to what the workers produce, have fallen.

He said the worker's slice of the pie has shrunk as the pie has grown.

"It is only natural that where the means of production and distribution is privately owned that any industrial improvements will primarily benefit the owners, not producers," he said.

Automation, bringing a huge increase in productivity of the workers, could only serve society when it is owned and controlled by society, "commonly and democratically, and this is the object of the Socialist Party."

TWO KILLED IN CRASH AT PT. HARDY

PORT HARDY—Two men were killed Sunday and four others injured when their car plunged off a bridge near this Vancouver Island community, 150 miles north of Nanaimo.

Dead are Harold Gordon Woods, 33, of Sudbury, Ont., and Ernest Webster, 27, of Rossland, B.C.

The six were employees of the Coast Copper Mine at nearby Benson Lake.

Police said the men were returning to Benson Lake when their car jumped a foot-high guard beam on a small bridge.

Woods is survived by a wife and children in Sudbury. Webster's mother lives in Rossland.

War Damage Remains

LONGWY (Reuters) — Guy Poirot, 18, claimed to be the only boy born in Ravensbruck concentration camp to have survived, was exempted from the French army draft by doctors here Monday. His health has remained precarious because of the lack of milk available for him after birth in the notorious Nazi camp.

Adult Education Program Expands

By AB KENT

The need for a full-range adult education centre in Victoria is underlined by the curriculum of Greater Victoria School Board's evening division, opening in two weeks time.

There is an ever-increasing demand for tailored industrial type courses, assistant director Alan Batey said today.

This supports the school board's theme that an adult education centre should be established to fulfill the educational needs of the community—not just vocational courses but the full range of subjects from academic to job training and hobbies.

For example, Mr. Batey pointed out, there is a new course being offered this year called Mechanics and Strength of Materials, introduced at request of the Society of Architectural and Engineering Technologists of B.C.

PROVIDE INSTRUCTOR

The shipyards asked for a trade course for which they are prepared to supply not only an instructor, but a class of students.

He pointed out a new course for parents to help them understand the homework of children being taught mathematics by a new system.

There is also one to teach hobbyists how to play a recorder.

But still the most popular courses are academic, with more than 600 people enrolled in credit courses, some of which are being taught during the day for the first time.

This is the 4-10 p.m. matriculation course, running full-time through the normal school year.

In addition other academic courses are being carried into Saturday morning, also for the first time.

Yet, it is the women of Greater Victoria who regularly constitute the largest single group in the general subjects: there are some 500 of them registered in sewing and dressmaking classes, where there are still a few openings.

DRESSMAKING

There are 31 dressmaking classes to accommodate women eager to keep down clothing costs and indulge a hobby at the same time.

The quality of instruction has much to do with popularity of the courses, adult division principal John Dalgleish feels.

To date, registration in general courses is 3,604 compared with 2,802 at this time last year. There are 277 classes in the program.

All told, with academic students included, registration was 6,225 last year.

"The day is long past since people thought of night school as a place to go to learn shellcraft," Mr. Batey said.

The shift of emphasis to academic pursuits is prompted largely by the fact that workers find themselves competing with graduating high school students who have potential for employers.

Leader Curtails Election Tour

VANCOUVER (CP)—Tommy Douglas, national leader of the New Democratic party is cancelling two British Columbia speaking engagements to return to Ottawa for the opening of Parliament.

NDP headquarters here said Monday Mr. Douglas will not speak in Fernie Sept. 27 or in Squamish Sept. 28.

The party chieftain was on a B.C. speaking tour to back NDP candidates running in the Sept. 30 provincial election.

Gov't Pension Fought By Insurance Agents

OTTAWA (CP)—The Life Underwriters' Association of Canada said today it has launched a vigorous campaign aimed at getting a "fluoroscopic examination" of the Canada Pension Plan before it is rushed into law.

Aubrey Oldham of Ottawa, association president, told a press conference the inquiry should be carried out by a parliamentary committee to resolve "conflicting professional opinions" on the proposed wage-related contributory pension plan.

"We are confused by the confusion of the experts," he said. The life insurance and trust companies on one side and the government on the other were defending their particular positions at this stage and "you don't get truth that way."

The association, representing some 11,000 insurance agents, said it has begun lobbying against the Canada Pension Plan. Members of Parliament were being approached individually. Special meetings were being held for insurance agents across Canada.

Mr. Oldham said the federal government should not be "pressing the panic button" on a scheme just because it was conceived during an election campaign for political benefit.

"We are looking 100 years ahead—not 10 years," he said.

Mr. Oldham and his colleagues said figures prepared by trust and insurance companuy actuaries show that contributions to the federal plan, starting at two per cent of a salary limit of $4,000 a year, wolud rise to between five and eight per cent in 10 years.

Mr. Oldham said one of the greatest arguments against the federal scheme is that it would force a reduction in private pension plans, draining off money now being invested by trust and insurance companies.

With the Canada Pension Plan not investing this money, but paying it out as soon as it came in, up to $500,000,000 a year would be taken out of the pool of Canadian investment capital.

"The economy and the level of employment would suffer accordingly."

TWO HOURS OF QUESTIONS

They Had a Ball At Port Renfrew

About 100 people crammed Port Renfrew Community Hall Monday evening for the biggest, most boisterous meeting so far in the Esquimalt campaign.

Three of the four candidates—Conservative Robin Dunsmuir was speaking elsewhere—spoke at the meeting, which broke up just before midnight.

For Port Renfrew, it was the biggest campaign meeting ever.

NDP candidate Geoff Mitchell called Port Renfrew the "most politically promised community in B.C."

"If all the pieces of all the broken promises made in the last 60 years about the West Coast Road were gathered up, there would be enough to build that breakwater in San Juan Bay," he said.

Socred incumbent Herbert Bruch said he hoped the West Coast Road would be surfaced with crushed rock in the near future, and blacktopped later.

He came under heavy fire from the audience during a two-hour question period.

Mr. Bruch was questioned at length about the labor laws introduced by the Social Credit government, about his stand on the B.C. Electric takeover, and about reconstruction of the road.

Liberal candidate Maurice Simard criticized Premier Bennett's behavior in the legislature.

He charged that the government is run by "approximately three men."

PLANT BLAST KILLS 14

CASERTA, Italy (UPI)—An illegal fireworks factory blew up in the heart of this southern Italian town today, killing at least 14 persons and injuring 20 others, at least nine seriously.

The injured included Antonio Mariniello, 57, the factory owner, who faces arrest if he recovers.

Police said the pre-dawn blast was caused by sparks which touched off a fire in the powder used in the factory. The fire spread to powder supplies and finished fireworks, which exploded with a roar that shook the town.

The factory was one of many clandestine fireworks plants in southern Italy. Italian law bans such factories in inhabited areas, but many are known to exist. Police seldom find them until they blow up, officials here said.

South Africa Sentences Policeman

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — Policeman Johannes Arnoldus Greef, 18, was sentenced today to six years in prison for helping South African political refugees escape from police cells here and accepting a bribe.

He was arrested after artist Arthur Goldreich and lawyer Harold Wolpe and two Indian political prisoners escaped while being detained under South Africa's 90-day "no trial" anti-subversion law.

Goldreich and Wolpe arrived in London Monday. The Indians, Moosa Moolla and Abdulhay Jassay were reported to be in Dar Es Salaam, Tanganyika.

The four men slipped through one of the biggest manhunts in South African history to cross into the neighboring British territory of Bechuanaland last month.

Transvaal Deputy Attorney-General Percy Yutar told the court that Greef—who was on night duty as cell warder at the Marshall Square police headquarters—was paid £50 ($150) by Goldreich's relatives and promised a further £2,000 if he permitted the escape.

Yutar added that the escapees double-crossed Greef, because when he afterwards went to a man who was to pay him the promised £2,000, the man said he knew nothing about the matter.

Viet Nam Denial

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—President Ngo Dinh Diem has sent a letter to Secretary-General U Thant charging that reports of repressive acts against the Buddhists in South Viet Nam are "nothing but an imperialist invention."

Doctor Could Face Misconduct Charge

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto's chief coroner has recommended that a charge of medical misconduct be laid against a Toronto doctor by the College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Dr. Morton B. Shulman said Monday he had sent the recommendation to the college after investigating the death of Margaret Power, who died at 44 of breast cancer on May 8, 1962.

The college today declined to comment on Dr. Shulman's statements.

In a statement written and signed two months before her death Miss Powers said Dr. L. V. Roy had treated her with various serums, health foods and an electrical machine resembling short-wave apparatus. She said in the 10-page statement that at one time she was taking 14 kinds of health foods each day.

Dr. Roy, who graduated from the University of Montreal in 1950, said today: "If any claim is made against me I consider it grossly exaggerated and highly unjustified."

The coroner said he was asked to investigate by the College of Physicians and Surgeons and had found a "number of irregularities."

Army Moving By Air

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. defence department announced today that an armada of 240 air force transport planes will carry a 15,000-man army armored division to Germany late next month in the biggest such long-range training operation ever undertaken. The massive airlift is expected to take three days.
